Eisenhower in Hospital —Stock Market Tumbles

Aged Man Killed In Car Crash

Chinese, 76, Sixth Fatality

Greater Victoria's sixth fatal traffic accident this year occurred shortly before 8 this morning when an elderly Chinese, Wah Pao Lee, 614 Fisgard, was in collision with a car driven by another Chinese at Government and Fisgard.

Police said Lee, about 76, apparently was crossing Government from the northeast to the northwest corner of the intersection as the other driver, 19-year-old Lawrence L. Y. Chan, 864 Pembroke, turned left from Fisgard to go north on Government.

Lee was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken by police ambulance.

STREETS WET

Chan was driving his father's late model car.

Streets were wet and a light rain was falling.

Death, believed to have been almost instant, is thought to have been due to head injuries.

33 ISLAND UNDERGRADS WIN UBC SCHOLARSHIPS

An announcement made today of winners of fellowships, scholarships and prizes at the University of B.C. showed that 33 Victoria and Vancouver Island undergraduates will receive awards.

Names of the honor students, their awards, are given in detail on Page 21 of this paper.

Summer Session Hinted by PM

Asks Opposition Not to Filibuster One Month's Money Bill Due Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Drew, replying to a plea today by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the Opposition permit speedy passage of a bill to replenish the "virtually exhausted" treasury, demanded instead that the prime minister say whether the government plans to adjourn Parliament soon for the summer.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the government had intended to suggest a summer adjournment.

But what had taken place was "of such a character we will have to reconsider that suggestion.

"I am sorry it is not possible at the present time to make any plans for the future course of the session," he prime minister said.

SERIOUS SITUATION

He said at the opening of today's Commons sitting that the two months' interim supply voted April 1 is "virtually exhausted."

Unless more money was voted by Parliament at an early date, many thousands of persons would be faced with inconvenience and even serious embarrassment.

If the opposition granted one month's interim supply it would in no way prevent it fighting the government as strongly as it wanted later.

Interim supply normally is granted the government periodically while the Commons is in session until all appropriations are approved by the Commons. This enables the government to pay civil servants and members of the armed forces and carry on other essential services.

There have been reports that the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF, still angry at the government's action in using closure to force through its pipeline legislation, would fight interim supply.

Mr. Drew and spokesmen for the CCF and Social Credit parties gave no immediate reply to the prime minister's request that they agree on Monday to grant a one-month interim supply.

Censure Move Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP) — A motion of censure against Speaker Rene Beaudoin, presented a week ago by Opposition Leader Drew during the stormy pipeline debate, was defeated in the Commons on a vote of 109 to 35.

Prolonged Liberal applause broke out as Speaker Beaudoin, who presided during the taking of the vote, announced in the customary way: "I declare the motion lost."

Liberal and Social Credit parties and Ross Thatcher (Ind. Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) supported the 44-year-old Speaker against the motion declaring he had subordinated the rights of Parliament during the gas pipeline fight.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members voted solidly for the motion.

No Heart Trouble Says White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's physician reported today that the president has a partial obstruction of the small intestine. He summoned four consultants to Walter Reed Army Hospital, including the Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was stricken with abdominal pains early today, and in the afternon was taken by ambulance from the White House to the army's Walter Reed Hospital.

The White House said physicians had diagnosed the trouble as an ileitis—inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine—and that "there is no indication of any heart trouble."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a cardiogram—a tracing of the heart action—would be taken at the hospital.

An army ambulance was ordered to the south side of the White House to receive the ailing president. It was accompanied fore and aft by a motorcycle escort.

Eisenhower could be seen lying in the ambulance. His hands were folded on his chest.

Reporters could not see whether the president was carried to the ambulance on a stretcher or walked.

STOCKS FIGHT BACK FROM $6 TUMBLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined sharply on news of President Eisenhower's illness.

Prices fell as much as $3 a share in the initial burst of selling.

The market wilted again and the tape fell behind as much as four minutes when news came that the president was in hospital. Losses stretched to around $6 a share before a recovery drive began in the market's final minutes.

Official White House Statement

At noon, Press Secretary Hagerty isued this statement:

"The president had an attack of ileitis (inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine).

"As a precautionary measure he is being taken to Walter Reed Hospital this afternoon.

"His blood pressure and pulse are good.

"He has no fever.

"There is no indication of any heart trouble."

Hagerty said the president has had one intraveneous injection of dextrose sugar. He said Dr. Snyder has called in Dr. Francis Pruitt, chief of medicine at Walter Reed, for consultation.

The press secretary said that the president has not been in severe pain but that there was some soreness.

Earlier, Hagerty had described the president's difficulty as an "upset stomach" and insisted "it is not an illness but an upset."

All of the president's engagements for the day were postponed. These included a morning cabinet meeting and a flight to his country home at Gettysburg, Pa., about noon.

'Upset' Preceded Sept. Seizure

Thursday night, Eisenhower attended the annual dinner of the White House News Photographer's Association.

The meal served to him was especially prepared on instructions from Dr. Snyder. It differed from that served to other guests chiefly in the absence of a rich soup and a sauce on a fillet mignon.

He appeared to enjoy himself, and told his hosts in a brief talk that he enjoyed the entertainment provided.

At the noon news conference, press secretary Hagerty said this is the first time Eisenhower has suffered a "stomach upset" since last Sept. 24. That day, before the White House announced the president had suffered a heart attack, his aides characterized the ailment as a "digestive upset."

Eisenhower was in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver for seven weeks after the heart attack. He then spent several weeks more at his Gettysburg estate, returning to his White House duties early in January.

Rockfall Ruins Big Hydro Plant

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An earth-shaking rockfall in the Niagara River gorge late Thursday took one life and left the huge Schoellkopf hydro-electric power station in tumbled-down ruins with an estimated loss of $100,000,000.

More than 40 employees of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. scrambled to safety along the precipitous face of the gorge as two of the station's three sections crashed into the wild river rapids behind them.

The rockfall wiped out the producer of 360,000 kilowatt power capacity in little more than a twinkling of an eye. Company officials were appalled by the loss.

Charles J. Wick, administrative vice-president in charge of Niagara Mohawk's western division, made the damage estimate after a preliminary investigation. He said the water was raging through the remaining third of the station, 10-feet deep in places.

But there was no expectation of another rockfall comparable in size in the immediate future, since the gorge above the remaining section is covered to its 220-foot-high lip by a man - made, reinforced masonry wall.

There was no estimate of the size of the rockfall, but the "bite" from the wall of the gorge was more than 500 feet wide and the weight of the rubble probably ran well into the thousands of tons.

Lost in the maelstrom of rocky debris was Richard A. Draper, 39, of nearby Lewiston, a machinist. Two companions saw him disappear in the cascading remnants of powerhouse walls.

HAD SOME WARNING

Draper and the others had been working feverishly sandbagging a leak at the base of the station. The seepage had been discovered only hours earlier. The staccato reports of cracking walls warned the men that the end of the building was near.

"All I know is that the walls and ceiling started to come down and I ran like hell," said Chris Nelson, 25, one of the crew. "I didn't stop for anything. I was really scared."

The station was hit by three earth - shaking slides which followed each other in rapid order starting just before 5.30 p.m. When it was over, the six turbine generators in the two sections were buried in debris at the foot of the 220-foot gorge.

The destroyed generators, all used in Niagara Mohawk's 25-cycle service for heavy industry, had a total capacity of 200,000 kilowatts. The sudden loss of power brought much of the area's big chemical industry to a halt.

All power in this highly industrialized city of 100,000 was instantly cut off. But a gradual return began within two hours as the company drew in power from its central division, from steam plants and from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission across the river.

Officials of the Canadian power firm lost no time in offering their services to Niagara Mohawk.

J. Russell McCullough, regional manager of Ontario Hydro, said that more than 230,000 kilowatts was sent to the United States as soon as commission officials learned of the rockfall.

"We just switched all available power over there," he said.

More than 40 persons escaped from the plant before it fell. Two

RAIN RUINING BERRY CROP IN SAANICH

Continual rain and damp weather since the start of June threatens to ruin a $400,000 bumper strawberry crop in Saanich.

Picking has been brought to a standstill throughout the Saanich peninsula and mould has started to spread rapidly through crops.

Herbert Bickford, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association, said today the industry already has lost between $100,000 and $150,000 as the result of the rainy weather.

"It will ruin the whole crop if it continues much longer," he said. "Even green berries are turning mouldy in the fields."

ONE INCH

The Saanich peninsula has had over an inch of rain since June 1.

The prospects of warmer weather within the next few days are poor and growers feared the damp weather will wipe out shipment of fresh strawberries to the Prairie provinces.

The industry ships an average of about 50 carloads—400,000 crates—to eastern Canade. This does not include jam berries.

Weatherman William Mackie has forecast unsettled weather for the next two days with possible scattered showers Saturday and Sunday. Victoria, he said, has received almost an inch of rain since June 1, but in the outlying districts the precipitation has been much heavier.

The rain struck just as the strawberry season opened and wiped out the possibility of sending early shipment of berries to the Prairies.

Jackson Has 15½-Lb. Edge For Tonight's Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson had a 15½-pound weight advantage at today's weigh-in when he scaled 193½ to young Floyd Patterson's unexpectedly-light 178 for their heavyweight contenders fight tonight.

(Fight will be televised on Channel 4, KOMO, starting at 7 Victoria time.)

CROSSWORD PRIZE $250; THOUSANDS FAIL AGAIN

It is eight weeks now since a Times' crossworder came up with a completely correct answer to the popular puzzle so the prize for this week climbs to $250.

"Red" was the little word that caused much of the trouble last week. The clue said: "It's nice to contemplate a nice warm ———." Most contestants gave "Bed" as the answer but a warm bed would not always be nice to contemplate—in the tropics, for example. On the other hand a nice warm "red" is truly nice to contemplate. If it were not, you would not refer to it in such pleasing terms.

Complete answer and explanation of last week's puzzle and a new contest for this week appear on Page 29 of today's Times.

IS DAT DA PREEM ON DA SCREEN?

Carnera Hasn't Seen Picture He's Suing for $1.5 Million

By an odd coincidence, one of a series, former world heavyweight boxing champion Primo Carnera arrived in Victoria this morning, just as the boxing movie "The Harder They Fall" opened at a Victoria theatre.

Primo and the movie also arrived in Seattle and Vancouver at the same time.

The picture is said to be a sensationalized version of Primo's fabulous arrival on the fight scene when he traveled to the U.S. from a little village in Italy, all 260 pounds of him, and in a blink of a press-agent's eyelash, won the heavyweight title.

The movie version, drawn from Budd Schulberg's novel of the same name, paints a ghastly picture of a South American giant named Toro Molina who is "adopted" by a set of mobsters who exploit his huge body and, in a succession of rigged fights, ballyhoo Molina into a bout with the current champion.

Molina takes a horrible beating at the hands of the champion, who has not been bought off by the gamblers. Molina, a penniless, shattered wreck of a man, is dumped after the mobsters have made a small fortune out of him.

Carnera's lawyer in Los Angeles has filed a $1,500,000 damage suit against the studio releasing the picture, claiming that the plot ridicules Carnera by suggestion and innuendo.

But the funny thing is, Primo has not even seen the picture yet.

Sitting in a downtown hotel room this morning, the massive (6' 6½," 280-pounds) Carnera said, "What about that picture, it doesn't mean anything to me. I haven't seen it yet. Maybe I will go today and see what it is all about.

"If I am suing them, I should see it."

Them rainmakers may find themselves in a jam along with the strawberries.

FOR TALK HERE

Fire Monty, MP Urges

Statements made here by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery during his visit to Victoria last week reverberated in the British House of Commons today.

Denis Healey, Labor member of Parliament, urged that Viscount Montgomery be dismissed from his post as deputy supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

He gave notice he would ask the minister of defence in the Commons next week to request the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to end his appointment because Montgomery's public statements "are not compatible with NATO policy."

At Patricia Bay air port on June 1, Montgomery said if anyone anywhere in the world started aggression "we should give them the works from the word go with atom bombs, hydrogen bombs, with the biggest thing we've got and with everything we've got."

The field marshal added he was speaking as a soldier and did not know what "my political masters" would say about it.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

FATHER IN HEAVEN help us to know and recognize our sins for what they are, and give us the resolution to cleanse ourselves of the petty faults which mar our nature and bring concern and hurt to those who love us; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

. . . ROCKFALL

men trapped on the side of the gorge were rescued by a power launch owned by the Maid of the Mist Company.

The men were unable to move from their perch on the gorge as searing flames from the wrecked plant cut off one route and a bridge abutment sealed off the other. The men were directly below the power station.

The launch set out from the Canadian side and noticed the plight of the two men as it searched the river.

A company official speculated that the collapse was caused by a seepage of water into rock crevices between the face of the gorge and the hydraulic canal which fed water into the station. He suggested that there had been an "earth movement" in the area.

MINOR EARTHQUAKE

Dr. Austin C. McTigue, in charge of the Canisius College seismograph in Buffalo, agreed with the "earth movement" idea, saying he believed there had been a minor earthquake. He said Niagara Falls is in an area subject to "adjustments" in the earth's surface.

There was no immediate indication today whether Niagara Mohawk will go right ahead with a replacement project—which might cost well over $50,000,000 at current construction costs. Power needs of the area, however, indicate that some means of restoring the supply level quickly must be found.

Authorities said a full inspection of the remains will have to be made before any decision is reached.

Arena Planning 'Rock and Roll' Summer Dances

Arrangements are underway at Memorial Arena for a series of summer dances featuring instruction in the recent "rock-and-roll" craze.

Rock and roll succeeded jiving, which succeeded jitterbugging, which succeeded the Charleston which succeeded the tribal dances of the Zulus, according to one popular train of thought. Some students of the dance think the cycle is now almost complete.

Manager Joe Dukowski says tentative plans are for Saturday night 8 to 11 dances with a student admission of 50 cents, starting June 30. He hopes to bring here as instructor Claudette Avres, who was 12 years with Ziegfield Follies, and some of her prize dance students who took part in a similar instruction in Spokane.

Special lighting and curtains will be installed and music will be "piped in" from a Spokane radio station, with co-operation of a local station. A Victoria dancing academy will provide instruction also during the season.

PGE Will Pay, Rotarians Told

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway from now on is going to pay back to British Columbians their long-time investment in it, William Anderson, PGE official, told the Rotary Club here Thursday.

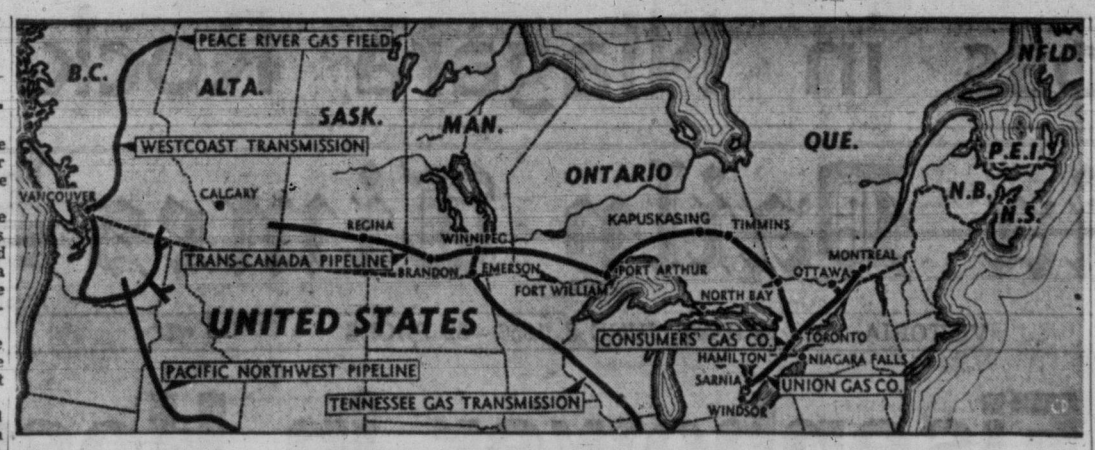
"We're going to be making a profit," he predicted.

The extension between Squamish and Vancouver will be "running full blast before the summer is out," he said, and it was expected steel will be laid from Prince Rupert to Dawson Creek by December, 1957.

Business already is far in advance of forecasts, he said.

Thrown Baseball Kills Schoolboy

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — Gary Bitely, 12, was injured fatally Thursday when struck on the head by a baseball in a game during gymnasium period at a grade-school playground. Police said Gary was hit while running for first base after hitting the ball into the infield. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bitely, he died of a skull fracture.



CANADA'S BIG PIPELINE ROUTES

This map shows natural-gas pipelines being built or projected in Canada and their connections with United States lines. The big line of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. starts near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border and runs eastward to Montreal. The Westcoast Transmission Co. pipeline from the Peace River gas fields to Vancouver is nearing completion and there are plans to link it with the U.S. Pacific Northwest system.

SIGNING OF PIPE BILL WAS NO FORMALITY

OTTAWA (CP) — Signing of the trans-Canada pipeline agreement turned out to be no mere formality.

The cabinet, meeting in Prime Minister St. Laurent's office, went over the wording of the agreement.

Lawyers posed technical questions.

Then, when the cabinet okay was given, legal men said the company signers—Trans-Canada president N. E. Tanner and secretary A. D. Nesbitt—must be informed in their office, and only in their office, that the agreement was ready to be signed.

Mr. Tanner and Mrs. Nesbitt took off in a taxi for their legal office five blocks away. Then Col. M. W. Kynch, secretary of the corporation, followed them and gave them the legal message on their premises.

They returned immediately and the signing began—about two hours after the principals had been summoned.

IT'S SOMETHING OF A HABIT

Old 'Granite Face' Gets His Own Way

By DON PEACOCK

OTTAWA (CP)—Out of his hearing, some call him "granite face." To his face, others use the more affectionate "C.D." But no matter what you call him, Clarence Decatur Howe is a power in the land.

And at 70 he has lost none of the drive that made him a millionaire at 40, and a member of the federal government just nine days after his first crack at politics in 1935. He's never sat anywhere in Parliament except on the cabinet bench.

CENTRAL FIGURE

More often than not, he has been the centre of controversy.

As for the names he's called and the frequent accusation that he prefers his own rules to Parliament's, Mr. Howe added: "That's all part of the game. It's the first time the Tories have had something to kick about, and they're kicking."

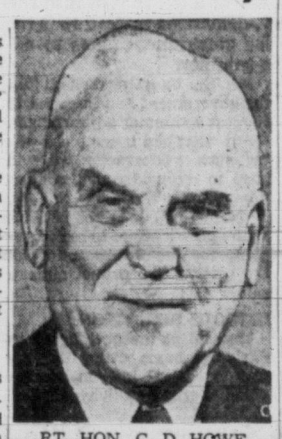
During a hot debate the white-haired, craggy-faced minister slouches in his seat, crosses his legs, leans his neck against the back of his chair and props a knee against his desk.

SELF-CONTAINED

He listens and looks, peering from under his shaggy brows. If the speaking member is provocative, he will growl out interjections.

He relishes a fight, but frequently in the middle of one he steps out for a smoke. In the theatre they might call it scene-stealing. His stroll up the aisle is done with arresting casualness. He is already fumbling for his cigarettes—one is usually in his mouth, unlit, before he disappears behind the curtains along the side of the chamber.

When he speaks in the Commons, he pauses readily to hear interjections and questions, sometimes asking that they be repeated. His replies are often spiced with references to members as "junior" or "buster."



RT. HON. C. D. HOWE

Mr. Howe is an engineer and proud of it. He made his fortune buliding grain elevators in western Canada before his entry into politics as Liberal member for Port Arthur in 1935.

On this aspect of the minister, John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) said that during the pipeline debate that just because Mr. Howe is an engineer he "can't ditch, dam and drain all parliamentary privilege in one afternoon."

Of all his projects, the gas pipeline might be his biggest. He told the reporter it is the "greatest project in the country." And more than once he has told the Commons that the $375,000,000 project will involve an additional $1,000,000,000 in subsequent developments.

It might also be his last major undertaking. He hinted at retirement a few nights ago in the Commons.

"I am getting on in years and this may be the last big project which I will be called on to undertake for the government of Canada," he said.

Pipeline Builders Hunt Men, Equipment

Race Starts to Get Construction Started On Huge Project; Fund Drive Being Mapped

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Telegrams were speeding across the continent today to line up about 2,500 experienced and hard-to-find pipeline builders and approximately $10,000,000 worth of mechanical monsters to lay pipe from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border into Winnipeg by the year end.

The race is on to get the prairie section of the pipeline into Winnipeg on or before Dec. 1 to meet a Dec. 31 deadline for having Alberta natural gas available commercially in Winnipeg.

With the pipeline battle now ended on Parliament Hill there was a sense of relief among government supporters. Opposition members—CCF and Progressive Conservatives—were determined neither to forgive nor to forget the government's heavy-handed tactics in riding the pipeline bill roughshod through Parliament.

Thursday night at 9.30 the government won its race to have the agreement signed, sealed and delivered before midnight June 7.

NEW DEADLINE

Another deadline must now be met. Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will seek to raise sufficient funds from the Canadian public and from other investors to repay the $80,000,000 loan the company will receive from the federal treasury under the pipeline law. The company must raise the money before April 2, 1957. The company will be raising more than the $80,000,00 in order to build the line links through to Toronto and Montreal.

Nathan Tanner, president of Trans-Canada, said Thursday he "hoped" to be going into the market to raise funds before the year end. He stressed that the $80,000,000 was only a "loan" not a "gift" from the treasury.

"The government is either going to get its money back with 5 per cent interest or it is going to get a pipeline for 90 per cent or the cost of it. We are gambling the $15,000,000 we have invested that we can build it and repay this money," he said.

Government Aid to Buy Fodder Asked by B.C. Dairy Farmers

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Fraser Valley dairy farmers will approach the provincial government for assistance to meet the current hay emergency.

Close to 400 dairymen, meeting here Thursday night, gave unanimous support to three resolutions.

Because almost $4,000,000 worth of hay will have to be brought into the Fraser Valley this year, farmers will ask that the government declare "a disaster area" and provide a subsidy for all hay costs over $25 a ton.

The dairymen are also asking for immediate implementation of formula pricing and the equalization provisions of the new milk act.

And the government will also be asked to enact "emergency loan legislation" to assist the dairy farmer in his purchase of hay.

The recommendations will be taken first to the special meeting of reeves and mayors in the Fraser valley at New Westminster next Wednesday night.

Most speakers were insistent that dairy farmers will need assistance in buying the hay.

IN PARLIAMENT

'This Is Tragedy' Declares CCF Member

(From Times News Services)

A note of sad regret rang persistently through Opposition speeches Thursday as the Commons considered an unprecedented censure motion by Opposition Leader Drew against Speaker Rene Beaudoin.

"There have been many members who, in the course of this debate, have said this is a tragedy," said Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North), "and this is so, and in a personal way."

He had held, with others, a genuine respect for Mr. Beaudoin even when he thought he was wrong at times.

"You had raised the prestige of the speakership; you were our Speaker," he told Mr. Beaudoin, who occupied the chair during much of the debate.

But, he added, the Speaker "made a mistake which is almost unforgivable because you impaired the rights of the opposition as we saw them."

Finance Minister Harris said the censure motion is little more than a reminder that some members disagree with Mr. Beaudoin.

Speaker's rulings are subject to appeal, said the government House leader. Voting on such appeals usually went along party lines.

He wondered, therefore, whether any useful purpose could be served by the censure motion "except to continue to remind the Speaker that there are members in the House who disagree with him and nothing much beyond that."

The censure motion arose last Friday after Speaker Beaudoin ruled out of order a motion the previous night by Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) that two letters printed in the Ottawa Journal be censured by the House as being derogatory to Parliament. That Thursday night, Mr. Beaudoin had allowed Mr. Drew to begin speaking on Mr. Cameron's motion.

Mr. Drew's censure motion says Mr. Beaudoin took unprecedented action in reversing one of his decisions without notice, in repeatedly refusing to allow members to state points of order and in subordinating Parliament's rights to the government's will.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC, Esquimalt-Saanich), said he appreciates deeply "the ordeal to which Mr. Speaker now has been subjected."

General Pearkes, however, like other opposition speakers in the day-long debate, also had his criticism: "The events of the last few days have shown that his honor the Speaker and his deputies have not permitted equality before this chair."

Lured by Play on Vanity, Ambition

Mr. Pearkes accused Mr. Beaudoin of allowing himself to be lured from his duty by a play on his vanity and ambition.

General Pearkes said it is written: "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not."

Some time between last Thursday night and Friday morning "his honor the Speaker was enticed and his honor gave consent."

During the speech Mr. Pearkes revealed he considers the word "Tory" insulting. He said Mr. Harris speaking in Monday's consideration of the motion did his best to provoke opposition members by insulting them.

Mr. Harris had used terms "which no Cabinet minister should stoop to use." Seven times he had referred to the Progressive Conservative party "in derogatory terms."

"'Tory party,' he said, in a sneering tone, 'Tory party'." Gen. Pearkes said the name "Tory" was given to the Conservatives in the United Kingdom more than 200 years ago.

"It was an insulting name drawn from a small band of Irish bandits."

Later Mr. Harris said he apologizes if he offended Gen. Pearkes in referring to the Conservatives as the Tory party.

However, Hon. Earl Rowe (PC-Dufferin-Simcoe) was known to refer to Liberals as Grits. These were old terms and had a certain amount of affection in them.

'Subjected to Persuasion, Pressure'

Mr. Cameron said the government is trying to create the impression Speaker Beaudoin was in doubt about his censure motions against the newspaper letters on the night the motion was presented. That represented a continuation of the government's determination that the speaker "shall be made the goat."

The speaker had clearly indicated that night that his motion was in order. Mr. Cameron said he can think of only one reason for the speaker ruling it out next day—that he "must have been subjected to persuasion, to pressure, to evil counsels of some sort."

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) charged that "my pal, Mr. Speaker Louis Rene Beaudoin," broke several rules of the House on the fateful morning of Friday, June 1, in reversing a previous decision.

He said Mr. Beaudoin broke one rule in "rising discourteously" in the midst of a speech by Mr. Drew and ruling that a motion by Mr. Cameron on which Mr. Drew was speaking, was out of order.

He said the speaker broke another rule in refusing discussion on his decision. He had denied Mr. Drew the right he had to explain a point of order he himself had raised.

Labor Day Saanich's Fete Date

50th Birthday Party Scheduled

Saanich 50th anniversary will be celebrated on Labor Day with a program of sports at Beaver and Elk Lake, a council jubilee committee decided Thursday.

The committee originally planned to hold the celebrations at the Saanichton fair grounds on July 2, but was unable to obtain the site for that date.

Coun. T. J. O'Neil, chairman of the committee, said members of pioneer families, past councillors, reeves, civic and provincial government officials will be invited to the celebrations.

HONORS PIONEERS

The program to honor the pioneers of the municipaity, he said, will include pony rides and free ice cream and soda pop for the children, sports, and possibly an Indian war canoe race between the East and West Saanich Indian bands.

Trade Deal With Japan Announced by Moscow

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio reported that a trade deal was signed Thursday between a Co-Operative Consumers Company of Japan and the Soviet Co-Operatives Union. The broadcast said the Soviet co-operative sold the Japanese a consignment of timber and fabrics. Value of the deal was not disclosed.

QUITTING POLITICS — Angus MacInnis, dean of the CCF members in the Commons, is retiring after 26 years in parliamentary life. The 70-year-old member for Vancouver-Kingsway, known as the elder statesman of his party, said Thursday poor health forces his decision.

Mr. MacInnis, a native of Glen William, P.E.I., has represented Vancouver ridings in the Commons continuously since 1930.

Oil Shares Tumble As Sale Probed

LONDON (CP) — A selling wave sent Trinidad Oil shares tumbling shortly after London stock exchange opened today.

About £7,000,000 in paper values were wiped out in a few minutes following reports that the Eden government may block the proposed sale of the British-owned firm to the giant American Texas Company.

The fall wiped out about a third of the gain recorded Thursday on news of the Texas bid.

The deal has been opposed by both Conservative and Labor Members of Parliament, and the Conservative newspaper Daily Mail predicts that the government will lay down conditions which may scuttle the proposed purchase.

The Daily Express has reiterated its opposition to the American bid, saying that it would be "selling a birthright of British children."

"Already the Americans are dominating the development of Empire oil in Canada. They are pouring in dollars there.

"And always the plea is that Britain would do the job if only there were British capital to spare.

"Yet in the middle of these lamentations at losing this country's share of Canadian oil to the Americans, it is proposed to sell them one of Britain's own oil interests there too. For the Trinidad company has a big stake in Canadian oil."

Another Look at Insurance

EARLY THIS YEAR THE FEDeral Government agreed to inaugurate a system of national hospital insurance provided the provinces, or most of them, would pay roughly half the cost. Until they faced these costs the provincial governments were enthusiastic about hospital insurance, but their enthusiasm seems to have cooled. Only British Columbia and Saskatchewan have formally agreed to embark on this scheme, though Alberta apparently is willing to accept it.

Most curious of all is the attitude of Ontario. The Frost Government was mainly responsible for driving the Federal Government into a general insurance policy. Before his last election Premier Frost demanded such a scheme and directed on Ottawa, with the support of Mr. Paul Martin, all the political pressure of our largest province. When offered a federal proposal he appeared to lose his interest very suddenly.

He and other provincial government leaders realized that they would have to levy new taxes to finance the provincial cost of insurance and that prospect gave them second thoughts. As a result, the whole project has been stalled, at least temporarily.

If it remains stalled much longer the eleven Canadian governments will have to take another look at it. Perhaps they have been attempting to do too much, too quickly—more at any rate than the provincial taxpayers in many provinces are prepared to pay for at the moment.

The scheme as drafted would cover everybody, even that large part of the population which already has insured itself through the Blue Cross or other agencies, at relatively low cost. (In Ontario 70 per cent of the population is thus privately insured for hospital service.)

The real problem is not to protect those already insured but those who cannot afford insurance. This is a small part of the population and in one way or another the state must finance its hospital treatment.

If we cannot launch the universal scheme devised by Mr. Martin and approved with grave misgivings by his colleagues, we might well consider a modest start along lines once suggested by Mr. Frost.

He then proposed a system of "disaster" insurance. That is to say, the state would pay all costs of illness above a certain amount, within the ordinary man's means. Then no prolonged illness could ruin him, as it can ruin him now in most provinces.

An approach of that sort may seem inadequate in British Columbia, where we enjoy complete hospital coverage, but we have to remember that most provinces are not as rich as we are and cannot afford our level of public services. We should remember also that the cost of the national insurance policy now proposed would add a large new burden to the federal budget, to which the people of all provinces must contribute.

Regardless of theoretical arguments, the hard fact is that Mr. Martin's scheme has bogged down and unless the provincial governments change their minds we shall have to revise it or continue to postpone national hospital insurance indefinitely.

Mr. Stevenson Out in Front

MR. ADLAI STEVENSON HAS come smilingly triumphant from the "showdown" Democratic primary in California. His victory there establishes him well in the front of others running for the nomination and virtually eliminates Senator Estes Kefauver.

The decision does not, however, guarantee Mr. Stevenson the nomination at the national party convention in Chicago. On the basis of pledges given him to date, he is the most popular Democrat among Democrats. But if he has disposed of his most active competitor, Senator Kefauver, he has still to meet the challenges of New York's Governor, Averell Harriman, the so-called radical whose stand on the segregation issue has jarred the South, and Senator Lyndon Johnson, majority Senate leader, whose effective work has marked him as a politician of high ability.

At this distance, Mr. Stevenson's prospect of winning the nomination appears good. He has shown himself to be a figure of outstanding calibre and versatility. His campaign this year has been an effective demonstration that he is not the mere "egg-head" he had been dubbed. He has shown that he can reach the people, not remain above the majority of them. And his record so far indicates that he has much better tnan a fighting chance to win the nomination that was virtually thrust upon him in the last presidential election.

He has yet to prove that he has more than a hope of winning the presidency. According to the polls, President Eisenhower is still well ahead of the Democrats' front-runner.

The Leopard and the Spots

THE NIGHTTIME ARREST AND sudden demise of the Soviet secret police head, Lavrenti Beria, are still in mind. Beria's execution was the first dramatic act of the Malenkov-Khrushchev regime in its campaign to repudiate Joseph Stalin and his ways.

The Western opinion that Beria deserved his abrupt end did much to smooth over the fact that the manner of his death was in exactly the same style as so many of the deaths he himself had caused. The Okrana-Ogpu-MVD methods still lived on.

Since then the Soviet Government has done much to impress on the West that the old days are no more. The Russian public has much more freedom, and, according to official statements issued a few days ago in Moscow, the old arbitrary laws of arrest and imprisonment have been amended.

But there still seems to be something vital lacking in Soviet justice, for recently the West heard of the execution of a former security chief reputed to have been "one of the top 14 men in Russia after Stalin's death," along with three other officials.

The Soviet newspapers carried no reports on the trials of these men. There was no indication that they had received public trials. But a small item to the effect that they had been executed appeared in the Baku Worker.

The newspaper authorities of Russia are frequently on record with the assertion that Soviet papers ignore the trivial aspects of the news and publish only the important facts. Surely the execution of one of the country's top officials for serious crimes should fall within the latter category. Yet for the Soviet man in the street this important bit of history did not exist.

Such incidents do nothing to convince the West that Russia has changed inherently under the new leadership. It may well be that reform is on the way, but it is a long way. And it will be deeds, not words, that tell the real story.

Ducking the Tolls

THE PROBLEM MAY BE ACAdemic only to British Columbians, but the experience of Pennsylvania with its main toll road is interesting.

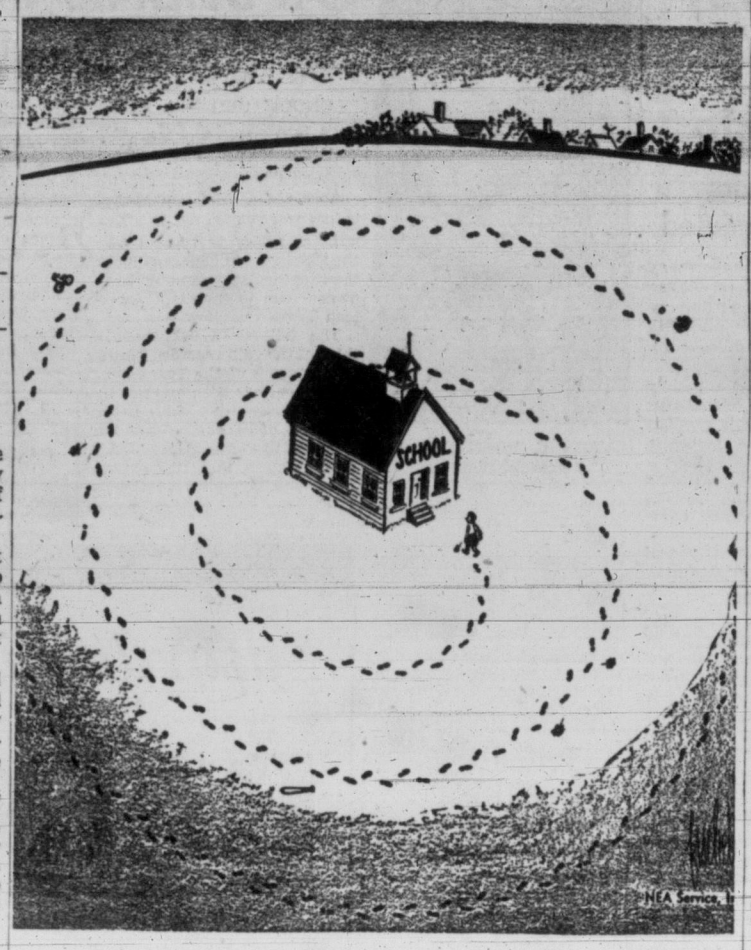
That state has found that its estimates of revenue from private cars and from trucks—the latter paying more—have been too optimistic. The extended and costly turnpike is not yielding the returns expected because truckers are using only a section of it and turning off to free roads as soon as they can.

As a result authorities in that state are raising the toll on private cars 41 per cent and cutting the charge against trucks by 20 per cent, hoping thereby to bring in a larger sum of money by encouraging truckers to use the road for longer hauls.

A similar problem might confront British Columbia but for an automatic safeguard on the toll bridges it has on the books. Presumably no alternative means will be available to go from one place to another.

The matter still deserves some attention in this province. Experience has proved below the border that time-saving and convenience are not an absolute guarantee of public support for traffic aids on which tolls are charged. There are those who will still believe that a penny saved is a penny earned—an axiom which authorities should keep in mind in future toll planning here.

Footprints in the Sands of Springtime



Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

LAST week in the news from Vancouver (where X marks the scene of quite a few crimes) there were two items which I read almost simultaneously. They make a nice pair. In one item, Magistrate Oscar Orr was saying that when youngsters turn into nocturnal nomads in cars of their own, driving round and round in a search for excitement, their search quite often ends in court. To name only two activities, there are quite a few of them in Vancouver who have to spend a good many evenings stealing gasoline and car-parts.

Brock

In the other item, Dr. R. G. E. Richmond, Oakalla Prison medical officer, is quoted as telling a Burnaby audience that over-zealous parents tend to deprive the child of all rights when disciplining him, and rebellion naturally follows. In a few cases it is true that mere zeal alone can produce a dangerous rebellion. But there are other sorts of cases. Let me name a few . . . just offhand, for I am no scholar along these lines. There is the case where the tough discipline comes too late, and is an effect of the rebellious child rather than a cause of him . . . later, in prison, the child finds it convenient to blame his parents' final act of desperate severity, and to pretend they were always strict.

THEN there is the case where the parents are sadists, or at least enjoy chucking their weight about . . . they like to feel powerful and efficient, especially in front of witnesses. The word "zeal" hardly covers their mental state, and the word "discipline" doesn't cover their deeds at all. They are simply bullies. Again, there is the case where rebellion (up to a point) is extremely good for the child, so that nobody need complain about it. If, of course, his rebellion takes the form of getting himself into trouble, the joke is on him . . . he has turned out to be just as stupid as his parents.

And of course, stupid parents will often (but not always) have stupid children, whether they are harsh or lenient. As everyone has noticed, nice people often have nasty kids, nasty people often have nice kids, and sometimes the kids are just like the parents, nice or nasty.

AGAIN, you can split this up still further, and observe that while some strict nice people have nasty kids and some lenient nice people have nice kids, it can work the other way round, so that some strict nice people have nice kids while some lenient nice people have nasty kids.

I should think one of the arts of being a parent is to know when to be strict and when to be lenient, and not to be all one or all the other. In most branches of human conduct you are kept busy with a see-saw effect. I suppose you should also know when to praise and when to blame. And when to explain and when to let the kid find out the hard way. And, in short, to have some sort of sense of the fitness of things . . . some ability to deal with occasions as they arise.

AS I am sure I have told you before, one small but useful tip is this. If a child expects to get away with anything really gross, spank him, but if he expects a spanking, be nice to him. This may not work a million times running, but it does work wonders. In other words, if he thinks you a fool, spank him; if he thinks himself a fool, don't.

Well, it is a huge subject, and this is no place for it. But I'd like to remark, in the gentlest manner in the world, that of the half-dozen most successful personalities I know, no two had parents who would have agreed on what is strict and what is not. In my opinion, all of them had rather strict parents, sometimes quite foolishly so, but I may well be wrong. And for all I know, the way these exceptional personalities grew may have been largely luck, with too many factors for me to guess at. It is certainly true that when these exceptional personalities had brothers and sisters, the results throughout the family were anything but uniform.

IN ANY event, you can't persuade me that every nocturnal nomad is caused by discipline and a denial of his rights (I don't even know what his rights are). Nor is every fifteen-year-old who gets to bed to-night before midnight being tempted there by leniency alone. Just for variety, some of the kids at home will have parents who are rather harsh, and some of the kids roaming the roads will have parents who make no demands on them at all. In fact, it is often the nomads who are a bit harsh with their parents. The parents say "Where are you going?" and the nomads reply "Aw, pipe down."

THANKS, NO

A careless visitor in the historic village of Oyster Bay, N.J., had finished unwrapping a piece of candy, popped it into his mouth, and thrown the wrapping on the sidewalk.

A sharp-eyed, tidy-minded Long Islander came along, picked up the crumpled paper and handed it back as something "you seem to have dropped." "Thank you," came the response, "but I don't want it." "Neither does Oyster Bay," was the apt reply of the villager.

This Freedom

With regard to the pasteurization of milk, and other adulterations, I quite agree that all who wish for this sort of thing should be allowed to have it, but I also claim that those who do not wish for it should not be forced to do the things they object to.

If I go to a shop, I choose what I want to eat and drink, not what other people think I should have. This is still a free world, or should be. "Live and let live."

Pipe Line Emotionalism

It is disappointing—to put it mildly—that apparently not a single manly editorial has been written by a member of The Canadian Press in condemnation of the behavior of the Opposition over the pipeline issue.

The only positive thing about the presently (violently) articulate members of the Opposition is a negative emotion of hate easily roused to viciousness about just one thing—"pro-Americanism" and "anti-British" activity. The "pro-Americanism" of our government is nothing more than mature behavior on a basis of Canadian sovereignty. We do not fear because we know we need not fear conquest of Canada by the American, that is, United States dollar. We invite necessary investment first from Canada then from the U.S.A., Britain and other bona fide countries or powers.

We have nothing to fear from our neighbor and brother, the U.S.A. and we have plenty of grounds for mutual competitive and frictional clashes in this healthy association.

A. BRENNAN.

Slow Growth

In your leader "Cooking With Priestly" you mention a Canadian culture twice as though it were a culture apart from any other.

In doing so are you not treading on very shallow ground? My dictionaries stress the application of labor and discipline. Mrs. Ruth Enke in her article "Graduation," leaves an impression that the young graduates are sadly lacking in these necessary attributes. In fact the tilling—ploughing deep whether of soil or man—must be thorough if the result of cultivation, refinement, improvement and advancement are to be attained.

One cannot but agree with the editor that the development of Canadian culture is perhaps too slow.

EMMA HARRISON.

Sitting on Our Hands?

Congratulations to Mr. Wells. It's about time someone pointed out the lack of interest shown in presenting our Victoria Day parade, which would have been a failure had it not been for our mainland friends and out of-town entries.

I heard several comments on the "missing" Chinese contribution, usually a prize-winner. Could it be somebody didn't invite them to display their ever-present civic enthusiasm, but only invited their ever-generous donations? And where were our large business firms in the friendly (?) competition.

It's about time people sat up and realized that in this era of the atom and its unknown reactions, there may not be a next year to enjoy the parade. Everyone is crying "Prepare to meet doom," but who is trying to make the days on which we can forget these threats happy and unforgettable ones?

Mr and Mrs. W. R. WELCH.
2407 Cook St.

Socred War Chest

A misunderstanding has crept into a recent speech in which, among other things, I referred to the Saskatchewan election; something one is pretty well compelled to do since our government has taken up temporary residence in that province.

In the speech I did not state that the government of B.C. was financing the Saskatchewan election but that rather the Social Credit Parties of B.C. and Alberta were pouring in the money.

It is all very simple. The more reactionary elements of Canadian business finance the Social Credit Party to wipe out socialism in Saskatchewan. With the vast sums of money thus lying in Social Credit war chests it presses on in its frenzied attempt to become a real factor in the politics of Canada.

The people of Saskatchewan are smart enough to see through this game. Just as will the people of New Brunswick.

It's sad for Premier Bennett and his followers in B.C. who dream of new worlds to conquer. They have cut their political bridges behind them and there is nowhere for them to turn. They must at all costs press on or go down. That's why they will empty their war chests in Saskatchewan and New Brunswick.

DEANE FINLAYSON.
Provincial Leader, B.C. Progressive Conservative Party.

Tito and the New Look

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

TITO'S visit to Moscow does not fit very well into the standardized assumption that nothing really changes in the Soviet Union, and that the passing of Stalin has made no difference. If that assumption were true, we should have to read the reconciliation which is now being celebrated in Moscow as meaning that Tito is returning his country to its former position of a satellite. That is just what is not happening.

Lippmann

There is little doubt that during the past year the Kremlin has worked for this reconciliation, taking the line that it was Stalin, not Tito, who was the heretic who caused the conflict. The issue of Stalin's quarrel with Tito was Stalin's insistence that all Communist states must be satellites and economic colonies of the Soviet Union.

Titoism was a national rebellion not against Communism but against the satellite colonialism of Stalin. We know now from what Khrushchev told the Poles at Bierut's funeral in March that Stalin's attempt to make a satellite of China nearly caused Mao Tse-Tung to break with Moscow.

True Believer

Tito's present visit to Moscow announces a victory for Titoism in the field of Communist doctrine and, it would appear, in that of Soviet imperial policy. Until after Stalin's death, Titoism was the greatest of all Communist heresies, indeed a hanging offence in Eastern Europe.

It is now the new orthodoxy of the Kremlin and it is being expounded to the faithful as the old orthodoxy of Lenin. Tito is not being received in Moscow as a repentant rebel. He is being hailed as the true believer.

This is a substantial change, and we cannot suppose that it is some kind of propaganda stunt engineered by the public relations experts in Moscow. We deceive only ourselves when we talk that way. For how can the Kremlin be accepting, indeed glorifying, the rebel Tito unless it has taken into account how this will resound in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and elsewhere where so recently leading Communists have been degraded and hanged for the crime of Titoism?

Can anyone imagine how Titoism can be approved for Belgrade while Stalinism continues for Warsaw and Prague and Budapest?

Substantial Changes

There is evidence, which is not yet conclusive but well attested, that the Kremlin is promoting very substantial changes in the Soviet satellite empire of Eastern Europe. These changes are in the direction of increased national independence, the dismantling of the old economic colonial devices such as the joint stock companies, and a substantial increase in the freedom of the press.

The changes in Poland are, I have been told by reliable observers, so impressive, that they are beginning to look like a change of the political regime. Perhaps we are witnessing a movement within the Communist orbit from satellite colonialism to Titoist national autonomy. It may be that anti-colonialism has spread to the Soviet orbit.

If, as now seems highly probable, the Stalinist satellite policy is being liquidated, then it is plain why the Kremlin is going to such lengths to appease and to woo Tito.

In working out the new policy, the existence of a reconciliation between Belgrade and Moscow would be the ace of trumps. Tito would be the symbol and the living proof of how it is possible to have national independence within the Communist orbit.

In Stalin's time, Tito was the symbol of rebellion, the proof that national independence and freedom from economic colonial exploitation requires a break with Moscow. Now that the Kremlin is accepting Titoism and Tito is accepting the Kremlin, he symbolizes the change without leaving the Soviet orbit. He is the argument for not breaking with Moscow, and for collaborating with Moscow.

Lining Up

But this does not exhaust the role that Tito is expected to play.

Besides being an example to the satellites, he will be a formidable missionary to the neutralists. For many countries it is extremely difficult to follow the Nehru principle of non-alignment with either military coalitions. These countries are already aligned and they do not want to take the risks and make the sacrifices which breaking their alliances would mean.

Tito is the living example of how to be aligned with both coalitions, how to be neutralist and yet aligned. No one who knows Western Europe today will, I think, doubt the attractiveness of the Tito example.

In Greece, to some degree in Italy, perhaps also in France, there are strong tendencies towards what might be described as reorientation of policy within the framework of the existing alliance.

It is no wonder that Moscow is doing so much to build up the prestige of Tito. We may well ask ourselves whether, given the change from Stalinism inside the Soviet Union, Tito is not on his way to becoming the most important of all the missionaries of Communism.

Watch Over These

AN RCAF HYMN

BY E. HOPE KERR

(Saturday, June 9, Is Air Force Day)

Thou art the glorious golden sun of day
Thou art the gentle moon to light night's way
Thou art the dawn, and flower of eve so fair
Watch over these your pilgrims of the air.

Thou art the cloud, the wave and restless rain
Thou art the sea, the mountain and the plain
Thou art the God to whom we pray and praise
Guide these your pilgrims through uncharted ways.

Thou art the tender God of each lone hour
Thou art the Peerless God of Speed and Power
Keep safe from harm these Souls on their small flights
Grant them the grace of Life and Harbor Lights.

ON THE TIMES — By ART STOTT

Play Me a Jump Tune

IF I hadn't tried to sing "When the bub-bub-blue of the night meets the gug-gug-gold of the dawn" a few years ago, I'd have a pat definition for the vocal agony which afflicts today's teenagers. I'd call it emotional immaturity complicated by an unripe larynx and fluttering of the diaphragm.

Stott

It's ghastly. When the modern high school boy spins his discs in the living room and accompanies that unmentionable person currently popular with the "jump" crowd, it's enough to drive a man to his basement to build a bomb shelter. It's almost enough to resign him to the bomb itself. O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?

You can't say that the average teenager's taste is all in his mouth. What comes out of it in his caterwauling proves there's no taste there, either.

ESCAPE VALVE

An adult will never understand this strange process if he judges the kid's noise output in terms of music. It isn't music at all. It's merely the unearthly sounds that issue from the oral safety-valve when the tensions of adolescence become too great. The internal furies and tortures have to erupt vocally or the youngster blows up.

We're doing a fair share of safety-valving around our place these days. When you consider what infinitely more serious things could happen to a kid, you're prepared to suffer the moaning, groaning, stammering and high whines that signal the release of pent-up feelings.

It's not new. Primitive societies had their weird and noisy counterparts of what passes today for teenage song. Ever seen Indians put on a ceremonial dance with sound effects? Sure. You know all about this bubbling of the lips, with an index finger flickering across them as the verses, if they are verses, pour out.

I've read somewhere that the human individual repeats, from conception to resurrection, the processes of evolution—the gill-stage and all that. Now I don't want to get involved in the classical argument between the monkey and creation, but it seems to me that today's youth in full voice is a cross between an atavism and one of the more aggravating stages of humanity's life cycle.

Give him time. He'll grow out of it. Lord help him if he doesn't.

You can ease the transitional period for yourself, if you're an adult of my vintage, by remembering how you tried to imitate Bub-Bub-Bing a couple of decades ago. You, too, in all probability had to cross over the bridge between an age of strangled tonsils and a decent reticence.

And, with a little compassionate investigation of today's "hits," you can find an interesting study of language, dialect and pronunciation. Go along with the kids on "The Rock Island Line" and puzzle out for yourself how "I fooled you" becomes "Ah fueled jew." Give it enough concentration and you may wind up reading "Finnegan's Wake"—which is considered an accomplishment in some quarters.

If you figure this so-called juvenile singing is mere thoughtlessness, just look at the youngster. It isn't easy. It isn't something that just issues from the mouth. A glance at the vocalist will indicated his pain. He's suffering, if facial expression means anything. You can see, too, from the body contortions that pretty severe cramps are gripping his frame.

HE NEEDS SYMPATHY

The kid needs sympathy. You can't help him in this time of trial. He has to do his own weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth. But he'll come out of it—I hope.

It's a pity, though, that science hasn't devised a means of skipping this stage in human development. It's a shame that the high-speed world and mechanical genius of the times seem to have heightened the agonies.

It makes you long for that soberer age when youth held firmly to such honest, coherent and intelligent vocal exercises as "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo, No Mo," and when everything was the cat's whiskers.

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Teaching Retarded Children

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Foundation.

Mrs. Bertha W. Martin has just published a manual prepared primarily for the helping of those teachers who care for extremely retarded children, between the ages of three and five, and with an IQ of from 30 to 50, (Kent State University Bulletin, Kent, Ohio), I am mentioning this booklet because it could help those many mothers of greatly retarded children who, because they live far from a special school, must struggle with the problem themselves. A while ago hundreds of mothers were very grateful to me for having told them about Mrs. E. D. Osterhout's book on "Teaching the Retarded Child at Home" (Box 2701, Duke Hospital, Durham, North Carolina; $2.50 C.O.D.).

Dr. Alvarez

According to Mrs. Martin, the big job is to teach the child to adjust as best he can to the world about him. Book learning never can be one of his main goals. His goal should be learning to get along with people. Also, he must learn to perform those everyday tasks, such as eating, choosing his clothes and dressing, which a normal person does without thinking. Mrs. Martin says the words, "Go slowly, go carefully, go steadily, go prayerfully," best express how a mother of these children should approach her work. These children have a desire for routine that is very strong, probably because of the sense of security it gives them. New problems bother them.

The book is attractive and contains diagrams showing how to teach simple crafts. There are suggestions as to the best type of music for the retarded child. Many children with an injured brain are so very sensitive to the higher notes that they cannot listen comfortably to certain pieces of music.

A number of songs are listed as suitable for the children and a list is given of basic words that they should be taught. There is a short list of helpful books a mother should read.

NEW PHYSIOLOGY OF THE BRAIN

In a recent article in Science, Dr. B. K. Anand and S. Dua described the new method of stimulating, with very weak electric currents, small areas in the brains of living and unanesthetized cats, monkeys and men who are perfectly comfortable with a fine wire running down from a tiny hole in the skull. Fortunately, the brain substance has no feeling. Depending on the point to which the wire runs, the effects of stimulation vary. For instance, when the stimulation was applied to an area in the brain above one ear, most of the animals became a bit agitated and showed signs of fear. A few, with a certain temperament, were quieted by the stimulation.

Stimulation of a certain part of the brain of an animal might make it violent and desirous of biting, while the same stimulus applied to an area of brain a short distance away might produce quieting. Stimulation of certain areas seemed to give some of the animals pleasure, while stimulation in other parts of the brain sent the animal into a violent rage. Stimulation in certain places caused movements of some muscles of the animal, or it caused movements of sniffing, licking, chewing, or biting.

These studies, naturally, are throwing great light on the location of the many centres in the brain, and already they have given great help to experts who want to know whence an epileptic fit is coming, and if perhaps in the individual the disease can be cured by an operation on the brain.

Stimulation of certain parts of the brain caused crying, salivation, changes in the size of the pupil of the eye, blinking of the eye, and, rarely, urination, a movement of the bowels, a rise or fall in blood sugar, or changes in blood pressure. By stimulating a certain area in the brain, the animal could be thrown into an attack of rapid breathing, such as in hysterical persons. In such an attack a woman may pant like a dog.

The reports of such studies delight me because they are giving us exact information in regard to the functioning of the brain in health and in disease. At last, instead of weird theories spun by men sitting in armchairs, we are getting scientific facts.

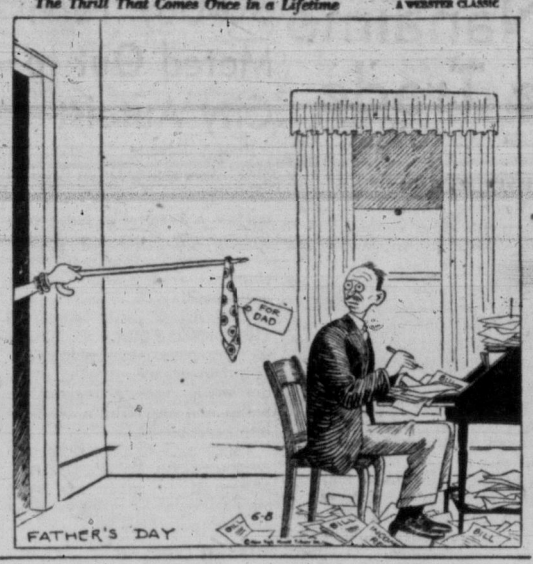
British MPs Ask Pay Hike

LONDON (AP)—Despite Prime Minister Eden's plea to British workers to prevent another round of wage demands, opposition leaders in Parliament asked him Thursday for a pay boost for MPs. A note signed by the leaders of the Labor and Liberal parties said the £1,000 a year paid parliamentarians isn't enough to make ends meet, despite the £2 daily expense allowance granted in 1954.



DRIVERS' LICENCES SUSPENDED 10 YEARS

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Robin Roy Ridler and Stephen Kalinowsky were each sentenced to six months' imprisonment and deprived of the right to drive a car in Canada for 10 years when they were both convicted of manslaughter here before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson.

Ridler, a 27-year-old Quesnel sawmill worker, was found guilty of manslaughter arising out of the death of M. J. Clingan after a taxi and car collision on the Quesnel highway last July.

Kalinowsky, 26, Prince George millworker, was found guilty of the traffic death last April of an old-age pensioner, Axel Munson.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Good Timing Needed For Herb-Gathering

Established plants of perennial kitchen or culinary herbs will have plenty of growth now ready for cutting.

Hilda

Since there is far more of the herbs used dry during winter than fresh from the plants, a few notes on cutting may be useful.

The best time to gather herbs for drying is when the first flowers are about to open. This applies to such herbs as sage, thyme, lemon balm, rosemary, and indeed the annual kinds which are not yet ready for cutting.

Experiments prove that there is more oil in the leaves, therefore more aroma and flavor, if they are cut when dry and warm with sunshine.

Cut the stems as though cutting for a small bouquet, and tie in small bunches for convenience. Hang upside down in a dry, warm and airy space such as a shed or sunroom. If this is impossible, spread the stems on a wire tray or a slatted tray, and dry until brittle in a warm place. Turn daily for about a week.

Tarragon may be cut for drying now also, though the true French kind produces little in the way of flowers as a guide.

Sage takes longest to dry, and will quickly mold if stored damp.

When the leaves are brittle, remove them by gently rubbing from the stems. Store in glass jars with tight caps. Do not powder finely, or much flavor will be lost. Each finger pinch may be powdered when used at time of cooking.

PORGY AND BESS IN RUSSIA

Schoolteachers Spy On American Troupe

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Endlessly staring faces . . . coffee that tasted like tired tea . . . thunderous ovations . . . artificial flowers at $85 a tiny bunch . . . and most of all, overwhelming curiosity about anything American.

These are diverse bits from the teeming kaleidoscope of a thousand impressions garnered on a two-month tour behind the Iron Curtain by the far-roaming Porgy and Bess Negro theatrical troupe.

Said director Robert Breen: "It is quite a shock to discover that there is a place in the world where they quite literally know nothing about America. Along with that there is a fantastic, gnawing hunger to learn about us."

Echoed Joy McLean, who sings the famous Summertime in the show:

"There seemed a tremendous questing for understanding of America."

Everywhere the players were asked about their life in the United States, "and it was fantastic to watch them when we told them that we go to college like anyone else."

Asked whether any effort was made to indoctrinate them, and a soprano replied:

"They are so interested in finding out from us that they just ask questions, let you do all the talking."

The dramatic troupe—65 players and a score of administrative workers—came home this week from a show tour which included 62 performances of the famous folk opera in Leningrad, Moscow, Stalingrad, Warsaw and Prague.

The visit—first by any American road company to that part of the globe—was partly underwritten by the Soviet government.

It was, members of the company agree, a standing-room-only success—and nothing elsewhere in the troupe's four years of barnstorming was quite like the Soviet ovation after a performance.

Helen Tigpen, who sings Serena, says "it will be hard to get used to western applause again after that."

The roof really came off in Leningrad, birthplace of Alexander Smallens, veteran conductor of Porgy and Bess, and also of the father of George and Ira Gershwin, the composer and co-lyricist.

In Leningrad, too, they found that school teachers had been assigned as waitresses—to see how and what Americans eat.

Later the Russians wanted return engagements, Breen said, "and couldn't understand when we told them we had hard, fast commitments elsewhere."

The director explains: "The one thing they can't understand is not being able to do something wanted by the government."

Sweden Greets Queen

STOCKHOLM (CP) — With 300 jet fighter planes screaming overhead, Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived today for the first British royal visit to Sweden in almost half a century.

The royal yacht Britannia battled fog all morning and slipped into the waters of Stockholm harbor at noon, slightly more than an hour behind schedule.

With the Britannia were the Canadian destroyer escort St. Laurent and two Royal Navy escorting craft.

As the Britannia hove into view after a four-day voyage from England, Swedish shore batteries roared out a shattering salute. Overhead the skies were filled with jet planes carrying out an intricate manoeuvre in the form of a four-leaf clover for good luck.

Oarsmen clad in blue and white rowed out in the Swedish royal barge Vasaorden, a replica of the 18th-century royal barge, to bring the British monarch and her husband ashore.

The heavy fog had made it difficult for the royal yacht to thread its way through the treacherous archipelago leading into Stockholm's harbor from the Baltic sea. But it lifted by the time the yacht arrived here, and the sun came out.

The royal couple were accompanied ashore by Prince Bertil of Sweden, who boarded the Britannia two hours before it docked here.

Sweden's 74-year-old King Gustaf Adolf and Queen Louise, who is the Duke of Edinburgh's aunt, greeted them on a red-carpeted stage near the palace and introduced them to Prime Minister Tage Erlander and other government officials. Afterwards, they drove off in two open carriages for a look at the flag-bedecked city.

Impaired Teacher Sparks Ethics Talk

DUNCAN—Recent conviction of a local high school teacher on an impaired driving charge gave rise to plans for a trustee-teacher meeting here, tentatively set for July 3, to discuss teacher ethics.

Cowichan district school board trustees had asked for a conference with the Cowichan District Teachers' Association ethics committee, but was told it would have to consult with the provincial committee.

The B.C. Teachers' Federation committee will be represented by Miss Hilda Cryderman, immediate past president of the federation and a committee member.

The teacher, G. A. Bishop, was warned by the school board that dismissal would follow "any future occurence of this kind." He was convicted May 19.

Rich New Shrimp Bed Discovered Off India

ROME (AP)—A fisherman from remote Iceland has discovered a giant new shrimp ground extending 140 miles along India's Malabar coast. The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, announcing this Thursday, said the rich new shrimp bed is four miles wide and so big it will furnish the basis for a whole new industry in India.

Victoria, Nanaimo Ports Lose Trade

Number of ships cleared from the ports of Victoria and Nanaimo on Vancouver Island have dropped considerably in the January-May period this year compared with the same period in 1955.

Port officials say this is caused by the high cost of bottoms, rising cost of lumber and strikes in the United Kingdom.

Up to May 31 this year 113 deep sea ships entered the Port of Victoria, grossing 777,573 tons. For the same period in 1955 141 foreign ships entered the Victoria harbor. They had a gross tonnage of 980,245.

Port of Nanaimo to the end of May this year saw entry of 78 vessels; last year during the same time 91 ships berthed there.

TRADE SLIPPING

Indications are trade is slipping as far as Vancouver Island's two main ports are concerned.

Victoria cleared 316 vessels in 1955; in 1953, the peak year of the last 10 years, 334 ships were cleared with a tonnage of 2,489,966.

Port of Nanaimo cleared 210 vessels in 1954 and only 186 last year. According to the rate of turnover, this year's clearances will be slightly less.

To date this year 14 ore carriers, 31 lumber vessels and 33 carrying pulp have cleared Nanaimo, compared to 20, 36 and 35 for the same categories in the same time period in 1955.

Industrial output is poor from the Port of Victoria, excepting lumber which accounts for nine-tenths of exports. Only two or three general cargo ships touch the port each year.

GRAIN MAY GO UP

However, chances are grain shipments from Victoria will be increased this year, due largely to Russian orders.

To May 31 this year, 1,163,000 bushels have been shipped. Last year January-through-July only 1,072,000 bushels were shipped and during the year 3,044,000 bushels.

There is little doubt but that industry, far from being attracted to Victoria, is moving out due to costs of trans-water shipment to mainland markets. This recession is reflected in trade-via-sea.

Nanaimo, which could enjoy more vessels in port, is limited to one ship at a time.

Vancouver Island's other main harbor, Port Alberni, is the sole port that indicates an increase in business, though statistics for this year are not yet available.

In 1955 there were 183 vessels arrived in port, an increase of four over the previous year; total cargo exported increased 7,834 tons to 301,815 in 1955, and lumber exports increased from 256,053 tons to 269,094.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

Port officials there see a steady but unspectacular rise in port fortunes. Total export business in 1955 was $25,000,000.

The port of Victoria has seen no improvement to harbor facilities worth mentioning within the past year, though there has been some construction at Nanaimo.

Port Alberni, on the other hand, is still working on a $30,000 float renewal, storage space costing $11,000 at the Government Assembly Wharf, fire and catwalks on the wharf for $16,000; a floating breakwater for $6,000 and—the largest scheme—a private wharf to be built this year by the lumber firm of MacMillan & Bloedell Ltd. in connection with pulp mill expansion.

It will cost about $1,200,000 and will provide 1,100 feet of berthing space, equivalent to two deep sea berths. Dredging in this connection alone will cost $267,000.

30-Day Term Meted Out to City Autoist

Robert Edward Graham, 851 Short, was sentenced in Saanich court Thursday to 30 days in jail on a careless driving conviction and fined $25 or five days each on three other charges arising out of an accident May 26.

The driver was convicted after pleading guilty to charges of not possessing public liability insurance, driving without motor vehicle registration plates and operating a car with improper plates.

Police said Graham was proceeding north on Douglas and attempted to make the turn onto Carey at 80 miles an hour at 11.25 p.m. May 26.

MISSED CORNER

He lost control of the car for 162 feet, failed to negotiate the corner, struck a pole, causing a passenger to be thrown from the car and totally wrecking the vehicle.

The passenger and driver were treated for head lacerations and a possible broken shoulder.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked, "How long have you been driving without liability insurance?"

"I only had the car a few days," Graham replied.

Two Work Point soldiers, Gnrs. Walter Taylor Gustafson and Albert Verboom, were each fined $25 for driving on Douglas street without drivers' licences.

Verboom was fined an additional $35 on a charge of careless driving arising out of a rear-end collision.

Botanical Expedition Now at Dawson Creek

A joint provincial museum-University of British Columbia expedition to British Columbia's hinterlands arrived Thursday at Dawson Creek, Peace River valley, completing the first lap of their journey to Dease Lake, near the Alaska border.

Other members of the expedition are Dr. Adam Szcwawinski, botanist; Dr. T. M. C. Taylor, head of the botany-biology department of the University of British Columbia, and Mark Bell, a Victoria forestry student at UBC.

FIRST SURVEY

The four men will conduct the first biological and botanical survey of a mountainous region situated in the northwest part of the province.

They plan to spend at least three months exploring and searching for animals and rare plants in valleys walled in by high mountains.

One of the biggest expeditions of its kind ever organized in British Columbia, the explorers took with them scientific equipment for collecting and recording their discoveries. Rare plants and records will be shipped by helicopter to UBC during the summer months.

Lawsuit Threat In School Dispute

Nanaimo Father Demands Suspension Of Son Be Stricken From Records

NANAIMO (CP) — Legal action may be taken by the father of one of 130 students suspended for one day from Nanaimo Senior High School.

Wilfred Moorhouse said his son was sent home Wednesday when he failed to turn in a written guarantee called for by District 68 school board.

The students, suspended because of a strike, returned to school Wednesday.

Mr. Moorhouse said he objected to the preface in the form:

"If re-admitted to school, I solemnly promise to be obedient and respectful to my teachers and will observe the rules and regulations of the school."

RIGHT QUESTIONED

He said he doubted the school has the right to refuse to allow his son to return and that he is prepared to take legal action if his son's suspension is not expunged from school records.

On the day of the strike, Mr. Moorhouse said, he had driven his son to school five minutes after the assembly bell because the boy had required treatment to an eye injury before going to school. Because he was not in his place on time, he said, the boy was listed with the ones who were striking.

Janice White Lifeguard At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH—Janice White, 19-year-old long-distance swimmer, has been engaged as a lifeguard at Transfer beach for the summer, subject only to the Ladysmith Community Council raising enough money to pay her salary and other expenses.

The council will stage a one-night campaign tonight to raise funds. In addition to Miss White's salary, the council hopes to have money for a row boat, first aid supplies, blankets, and other necessary equipment.

Miss White of Toronto tried last summer to swim Juan de Fuca strait.

While working here she hopes to hold classes in swimming and water safety.

Ladysmith Celebrations to Feature Parade, Sports, Princess Crowning

LADYSMITH—Lions Club and the Canadian Legion will be joint sponsors of Ladysmith's traditional July 1 celebrations, Pat Ryan, joint chairman of the celebration committee, announced this week.

Final plans for the day's program have not yet been completed, but emphasis this year will be on children's activities, Mr. Ryan said.

The celebration will begin with a princess crowning ceremony, to be followed by a parade in which the Nanaimo Pipe Band will participate.

Candidates for the princess competition were elected by the elementary schools Monday as follows: Linda Gilson, representing The Diamond School; Susan King, Ladysmith Elementary School; Christine Regulant, St. Mary's School; Judy Roy, Mount Brenton School; and Susan Scofield, North Oyster School.

Ballots to be used in the public election of the July 1 princess are expected to be ready this weekend.

BIGGER PROGRAM

Tentative plans for the afternoon include children's sports on a much larger scale than those of past year, and a baseball game to be organized by the local Pony League.

In the evening a giant bingo game is planned with players to be seated on the grandstand and in cars to be parked on the big Agricultural Field. This will be followed by the traditional dance in the Agricultural Hall.

Further details of the celebration will be released as plans are advanced, Mr. Ryan said.

Flt.-Sgt. Ed Peerens Selected Top Cadet in Ladysmith Squadron

LADYSMITH — Group Captain R. C. Weston, officer commanding Comox RCAF Station, was inspecting officer at the annual parade of Ladysmith Air Cadet Squadron, held here Tuesday.

The parade, for the first time, was handled entirely by the cadets. NCOs took over all the officers' posts and issued all the commands to take the squadron through the intricate drill movements of a ceremonial parade.

Flight Sergeant Ed Peerens acted as squadron commander, Sgt. Jim Rice served as adjutant, Sgt. Bob Shilito was in command of No. 1 Flight and Flight Sergeant Shirley Burgess was in command of No. 2 Flight. Sgt. Tom Campbell acted as squadron warrant officer.

The inspecting party was comprised of Group Captain Weston; FO J. Wanley, cadet liaison officer at Comox RCAF station; Pat Ryan, a member of the local air cadet committee, and James Brown, vice-chairman of the B.C. committee, Air Cadet League of Canada.

A highlight of the program was the presentation of awards by Group Captain Weston.

Flight Sergeant Peerens won trophy for the outstanding cadet of the year, and Sgt. Jim Rice won the Pat Ryan trophy for marksmanship and received a first class crest for top marks in DCRA competitions.

The RCAF flying training scholarship was awarded to Sgt. Tom Campbell and Flt. Sgt. Shirley Burgess was presented with a flying training scholarship by the Ladysmith Lions Club in recognition of her long service and hard work in the squadron.

Second class marksmanship crests were won by David Olexa, Bob Blair, Paul Day, Brian Doherty, and Ed Peerens, and Howard Anderson was awarded a junior marksman prize.

Cadette Phyllis Johnson was the winner of the cadette proficiency award and Cadette June Burgess won a prize for marksmanship.

Also up for competition is the Western Command Trophy. The Victoria militia unit has also held this trophy for four years.

Last Sunday, Capt. C. H. MacBrattney topped 25 opponents to win the Sid Carr Memorial Trophy.

LONG PLANNING NEEDED

Pageant of Old RN Base Suggested for Centennial

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Navy Week pageant depicting Esquimalt as the original British navy base on the Pacific Coast is suggested for British Columbia's centennial celebrations in 1958.

The suggestion comes from George I. Warren, chief of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"I think we should emphasize Esquimalt's history as a naval base," Mr. Warren said today. "Long before we had our own Canadian navy, British men o'war were based there and Esquimalt was known — and feared—as the first British navy base on the Pacific coast.

"If we could depict this in a colorful pageant, either on land or at sea, we would have a first class attraction and one that would be instructive to young Victorians as well. Perhaps the British navy would send out a few ships for the occasion."

Another centennial idea — a military tattoo presenting B.C. regiments, old and new, in colorful array—comes from Arnold Webb, assistant secretary of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

"This tattoo would take us back to the first days of Fort Victoria when Britinh soldiers in scarlet uniforms first set up camp here. And we could round it out with Indians in tribal costume and impersonations of the old Hudson's Bay traders.

"We could make it a parade of B.C. histroy, staged as vividly and attractively as our resources and ingenuity will permit."

Mr. Webb also favors a presentation of Victoria's history as a port, and suggests as its title "A Century of Shipping."

A running performance of movies on B.C.

A parade of legendary Victoria characters — colonels in plus fours, ladies in white lace and policemen wearing tall helmets.

Public Not Yet Stirred to Interest

With British Columbia's centennial year still two years ahead, not many people have yet given much thought to how it should be celebrated, though a centennial committee has already been set up with headquarters in the Weiler Building. Chairman is L. J. Wallace and Larry H. McCance has been appointed executive secretary.

Lance H. Whittaker is chairman of a sub-committee on community activities. All communities and unorganized areas throughout the province have been asked to set up local centennial committees.

"The celebrations will take months of thought and careful planning," Mr. Whittaker said, "and the sooner we all start thinking about it the better."

September is target date for formation of 200 community committees.

Brief interviews with Victoria citizens suggest there is no dearth of ideas. Here are a few of them:

Mrs. H. L. Farrell suggests a massed choir of Greater Victoria schoolchildren to be held in the open, possibly in Beacon Hill Park.

Members of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce favor a paint-up, clean-up campaign to include all downtown buildings

A commissionaire at the Parliament Buildings proposes a grand parade of navy, army and air force personnel followed by a parade of veterans.

Veteran scouter Freeman King would like to see a mass parade of scouts, cubs, guides, brownies and rangers. (Plans are already being discussed for a bigger and better Scoutorama.)

Motoring enthusiast Jack Stanisen is for organizing a parade of old crocks (vintage autos) from Nanaimo to Victoria, the last to reach the winning post being the winner.

Other suggestions:

A marathon bicycle race from Campbell River to Victoria.

A scale model reproduction of Fort Victoria as it was in 1858.

An inter-city band contest.

An exhibition of Indian handicrafts.

Highland games.

A sports regatta open to men, women and children of all ages.

Beacon fires around the coast.

A mass religious rally held in the open with all churches invited to participate.

A travelling exhibit of B.C. industries.

Gunnery Instructor From England At Work Point

British anti-aircraft gunnery instructor Maj. D. E. Burchett, now attached to Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), Picton, Ont., has arrived at Work Point to give instruction at militia camps this summer.

He will train 5 Harbor Defence Battery at Fort Mary Hill from June 18 and Vancouver anti-aircraft militia from late June to early July at Albert Head.

Maj. Burchett arrived recently at Picton with his family from British School of Anti-Aircraft, Manorbier, South Wales, and will return to the United Kingdom in October.

Vogee Leadership Inspiring, Say Teachers

Two former Mt. Newton High School teachers said Thursday Arthur E. Vogee, facing demotion from the post of principal, made improvements at the school and was a good leader.

"I found his leadership inspiring," said Peter Thomas, who was at Mount Newton for two years under Mr. Vogee, and now on staff at Royal Oak High School. "He showed good judgment and his relations with the staff were excellent."

Speaking before a board of reference called to hear Mr. Vogee's appeal against demotion by Saanich school board, he said students showed respect to Mr. Vogee, and looked to him as an advisor.

The Duchess of Windsor

(The Times continues publication of the memoirs of the Duchess of Windsor whose marriage to former King Edward VIII followed the great abdication crisis of 1937. Her decision to publish her story has been the subject of world-wide controversy. The series will run daily in the Times. Copyright reserved. At Thelma Furness' house at Melton Mowbray we were met by her step-daughter, Averill, who told us that the rest of the party had been delayed by fog.

We were taken into a drawing room where there was a round table in front of the fireplace laid for tea. My cold was worse, if anything. I knew from the burning sensation of my skin that I had a slight temperature. More than anything else I wanted to go to bed.

A maid entered and quietly drew the curtains. Night had come. Still no sign of the others. We sat and we sat and we sat. Then about 7 o'clock Thelma appeared with the two princes. She introduced me to both of them. I summoned my fading courage and made my first curtsy to the Prince of Wales. To Ernest's surprise and my own, it came off very well.

The Prince of Wales, as I remembered, had on very loud checked tweeds. His younger brother was similarly dressed but his clothes were more conservative in pattern. I remember thinking, as I studied the Prince of Wales, how much like his pictures he really was—the slightly wind-rumpled golden hair, the turned-up nose, and a strange, wistful, almost sad look about the eyes when his expression was in repose.

But I was surprised on seeing him for the first time in the flesh to discover how small he was. From photographs I had somehow formed the impression that he was fairly tall, but he could not be, I judged, more than two inches taller than I, and I am five feet four and a half. Prince George was considerably taller, with neatly-brushed brown hair, aquiline features, and dark blue eyes. He gave an impression of gaiety and joie de vivre.

What attracted me at once about the two brothers, and especially the Prince of Wales, was their utter naturalness. To find that royalty lights a cigaret in much the same way as other people do and employs much the same gestures and mannerisms and in addition could be highly agreeable was for me an astonishing revelation.

America Discussed

I was mildly surprised to find that in all their most charming aspects they clearly shared the human condition. Thelma must have put the princes on notice that I was an American and that Ernest had been educated in the United States, because in a most casual way they talked to us about life in the United States, and the Prince of Wales in particular expressed his admiration for Americans and the American outlook. It was done with such easy grace that I momentarily forgot about my cold and my dread vanished.

Prince George's friends, with whom he was to spend the weekend, presently called for him. He left after shaking hands with the rest of us, an attention requiring from me another curtsy that I might well have forgotten had he not first said goodbye to Thelma. We went upstairs to dress for dinner.

When we were alone in our room Ernest remarked on the charm of the two brothers. "I have come to the conclusion," he added, "that you Americans lost something that is very good and quite irreplaceable when you decided to dispense with the British monarchy."

After I had had a long soak in the tub and taken two aspirins my sense of pleasure began to rise in anticipation of the evening.

It turned out to be a large party—at least 30 people. As I had feared, Ernest and I knew not a soul, while everyone else plainly knew one another extremely well.

Thelma sat on the prince's right. Ernest and I, as comparative unknowns, were lost in the lower ranges of the spectrum of precedence. After coffee there was cards—poker and bridge.

I found myself at a bridge table playing for stakes that, by Bryanston Court standards, were frighteningly high. I could see the week's marketing money and more lost by the evening's end. I counted myself lucky to escape with a loss of £8.

From the cries of delight alternating with groans of disappointment that came from the next room I judged that the prince enjoyed poker and played spiritedly. About midnight he came through the room to say good night, explaining that since he had to be up early to hunt he wanted a good night's sleep. The rest of the guests left shortly afterwards.

SATURDAY: Princely tact displayed.

Among Graduates At Seattle U

Two sisters from St. Ann's Academy here were among graduates who received bachelor of arts degrees at Seattle University commencement exercises.

They were Sister M. Hilda Edwards, who was graduated magna cum laude, and Sister M. Eileen Kelly, summa cum laude.

Other Victoria graduates were Elizabeth R. Turner, daughter of A. Turner, 1265 Fort Street, who won her bachelor of science degree in medical technology, and Sisters M. Celestine Krapp and M. Michael Hagarty, FCSP, of Providence Hospital in Seattle, who received nursing degrees.

Tee Topics

By BILL WALKER

If the trend wasn't obvious last year, it certainly is this year.

The younger players in golf are at the top to stay and the old guard is approaching the end of the fairway.

The Sneads, the Mangrums and the Demarets aren't winning like they once were.

True, as Jimmy Thompson said in a recent article, "they can still win at 50."

But that's because there's still a certain magic to their names that gives a youngster the willies when he finds himself paired in such illustrious company.

And even that inferiority complex is becoming a rarity these days.

For despite the fact that some of the richer pros have the where-with-all to get to the scene of a major tourney a few days early, to practice diligently over the layout, and to learn the intricate hazards of the course, there is a counter-balance which is swinging the tide in favor of the crew-cut swingers.

The kids have been picking up a lot of victories on the winter and spring tour and with each victory they also gain a tremendous psychological lift.

Watch These Fellows

And that's all some of them seemingly need.

Peter Thomson, the young Australian who cracked through to take the Dallas Open, is a good example.

It was the British Open championship that put him in the top-drawer class, and he proved it with a $7,000 birdie putt in the extra-hole playoff at Dallas.

Don January has been the upstart of the past few weeks while Dow Finsterwald parlayed his triumph in the '55 B.C. Open into a recent string of successes, or near successes, that have put him among the top three in money earnings.

And there are others — Mike Souchak, Gene Littler, Bo Wininger—they are closer to the top of the heap than the bottom these days. Especially Littler, whom many regard as the best.

On the other hand, the vets are having problems they never used to have.

Cary Middlecoff had a triple bogey on one hole at Dallas. Sam Snead blew a lead at White Sulphur Springs to lose that event; Lloyd Mangrum, a former Open champ, failed to qualify for this year's tournament.

This doesn't mean you can count out Ben Hogan for the Open.

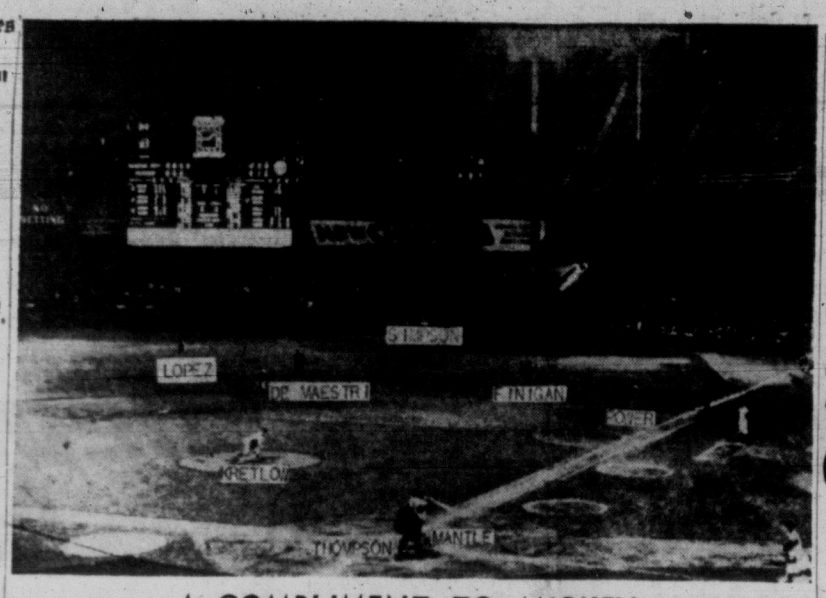
Never, because Hogan's ability to apply himself to any job he sets out to do, and his intense determination, will always make him a factor. And Snead? If he needs any incentive, the fact that the Open is the one big tourney he's never won, should put the Slammer in the favored few. And what about Henry Cotton, the retired English master. He had a marvellous 138 round to qualify, and would dearly love to add this one to his trophy room.

Could, But Shouldn't

Maybe they'll come through in the clutch — but they shouldn't. The kids were never more ready than they are now.

For who was it who won the British Amateur?—John Beharrell, an 18-year-old schoolboy.

BUNKER BLASTS — The Colwood gals did themselves proud in the mid-Island at Nanaimo last week — Onaugh Painter, champion; Nan Court (wife of pro Bill), low net; B. Ashdown, second low net; Marion Kennedy, low gross first nine, and Darlene Woodburn, long driving . . . and today Mrs. Isobel McIntyre could be the new city champion . . . The city men's tourney continues Sunday, and if Colwood's Bill McColl or Laurie Kerr could click, the suburban course would have reason to be prouder still . . . still we'll stick with Bob Fleming; with a two-stroke lead he'll be tough to catch. . . Derek Rhys-Jones, former Colwood secretary, was honored last weekend by clubmates who presented him with a complete golfing outfit, while Cliff Denham, one of the real grand guys of the game, received fitting tribute — a life membership.



A COMPLIMENT TO MICKEY

Lou Boudreau, who devised the Ted Williams shift when managing Cleveland, did the same to Mickey Mantle, Yankee slugger during recent visit of Kansas City to New York. It worked in part. Mickey got four hits in three games.

Lou Slows Up Mickey, But Can't Figure Yogi

By The Associated Press

Now that Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau has Mickey Mantle "figured out," what's he going to do about Yogi Berra

Boudreau did about as good a job of "stopping" Mantle as any one has this season, employing a shift that packs the defence to the right when the switch - hitting Mickey bats lefthanded. Mantle got only four hits in 11 trips

But what about Berra? Yogi smacked six hits in nine trips in the three games, drove in five runs, scored six and hit three homers. The Yanks hardly knew Mantle was missing.

Berra, a bad-ball spray - hitter you can't set up a shift against, powered his 16th homer of the season—and fourth in four games—to get the Yankees rolling on a 9-1 decision over the A's Thursday. He also added two singles and drove in two runs—giving him a total of six homers, 10 RBIs and a .545 bat average in six games against the A's this year.

REDLEGS TAKE LEAD

The victory pushed New York into a 4½-game lead as runner-up Cleveland was dumped by Baltimore 5-2. Chicago White Sox beat Washington 7-5 and Boston trimmed Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's rugged Redlegs boomed into the National League lead by a half-game over idle St. Louis by blasting Philadelphia 8-5 while Chicago Cubs were dropping Pittsburgh to third 5-2. And Milwaukee closed Brooklyn's winning streak at four games as Bob Buhl pitched a four-hitter to win 4-1.

Hank Bauer hit his 13th homer for the Yankees, knocking in his 34th run—not bad for a guy hitting .203. The A's didn't shift against three southpaws led by loser Alex Kellner—and he had two-for-four. Bob Turley won it for a 3-2 record.

DIAPERS, BASSINETS PART OF BASEBALL NOW

ST. LOUIS (BUP)—Shades of Bill Veeck, who used to do such things with the Browns.

The St. Louis Cardinals now are offering diaper service complete with a bassinet for mothers who want to watch baseball games at Busch Stadium but can't leave their babies at home.

Wanted: Fireman; Larry Fills Bill

Larry McPherson qualified for the Firemen's Union Friday night.

McPherson, relief pitcher for Optimists of the Babe Ruth League, not only put out the fire he was called into quench but salvaged a victory out of the flames.

Optimists were behind by one run when McPherson was waved in to relieve Daryl Lorimer. McPherson pitched three scoreless innings at Menzies Plumbing and contributed a two-run homer as his club tied the score and went on to win, 7-4.

Suncrests Erupt

Some lusty hitting by Brian Fisher, who clubbed two doubles and two singles, made it clear sailing for cellar-dwelling Suncrest Cubs of the Hampton Little League as they upset the first-place Cougars, 12-10.

Dodgers Roll On

In the Vic West-Esquimalt Little League, Yarrow Dodgers continued their runaway, scoring their seventh straight unbeaten streak. John Yankoski pitched a smooth four-hitter as Dodgers dumped Lions, 7-3.

Cosmos Share Lead

Buth Rivers pitched Cosmopolitans to a 5-4 win over Rotary as the Cosmos climaxed an uphill haul that has finally landed them in a first-place tie in the Pony League standings.

Gyros Upset Leaders

Gyros scored a 9-8 victory over first-place Odd Fellows in a National League encounter at Little League Park.

Althea Gains Tennis Semis

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Althea Gibson of New York, turned in her best performance of the tournament Wednesday to defeat Australia's Mrs. Thelma Long 6-2, 6-3 and enter the semi-finals of the northern England lawn tennis tournament.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., joined Miss Gibson in the semi-finals with a 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 victory over Ann Shilcock of Britain.

Attendance Up In Coast League

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Spring attendance at Pacific Coast League baseball games has increased over that of 1955, thanks to a triple boost at Portland.

President Leslie M. O'Connor announced Thursday that 561,540 fans paid to watch PCL games through May 31 this year. For the same number of games last year—46—the figure was 496,517.

FIGHT RESULTS

SAN FRANCISCO—Reuben Hernandez, 174½, San Francisco, knocked out Tommy Villa, 170, Decoto, Calif. (7).

Conrad, Sanders Lead U.S. Golfers

PARIS (UP)—Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., led the American advance into the fourth round of the French amateur golf championship today by rallying to defeat United States rivals.

Conrad, former British amateur champion, was 1 down after nine holes but defeated Tom Draper of Birmingham, Ala., 2 and 1, while rain lashed this morning's third round competitors.

Sanders was 3 down to Paul Coste of Philadelphia at the turn but rallied to win, 2 up. This morning's survivors play in the fourth round after lunch.

Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., easily advanced with a 7 and triumph over Fred Ralph of San Mateo, Calif.

Pete Arend, The Deal, N.J., player who collapsed of a diabetic deficiency after winning his second rounder, entered the fourth round by defeating John Kraft of Denver, Colo., 5 and 3.

Solarium Corner

"I took a walk through the Queen Alexandra Solarium three years ago and it really taught me something."

That's what Walter Spaven says in explaining the 1,400 tickets he sold last year for the Anglers-Times Solarium Derby, all proceeds of which go to help the Solarium's crippled children.

Spaven's effort last year was rewarded with a life membership in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, co-sponsors of the derby with the Times.

This year, his third of selling tickets, Walter hopes to break last year's mark. He is one of 33 committee members working to make the July 22 derby the best yet.

A salesman, Walter is married and has four children. He can be contacted about the derby at 4-6058.

WALT SPAVEN

'DOESN'T LIKE TO FINISH SECOND'

Mike Picks Ben for Open

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—Big Mike Souchak figures Ben Hogan will win his fifth National Open championship next week because Ben can play all the shots and because he doesn't like to finish second.

By the same token, Souchak figures to do well this week in the 15th Round Robin tournament at Wykagyl. Mike held a slim lead over Bob Rosburg and Gene Littler after Thursday's opening round. He's a better-than-fair hand with a driver or iron and he doesn't see any sense in being runner-up.

"Who knows who finishes second," Mike asked after shooting a 67—it should have been 65—and piling up 15 points in the first of the Round Robin tournament's five rounds.

"I finished second 10 times last year and nobody knew it. This year I was second a couple of times, then finally won one. Still, to be in the top 10 every week, you have to be very good. There are so many good players around."

Souchak's round of 34-33—67 over the par 37-35—72 course gave him only a one-point advantage over Bob Rosburg and Gene Littler going into today's two rounds.

Rosburg had 34-34—68 for the day's second-best round. Littler and Fred Haas, each with 34-35—69, were third in scoring.

Patterson Slight Choice Over Hurricane Tonight

Bradshaw Shamrock Casualty

Starry Forward Out for Two Weeks

The axe descended again on the Victoria Shamrock line-up Friday and this time it was for real.

Peewee Bradshaw, Shamrocks' most consistent scoring forward, was clearing brush with a double-bitted axe when he made a slip and sliced an eight-stitch gash over his shinbone.

The unfortunate accident has rendered Bradshaw inactive for tonight's all-important game with Nanaimo Timbermen and it may be a couple of weeks before the rotund sniper is back in the line-up.

Also out of action will be defenceman Jack Thompson, a strep throat victim; forward Jack Northup, who can't get off work and newcomer Ralph Lyndon, who still has not had his transfer from Winnipeg approved by the rather slow-moving Canadian Lacrosse Association.

As a result, Rock coach Whitey Severson will put all his eggs in one basket, going with two forward lines and two utility players.

He plans to have an all-rookie line as his number one unit, consisting of powerful Bert Bertoia with Ed Longpre and Ed Kowalyk.

The other line will have Severson, Al Gill and Harry Irwin with Art Green and Mel Davison available for relief duty.

Timbermen hold a seven-point lead over the second-place Shamrocks. The clubs will be rematched in Victoria next Wednesday night.

In Vancouver last night, Jake Proctor's punchless Pilseners slid weakly into the cellar, a victim of a 7-3 pasting administered by the New Westminster Salmonbellies, who climbed into third place.

Three last-quarter goals by Cliff Sepka paved the way for the Salmonbelly victory.

Viduals Surprise Polyettes

Individuals of the Senior B Softball League continued to make things uncomfortable and embarrassing for Polyettes of the Intercity "A" League Thursday night.

The young Individuals handed Polyettes a 2-1 defeat Thursday for their second straight win over the senior club.

Heroine of the victory was Vidual pitcher Lorraine Shields, who held the losers to one hit, a single by Babe Mosley in the fourth inning.

Cleaners put together one hit two walks, an error and a fielders' choice to score their runs in the fifth.

The runs were scored off the ace of Polyettes mound staff, Jocelyn Richmond, who took over from starter Ruth Oster in the fourth.

BILL HOPE JOE ROBBINS

DEFENSIVE CHORES for United tonight against Halecos in Coast Soccer League match at Athletic Park will be handled by veterans Bill Hope and Joe Robbins.

Guthrie Joins United Tonight

Victoria United will dig their heels in the turf of Athletic Park tonight and attempt to push back the free-wheeling Vancouver Haleco squad in a Coast Soccer League game starting at 8.30.

United will be reinforced for the big push by the addition of inside right Dave Guthrie, who signed with the club Thursday night and will be in uniform tonight.

The club received additional hope for the future when former English third division player Donald Jones wired from Regina that he will leave for Victoria on the 15th of the month and will be ready for action on his arrival.

United will face a tough proposition in the Halecos, who defeated the Victoria team in the Province Cup finals.

Toughest of the lot are smoothie Brian Philley, a constant danger at centre forward, and inside Frank Sealey, a shifty Trinidad youngster who has captured the imagination of Vancouver fans with his magic touches.

United will again go with Archie McMillan in goal, fronted by the steady fullback combination of veterans Bill Hope and Joe Robbins. It will be Harold Holroyd and Willie Hamilton at wing-halves with Harry Carruthers at centre half.

Rookie Billy Abbott will start at centre forward with George Wright and Guthrie as his inside mates and peppery Tim Wajker and Ken Hibbert at outsides.

A program draw for game tickets will be held at half-time.

Victoria's Col. Larry McCooey was slated to meet Trail's Pete McIntyre at Vancouver's Shaughnessy Golf Club in the 18-hole final of the B.C. Seniors' Golf Championship. McCooey downed 1954 champion Hugh O'Callaghan Thursday, 6 and 4, in the semis.

Heavyweight Elimination Bout on TV

NEW YORK (UP) — Young Floyd Patterson pits his speed, skill and punch against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's slapstick durability tonight in their heavyweight elimination fight at Madison Square Garden.

The winner probably will meet veteran Archie Moore for the vacant crown in September.

Patterson of St. Albans, N.Y., boasting 16 straight victories and 11 straight knockouts, is favored at 2-1 to harness the Hurricane from far Rockaway, N.Y., in this TV-radio (NBC) 12-rounder.

A crowd of 11,000 and a gate of $60,000 were forecast today by Harry Marksson, managing director of the International Boxing Club. In addition, the TV-radio yield is $75,000. Each fighter is guaranteed at least $40,000.

Nimble, explosive Patterson, at 21, is the ring's most impressive young heavyweight. The Olympic middleweight champion of 1952 has lost but one of his 30 professional bouts—and that one on a questionable decision to ex-light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim. He registered 21 knockouts.

RATED FOURTH

Floyd would be favored at a much longer price than 2-1, had he been more thoroughly tested against heavyweight opposition. He met only four heavies, and he was shifted from the light-heavy ranks to the heavy list only two months ago. Now he is ranked fourth.

Lanky, long-armed Jackson, 24, is rated second, only one notch below veteran Archie Moore. Prancing Tommy—master of the double uppercut with both fists simultaneously, the dangling arm defence, the perpetual-motion flailing and other goofy techniques—attained his high ranking by upsetting men who were supposed to flatten him quickly.

Those victims included Dan Bucceroni, Rex Layne, Ezzard Charles and Bob Baker.

Foul Bay Boosts Lead

Foul Bay added another prop to their first-place perch in the Senior B Lacrosse League standings Thursday night, edging Jokers, 5-3, in a tight-checking game at Stevenson Park.

Foul Bay scorers were Stan Tyson, Jack Reid, George Kelly, Jack Milburn and Reg Foster.

REPORT FROM THE OUTDOORS

Gunsmoke and shattered shreds of blasted targets should just about blot out the sun this weekend as the best trap and skeet gunners in the Pacific Northwest area open fire on city and Island trap and skeet titles.

The occasion will be the Vancouver Island Skeet (Saturday) and the Victoria City Trap (Sunday) championships at the Gun Club's always hospitable grounds on the Albert Head road.

Jack Roach

Shooters are expected from all over the Island, from Vantouver, Seattle, Redmond, Port Angeles, New Westminster and Ladner and there should be close to 150 shooters taking part.

On Saturday, the first event will be a new one, a 50-target 12-gauge shoot with the resident high gun receiving the Olson Trophy.

Then there will be the all-bore championship, two-man team shoot and open five-man team shoot.

On Sunday, the trap experts will shoot it out for the Wilson & Lenfesty, Tillicum Athletic Club, Ernie Todd and Wallace McMillan trophies.

In the skeet shoot, Victoria's perennial champ Ted Bailey will be one of the men to beat but Ted can expect stiff arguments from the likes of club-mate Dib Noble, Dr. W. A. Robertson of Vancouver and last year's all-round champ, Frank Opsal of Vancouver.

Opsal will be a threat in the trap as well, but nerveless Jack Roach and Johnny Wenger could pull off some surprises.

A couple of other shooters named Herb Handyside and Vern Palliser have been knocking off hot totals recently and they just might be the guys to upset the apple-cart.

Wednesday night in a driving rain, Palliser knocked off 25 straight with a 12-gauge and followed up with a 22 with the 20-gauge.

Bill Johnson made a business trip up-Island last week and brings this capsule report on the fishing conditions:

Bates Beach at Courtenay—Loaded with big springs, from 18-25 pounds. Fish taking herring strip mostly with the odd Lucky Louie for an appetizer.

Qualicum Beach—Lots of bluebacks.

Nanaimo—Ditto on the bluebacks although you won't get the people in Nanaimo to admit it to an outsider.

Campbell River—Most lakes producing pleasingly for trout fishermen on troll and fly. Bill hiked into Fish Lake and took a limit of 14-inchers spinning small wobblers from the shore when it was too rough for a fly.

English Batsman Stars, Injuries Hit Aussies

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Peter Richardson, England's 24-year-old left-handed opening batsman, made an excellent test debut here Thursday in scoring 65 not out of England's total of 134 for 2 against the Australians.

The opening day of the first test between Australia and England, was cut short by rain, which clipped playing time to 3½ hours.

Richardson reached 51 out of 92, with five fours, in two hours 10 minutes, and added 14 more in cautious batting before the close.

Colin Cowdrey, sent in to open with Richardson, stayed for 75 minutes in scoring 25 and helped in a stand of 53. Tom Graveney made only eight but Peter May, England's captain, stayed with Richardson in an unfinished stand of 62. May was 31 not out at the close.

PLAYERS HURT

The Australians, who have been dogged by injuries, suffered two severe setbacks Thursday.

First, Ray Lindwall had a recurrence of a strained thigh muscle first sustained at Lords last week and had to leave the field. Then Alan Davidson slipped when bowling and was carried off the field.

Lindwall is not expected to play today. An X-ray of Davidson's ankle disclosed no fracture, but a specialist was called for further examination.

LEAGUE BACKS UMP

Perkins Stays, Arrows Don't

Arrow Furniture are out of the Senior A Softball League by their own wish and umpire Gordy Perkins is still in by the wish of the majority of league managers, coaches and executive members.

That was the net result of a heated meeting called Thursday night to resolve the small war between Arrows and Perkins. Arrows had charged Perkins with discriminatory officiating.

The team threatened to withdraw from the league unless assurance was given them that Perkins would not be assigned to any of their games.

League president Norm Nichols, who refused to accept the Arrows' conditions, was backed by a 75 per cent vote Thursday night on a secret ballot to choose between the team and the umpire.

Voting were the coaches and managers of the three teams in the league and three members of the league executive.

EXHIBITION GAMES

As a result of the vote, Arrows' withdrawal was accepted and the league will operate with two teams and will bolster the schedule with exhibition games with Vancouver and United States teams.

Arrow delegates at the meeting stated that they were not disputing any specific decisions rendered by Perkins in his umpiring chores but that they felt his attitude to the team was hostile and discriminatory.

Nichols said that he was sorry about the entire affair and wished to extend his apologies to Perkins for any embarrassment he had been subjected to.

WELCOME BACK

He said, "We would like to have Arrows back in the league as a unit any time they wish to re-enter but they would have to come back under our conditions. It is the feeling of the executive and the other teams in the league that no one team should be allowed to dictate terms."

"I must commend Arrow sponsor Frank Wight for standing behind his team in their opinion and I wish we had more sports sponsors in town who are as actively interested in their team as he is."

Chinese and Gorge played a league game at Central park prior to last night's meeting, with the Hotelmen winning, 4-3.

Mickey Not Really Hurt, Says Williams

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, an authority on baseball shifts, said Thursday New York's Mickey Mantle may be hurt psychologically but not otherwise by Lou Boudreau's new defence.

"Frankly, I'm surprised it hasn't been done earlier," Ted added. Williams—the Boston Red Sox slugger who first faced a shift in the summer of 1946 when Boudreau managed Cleveland—commented on Kansas City's recent manoeuvres against the sensational Mantle.

Boudreau has had his club radically shifted against the switch-hitting Mantle when he is at bat as a left hander. The defence is over-shifted to the right with virtually no left-fielder and one man on the edge of the grass on the left side of the infield.

"It may hurt Mantle psychologically," Williams said, "but that's the only way. You can't stop a good hitter like him."

Score to Miss Yankee Series

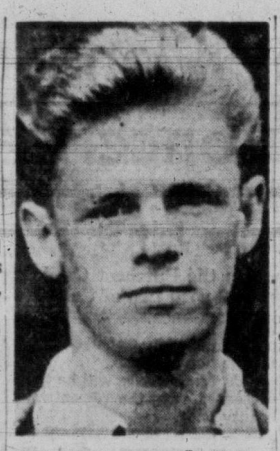
BALTIMORE (AP)—Doctors said Thursday Herb Score, fireballing pitcher of Cleveland Indians, will miss the coming series against New York Yankees and it is "only a possibility" he may be able to rejoin the Indians Monday in Boston.

The hurler's ailment was diagnosed as "an inflammation of the colon," a condition which was not considered serious.

Gordon Offered Cleveland Post

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jackie Gordon has been offered the job as coach of Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League to succeed Fred "Bun" Cook, club officials announced Thursday night.

Gordon, 28, whose home is in Winnipeg, has not made any commitment as to whether he would accept or reject the offer. He is scheduled to be here early next week to discuss the offer with general manager Jim Hendy.



SOCCER'S DREAM GAME goes Saturday night at Empire Stadium when Everton of the English first division tackles Aberdeen of the Scottish first division in an exhibition match. Among the Aberdeen stars on display will be Dave Caldwell.

Aberdeen Humiliates Prairie Side

REGINA (CP)—The touring Aberdeen soccer team defeated an all-star Saskatchewan team 17-0 in this prairie city Thursday night, turning an exhibition soccer match into a rout before 2,652 spectators.

Playing typical close-to-the-ground Scottish soccer, the Division A team knocked in 13 fast goals in the final half, when Saskatchewan select actually made its best showing.

Inside-right Harry Yorston counted two in each half as Aberdeens, playing to win, scored their most overwhelming defeat in the first four games of their tour. They meet Everton at Vancouver Saturday.

Outside-right Graham Leggat scored four goals and John Allan, substituting in long stretches for star Paddy Buckley, scored three. Buckley counted twice.

Racing Opens At Longacres

SEATTLE (AP) — Longacres race track will open its 60-day 1956 gallop program today with the $5,000 added Boeing Stake as the jumpoff feature.

Full programs also are on tap for Saturday and Sunday.

Next week the track will swing into its regular schedule of twilight racing Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays and afternoon cards on weekends.

Thirlwell, McIntyre In City Golf Final

Mrs. B. Thirlwell and Mrs. H. McIntyre were scheduled to meet this morning in an 18-hole final playoff for the city women's golf championship at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Both qualified for the final by scoring semifinal victories Thursday, Mrs. Thirlwell trimming Mrs. T. G. Harris, 4 and 2, and Mrs. McIntyre edging Mrs. K. Lawson, 2 and 1.

Flight results follow:

CONSOLATION FLIGHT

Mrs. R. Fanthorpe won from Mrs. B. Humber, 3 and 1.

Mrs. J. Clark won from Mrs. S. Haynes, 4 and 3.

SECOND FLIGHT

Mrs. C. Harrell won from Mrs. R. Wakelin, 4 and 3.

Mrs. A. Cooke won from Miss R. Jones, 3 and 6.

Robinson Offered 100 Gs for Title Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—The manager of Bobby Boyd, Chicago's No. 2 ranked middleweight contender, Thursday offered a $100,000 guarantee for a title shot at champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

Boyd Wednesday night scored a 10th-round TKO over Mike Savage for his ninth straight victory in a nationally-televised bout at the Chicago Stadium.

Symphony Plans Butchart Concerts

Soprano, Baritone Guest Soloists For Outdoor Programs July 5, 15

Popular symphony concerts in the Butchart Gardens will be repeated July 5 and July 12 with two of Canada's most brilliant young artists in attendance.

Guest at the first concert will be Marguerite Lavergne, Montreal soprano and co-winner of the 1956 "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" contest.

The other winner, Toronto baritone James Whicher, will sing July 12.

Hans Gruber again will conduct the full 70-piece Victoria Symphony Orchestra in the evening concerts, which proved last year to draw the largest attendance of any symphony orchestra performance in Canada—10,000 for the two concerts.

This year's series will be third presented at the Brentwood beauty spot.

CHEK-TV CALL LETTERS FOR NEW CITY STATION

The city's new television station will be called CHEK-TV, president David Armstrong said Thursday.

He and general manager Charles White chose the name after the CBC ruled out CKTV as any name must contain six letters, and CKDA-TV because the television company is separate from radio station CKDA.

CHEK-TV will employ about 25 persons to start, increasing to 60 or 75 persons later. This will represent a salary payment of from $125,000 to $375,000 yearly.

Site of the television station has not yet been selected, Mr. Armstrong said. Operation is expected to start this fall.

Lion-Mauled Boy Dies of Injuries

LUTON, England (AP)—Tony Murphy, the 10-year-old London boy who was mauled by a lion at Whipsnade zoo a week ago, died Thursday night in hospital.

Both his arms had been amputated after fearful injuries inflicted by the lion which lashed his paws at the boy through the bars of an inner cage.

A day after the amputation an operation was performed on Tony's skull and he was placed in an iron lung. He did not regain consciousness after the operation, but he knew before he died that he had lost his arms.

Tony visited the zoo with a group of wolf cub scouts. The most disconsolate person as he died was a scoutmaster-priest, Father Ronald Aylward who was in charge of a group of children on their outing to the zoo 30 miles north of London.

Father Aylward ran to the boy's aid, beat the lion on the head with an iron bar, and managed to drag Tony away from the cage.

Midget Cigarets For E. Germans

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany Thursday reversed the trend toward king-sized cigarets and brought out a midget model for people who want just a few puffs. A state-owned cigaret factory at Dresden announced the new size of nearly two inches.

Architects Plan Scale Model Of Gallery Wing

A detailed scale model of a proposed new fireproof wing at Victoria Art Gallery will be constructed by architects Clack, Clayton, Pickstone.

Its display in the district will coincide with further fund-raising.

Design has been lent to Calgary and Winnipeg officials as a guide to similar constructions planned in those centres. Plans were chosen in competition sponsored by Victoria Rotary.

Monster of Sea Proves Turtle 45 Feet Long

CHATHAM, Mass. (AP) — The Coast Guard Wednesday night warned ships in the North Atlantic about what it termed a sea "Monster"—a giant turtle, 45 feet long with white-spotted shell.

The marine ship to shore radio station here received that description from the captain of the Liberian freighter Rhapsody, located somewhere south of Nova Scotia.

The message, relayed by the United States Coast Guard as a warning to all navigation, said the turtle had 15-foot long flippers, a soft shell, and rose from eight feet above the water's surface.

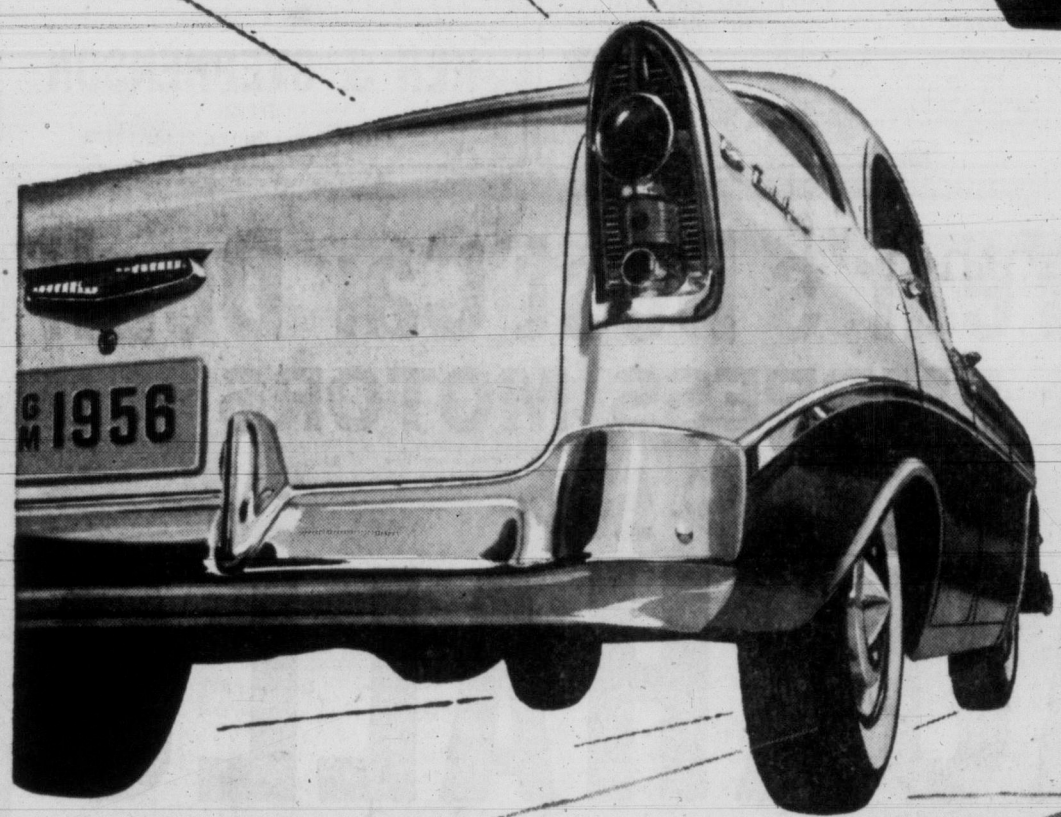
HIGH-FASHION STYLING

that will never go out of date!

CHEVROLET'S GOT IT TODAY... THE STUNNING SIMPLICITY, THE FRESH, FRESH FASHION YOU'LL FIND IMITATED FOR YEARS TO COME!



No other styling, presents the keen, uncluttered grace of the Chevrolet grille ... new and bold as the surging engine-power behind it!

Just look it over — the wider grille that sweeps clear across the full front end ... the big bold parking lights set at each side ... the crisp, classic simplicity that sets Chevrolet years ahead! And the subtle slope of the longer, lower hood is as functional as it is beautiful ... your view of the road has never been so unhampered!

Breezy new elegance right to the rear ... excitingly free of fuss and fancy folderol!

Let your eye leap up from the new rakish rear wheel openings to the jewel-like flair of the Chevrolet's new taillights. High-fashion details wherever you look ... the graceful chrome framing, the embossed metal background ... and the stylish secret that Chevrolet shares with much more expensive cars (the left taillight assembly swings down to uncover the gas cap)!

Only in Chevrolet, those low, lovely unloaded lines ... the clean-limbed zest of the gayest car on the road!

Not an ounce of chrome without its role in expressing the joy, the fresh liveliness of Chevrolet's action! But haven't you been a street-side spectator long enough? Come slip inside this fleet, fashionable beauty ... how proud you feel in this most stylish, most powerful of all Chevrolets! Your nearest Chevrolet dealer is at your service. Drop by soon.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading was dull and mostly routine today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Reports of the illness of President Eisenhower caused some uneasiness.

Commercial demand was limited and the only export business overseas reported was small sales of barley to the United Kingdom.

Oats was a domestic trade. Barley attracted some export orders in connection with the overseas business. Support was thin in flax and prices eased off under a small increase in offerings. Buying was for international accounts. Commission house buying kept rye firm.

No information was available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Thursday except for IWA and domestic No. 1 durum which dropped one-quarter cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Old crop grains with the exception of oats, held steady on the board of trade today.

News of President Eisenhower's latest illness caused a flurry of buying in most pits as the shorts sought to get out of the market.

West Must Win Race With Reds, Dewey Tells CMA

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Western peoples, for their own preservation, need the friendship of the undeveloped countries of the world, Thomas E. Dewey, former governor of New York state, said today in an address at the closing luncheon of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention.

More than 600,000,000 people across Asia—from Lebanon on the Mediterranean to Indonesia and the Philippines in the Pacific—have achieved self-government in the last 10 years in the greatest revolution in the world's history, said Mr. Dewey.

In short, there was a vacuum in the world — the biggest vacuum in history.

"It will," Mr. Dewey added, "take the most extraordinary and skillful combination of government and business partnership to fill this vacuum before the Communists fill it. We cannot afford to let them fill it. If they should win this race, then we would be a small minority in a world led by an expansionist aggressive Communist dictatorship.

Thursday night, in an address to the convention banquet, Governor-General Massey confessed he had doubts about streamlined, foolproof, scientific methods of selecting personnel for industry.

J. N. T. BULMAN

Winnipeg Printer Heads CMA

TORONTO (CP)—J. N. T. Bulman of Winnipeg today was elected president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He succeeds T. A. Rice of Hamilton, president for the last year, who takes the office of immediate past president.

H. V. Lush of Toronto was elected first vice-president, Ian McRae of Toronto second vice-president and J. Ross Belton of Toronto treasurer.

Mr. Bulman, the association's first vice-president during the last year, is president and general manager of Bulman Brothers Ltd., lithographers and printers, Winnipeg, and Bulman Brothers B.C., Vancouver.

Louis Lang of Galt, Ont., president of the CMA in 1942-43, and J. B. Thomson of Vancouver, chairman of the British Columbia division in 1920-22, were made life members of the association.

FLORENCE PENALTY 'INADEQUATE'

Crown Will Appeal Swindle Sentence

VANCOUVER (CP) — City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said Thursday he will appeal against what he called a "woefully inadequate" two-year sentence imposed Thursday on Goodman Florence, 55, convicted of a $200,000 fraud.

Florence, who pleaded guilty a week ago, was charged after he went to the attorney-general expressing concern for some of the investors who were destitute. He asked the attorney-general if the government could pay back the investors and offered to work for the government to make up the money.

Of the $200,000 involved—reported to have included the savings of old-age pensioners and widows — prosecutor Stewart McMoran said $119,000 was unaccounted for.

Deputy Attorney-General Alan Maclean today explained to the Times the swindling racket operated by Florence.

Mr. Maclean said Florence purported to be an organizer of various enterprises and represented himself as a man of "great financial sagacity." He would obtain from his victim a set amount of money on a written contract for shares in a company to be incorporated.

"He told his victims that pending incorporation of the company he would pay them interest at the rate of one per cent a month," Mr. Maclean said.

"Then he made various unsuccessful investments with the money.

"He did pay interest to many but he was actually paying them back out of their own money or money he obtained from others."

The companies were never incorporated.

"He kept his victims quite contented for long periods," Mr. Maclean added. "No complaints were made to us until the system got too big for him and he could no longer keep up with the interest payments he had promised.

"It appears that he used the money obtained from victims for what he termed his 'expenses'."

Iran Seizes Russ Refinery

TEHRAN (AP)—Using the same nationalization law that drove British owners from her oilfields, Iran has taken over a Russian oil works in Khuryan, 165 miles east of Tehran.

The Soviet embassy promptly registered a complaint.

A government spokesman said that a contract made 30 years ago was not signed by an authorized government agency, therefore Iran does not feel bound to pay compensation. But he added that the government will negotiate with the Russians over the seizure to avoid misunderstandings.

DISTRICT NOTES: There was a good turnout at the monthly meeting of the Akela Club on Thursday evening.

Major H. B. Hunter, DSO, former district commissioner for 14 years, was presented with the scouts gold "thanks badge" for his untiring service to scouting.

The major expressed his thanks, saying he had a lot of fun and enjoyment in his association with the boys and their leaders. The wearing of this badge requires any cub, scout or scouter to offer the holder a helping hand.

Assistant district commissioner Francis Naish presented warrants of appointment as scouters to Mrs. Helen Lomas, North Quadra group, and Miss Joy Ruddock, St. John's group.

Miss Margaret McClure was presented with her Gilwell neckerchief and the "wood-beads" badge. This award is for taking special training in scouting.

Rover Leader Don Hamer with rovers Bill Hurst and Glen Oliphant were visitors.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy?

Andy, who is a pixie, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive as prizes, for the main question, a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) beautifully bound with excellent color illustrations. Second award will either be a huge Hammond Globe, a Hammond World Atlas, or a Hammond Nature Atlas of North America.

Send your questions to "Ask Andy," c/o the Times 2631 Douglas Street.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Paula Van Loon, aged 11, of Berkeley, California, for her question:

How Is a Whirlwind Caused?

A little whirlwind is a pleasure to watch. It appears on a hot summer's day. It is most likely to start its spinning dance in a dry or desert region. Sometimes you may see a dozen of them kicking up the dust over a stretch of desert.

The whirlwind is no relative of the furious whirling tornado. The tornado starts in a cloud above and dips in a funnel down to the ground. The little whirlwind starts on the ground and winds itself upwards. At times it may be wild enough to tear down a bough or rip a shingle off a roof. But it never blows up to the fury of the tornado.

Certain things are necessary to start the whirlwind dancing. The hot sun is usually glaring down on the ground. A hundred feet up or thereabouts, the air must be fairly cool. The layer of air close to the ground must be much hotter than the layer of air above it.

A desert region is fine for these conditions. The ground cools off fast after a hot day. It cools the air above it. Night air tends to be chilly even over a scorching desert. Come morning, the ground gets its quota of heat and soon begins to warm the low layer of air above it. Hot air tends to rise. As it rises it expands and as it expands it cools. So, very often, the hot air on the face of the desert is covered by a layer of cooler air above. Hence the stage is often set for a ballet of jigging whirlwinds.

The fun begins when a small patch of warm air rises straight up in a column. This makes a straight column of lighter air. When you scoop a cup of water out of a pail, the surrounding water flows in to fill up the hole. The heavier air around the column of light air behaves in much the same way.

It rushes in from all directions. The jig is on. Because the big earth is spinning, the inflowing air spins around in a spiral. But unlike the tornado, the whirlwind can spin around in either direction. It stirs up the dust and whirls away leaves and debris. The dust rises and falls and trips along as the merry little whirlwind dances hither and thither.

Strange to say, the little dancer is really cooling the hot desert. It carries aloft the scorching air near the ground. This air cools as it rises and expands. Cooler air is mixed with the desert heat. True, this does not make a great deal of difference to the temperature of a scorching desert. But the desert would be somewhat hotter without it. The whirlwind stirs up a small local breeze. But the breeze is not much use when it comes to fanning the weary traveler. All he feels is a face full of whirling dust.

Andy sends a Hammond Nature Atlas of America to Pat Holmes, age 13, of Cleveland, Ohio, for her question:

Are three and four-leaf clovers related or strangers?

Sometimes a little black lamb gets born in a flock of white sheep. His mama knows that he is no stranger. Sometimes a black leopard gets born to brown and white spotted parents. He is no stranger either. These things also can happen in the plant world. Andy has seen pink and blue cornflowers growing contentedly from the same plant.

Most clover leaves grow in three heart-shaped sections. But once in a while a pretty clover leaf may have four sections. All its brother and sister leaves on the same plant have but three sections. This is not because the four-leaf clover cannot count. Nor is it a stranger. It is a sort of accident, like the black lamb, the black leopard and the pink cornflowers.

Some clover plants tend to grow more four-leaf children than others. These plants may be sorted out and bred with other plants which also tend to grow more four-leaf clovers. The next generation of these plants will tend to grow still more leaves with four sections. You can sometimes find such plants for sale in a flower shop. But the good old magic four-leaf clover is still to be found once in a while in any patch of clover.

Oak Bay Willing To Join District Board of Health

Reeve Norris Offers Plan; Denies Charges by Victoria-Esquimalt Body

Oak Bay is ready and willing to enter a Greater Victoria Union Board of Health, Reeve F. E. Norris said today.

He listed a 12-point plan for participation. If his plan is agreeable to Saanich and the present Victoria-Esquimalt health union, he said his council is prepared to:

1. Pay one-quarter the average salary of all medical practitioners employed by a metropolitan health board.

2. Pay salary and expenses of two staff public health nurses;

3. Pay $1,500 per year for clerical work;

4. Arrive at satisfactory payment for stationery and office supplies.

The reeve's announcement was studded with denials of statements by Victoria-Esquimalt health board officials recently. Chief among these was the inference that Oak Bay opposed a metropolitan health board.

"Oak Bay has never said it was opposed to the union board . . . it has requested frequently that some concrete plan be set forth as a basis of discussions. Nothing has yet been submitted for consideration," the reeve said.

Claims No Services Received Free

The reeve also countered charges that Oak Bay citizens are receiving services paid for by Victoria-Esquimalt ratepayers.

City-Esquimalt authorities said Oak Bay profited from sanitary inspections of cafes, and food plants in the city.

"Commercial establishments within municipal boundaries . . . meat packers, eating places, dairies, pay taxes and licence fees to their municipalities.

"It is absurd to think these revenues do not include the costs of health inspection. The customers of these businesses in turn pay their share through the cost of the products they purchase."

It had been stated that Oak Bay residents were obtaining free immunization service at the city health centre.

"Immunization and vaccination are supplied by Oak Bay health officer and these are not confined to Oak Bay residents. The Oak Bay well-baby clinic has accepted children from other municipalities without question."

Victoria-Esquimalt board had suggested Oak Bay and Saanich residents receiving services in the city should be required to pay. Said the reeve, "If the other health units wish to refuse Oak Bay residents . . . they are at liberty to do so. This service is available in Oak Bay."

Reeve Norris sees difficulties in the metropolitan health district as proposed, as it extends from Cobble Hill through the Gulf Islands to Sooke and Jordan River, containing cities, municipalities, villages and unorganized territory.

"It is so far removed from municipal thinking that it should become a straight provincial responsibility, or a second consideration should be given to the whole question."

"The municipality of Oak Bay is not prepared to submerge its identity in such a scheme. It feels it must continue to meet the personal desires peculiar to a residential municipality without being encumbered by many irrevalent problems to which it would be not close enough to make an intelligent contribution."

He admitted there are technical difficulties which could arise in the present arrangement for Greater Victoria, but called them "more speculative than real."

He said in order to circumvent these difficulties and still be in position to ensure Oak Bay residents of continued high health standards, he proposed that the metro health board medical health officer would also become Oak Bay's medical health officer. Oak Bay would continue to have its own municipal health board, and maintain its own health office, sanitary inspections, rodent control, well baby clinic, immunization program and VON nursing, bedside nursing, and parentcraft instruction classes.

PETER TOWNSEND

Townsend Quits RAF, Goes Roaming

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend today announced that he is giving up his career in the RAF to go on a lone motor trip around the world which will take him through the United States and Canada.

He indicated that the 18-month tour would end in Africa, from where "I may never come back."

The group captain has continued to work in the British embassy here since Princess Margaret publicly renounced marriage with him last October.

Townsend was asked whether he was going on any scientific or other mission on the trip. He replied: "No, I shall be on no mission whatsoever. I just want to go."

Asked whether he will be alone in his car during his world tour, Townsend said: "Yes, that is the idea."

RESIGNS FROM RAF

He added: "My itinerary will be to India by way of Persia, then on to Burma, Malaya, Australia, Japan, Canada, America, Mexico, South America, across to Africa, and through the African jungle.

"Most of the time I shall be a lone driver."

He told Reuters news agency he will resign his commission in the RAF towards the end of the year, adding:

"I am not sure about the date. It depends on the arrival of my successor, which I do not think is fixed yet."

Townsend returned here from London last July to resume duties as air attache after Princess Margaret, in a public statement, said she had decided not to marry him. Their names had been linked for some time.

Atomic Research 'Heavy Water' Reaches India

BOMBAY (Reuters)—Seven tons of "heavy water" has arrived in Bombay in the 5,000-ton Norwegian ship Hoegh Silvermoon from New York to be used for peaceful atomic research here. Some 21 tons of it is to be brought in under an Indo-United States agreement.

HONORARY SURGEON to the Queen is designation awarded Dr. A. W. Farmer, MBE, of University of Toronto's department of surgery in the birthday honors list. He is chairman of the medical committee of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

HUSBAND DIED IN BLAZE

Woman Set Fatal Fire Doctor Tells Jury

VANCOUVER (CP) — The death of a 61year-old man in a house fire in suburban Richmond May 30 was homicide, a coroner's jury found Thursday night.

Dr. John Morris Coles testified the 36-year-old wife of fire victim John Alfred Nordstrom told him she set fire to the curtains and ran out of the house.

Mrs. Nordstrom now is in the provincial mental hospital at Essondale.

"I didn't want to hurt him—only the things he had," Dr. Coles quoted the woman as saying.

The jury returned a verdict of homicidal death by Carbon monoxide caused by the fire. Mr. Nordstrom's body was found lying on the bedroom floor of the charred house.

Norman Combatley said he was driving past the house at 3.30 a.m. when he saw flames.

"I yelled and knocked on the doors and windows, but there was no answer. I broke the front door and got inside. The smoke was to thick in there and it forced me outside."

Stanley L. Silvester, a neighbor, said his wife called the fire department.

Several hours later he saw someone sitting in a bush.

"I yelled to an officer and we both ran out, jumping over the drainage ditch. Mrs. Nordstrom was sitting there on a log about 60 feet from the house."

Mr. Silvester said at the time of the fire Mrs. Nordstrom looked dazed and distracted.

Another neighbor, Paul Koop, said she was "terribly sick."

Dr. Coles described Mrs. Nordstrom as an epileptic and diabetic.

Honeymoon Car Hits Pole, Ottawa Bride Killed

PENNOCK, Minn. (AP) — The car of a honeymooning Canadian couple struck a telephone pole Thursday, killing the bride, throwing her husband up 12 feet on to the cross-arms of the pole, and knocking out eight long - distance phone circuits. Mrs. Ben Quan of Ottawa was killed in the crash. Her 32-year-old husband, who had to be removed from the tangled telephone lines and shattered cross arms, escaped with facial cuts.

THE CRIME DEPENDS ON WHO'S UNDER THE SHIRT

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—Under some circumstances it can be construed as disorderly conduct if you take off your shirt while painting your garage on a hot day. A school teacher paid a $10 fine Thursday after pleading guilty.

Police said the defendant, Miss Selena Mary Smith, wasn't wearing anything under the shirt.

Suez Canal Treasury Gives £21 Million to Egypt

CAIRO (AP)—The ministry of finance said Thursday the Suez Canal Company has agreed to transfer £21,000,000 to Egypt to boost the nation's development. A communique said funds from the canal's earnings will be turned over during the next 12 years and will be invested in a number of projects.

City Firm Gets $131,624 Job

Chapels To Be Built For Belmont Housing

Farmer Construction Ltd. has started work on a $131,624 Department of Defence Production contract to build two chapels for the Belmont Park area.

Excavation for foundations is now under way, and it is expected the two chapels will be completed early in 1957.

One will be for the use of Roman Catholic worshippers, the other for Protestants. Each will seat 288.

Built to a standard tri-service design, prepared by the defence department, they are 42 feet wide by 97 feet over-all. The Catholic chapel will have living quarters adjoining for the padre; this area in the Protestant chapel will be used for a meeting room.

The RC chapel is being built behind the John Stubbs School; the Protestant near Rodd Hill.

Contract for furnishing the two has yet to be awarded.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE of the 1956 Community Chest has named Hector Alexander, Victoria Press advertising director, as vice-chairman. Mr. Alexander has served on the committee for three years. The campaign opens in October under chairmanship of Harry Gladwell.

WINDS SEEN POSTPONING STRAIT BIDS

Possibility exists that the two swim attempts on Juan de Fuca early Saturday will be washed, or rather blown, out.

Early morning wind predictions are for 15 to 20 miles per hour.

Slated to go from Clover Point at 4 a.m. was chef Ben Laughren and from the breakwater at 6 a.m. Saanich surveyor Bill Muir.

Decision on whether or not to make the attempt—Ben's fourth this year and Muir's second—will not be made until later in the day.

"We just can't find out until tonight about the weather," Muir said.

He'll be accompanied by the yessel Wensue run by Bud Phillips, and trainer Dave Ridout. Laughren will be accompanied by Maury Wilkinson's Meota and trainer Ove Witt.

In other swim developments, Toronto municipal employee Ted Simmons, 24, is en route here with coach Steve Mellors to take a crack at the strait from this side.

He's expected to arrive here Sunday.

Ogden Pt. Docks Bustling As 6 Ships Work

The "waiting room only" sign was out briefly at Ogden Point today, with five ships working and one waiting for space.

All fourth berths for lumber ships were occupied, a ship was loading grain at Victoria Elevator Ltd. dock, and the sixth ship was moored at Victoria Machinery Depot's outer wharf waiting her turn to load wheat.

The waiting ship, Ss. Usa Maru, shifted berth shortly before noon after her predecessor at the grain spouts, Ss. Bougainville, finished loading.

Others working at the Point today were: Agios Spyridon, Abbedyk, Neride, and Basil II. All but Neride and Asu Maru are expected to finish loading before Saturday morning, but three more freighters are due over the weekend.

Top RCN Nurse Here Next Week

Head of the RCN nursing service, Lieut.-Cmdr. (Medical Nurse) Mary E. Nesbitt will visit Victoria and Esquimalt next week.

At Malahat, she will interview prospective nursing officer applicants for the RCN.

Music, Films For Lunch Hour Urged at Library

Lunch-time programs of music and educational films soon may be a daily attraction at Victoria Public Library.

Board member Capt. D. J. Proudfoot said today he will propose 12 noon to 2 p.m. daily free entertainment at the next library board meeting.

He asid the programs, which have already been unofficially approved by board members he has spoken to, will be geared to suit office and clerical workers who have time to spare during their lunch breaks.

Presentations will be informal and visitors will be able to come and go as they please.

Capt. Proudfoot would like to see the programs carried out as an annual event during the period from May to September.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the things I have always believed in is the absolute accuracy of that renowned news-gathering agency, The Canadian Press.

Thus you can understand why I was quick to spring into action when the following bulletin came in on the teletype yesterday:

"VANCOUVER (CP)—Four Royal Canadian Navy ships will participate in Seattle's 'Seafair' this summer.

"The vessels, HMCS Naden, HMCS Brockville, HMCS Digby and HMCS Oshawa, will be in the Washington port Aug. 3-5."

As soon as I read this electrifying news, I telephoned Commodore Patrick Budge, officer commanding HMCS Naden, and requested permission to come aboard and travel with the ship when she sailed for Seattle.

In his usual gracious manner, Commodore Budge said he would be glad to grant permission.

"We will do our best to make you comfortable," he said. "And at least," he added, "I doubt if you will be seasick."

So I can hardly wait for the great day, when HMCS Naden sails majestically down Puget Sound.

If only we could arrange for a suitable escort fleet, including, of course, HMC Ships Malahat and Venture.

But I suppose that would leave too many bare patches in the local landscape.

I have been meaning to tell you about the bright saying of Geoff Gwynne.

Geoff's bright saying is: "The boss may not always be right, but he is always the boss."

Geoff will go a long way.

Sometimes the constituents frighten me. As you will see, from this letter:

Dear Mr. Roberts:

Your jokes have been of very poor calibre lately so here is an original true story.

Today I went to purchase a cake—a two dollar birthday cake, and when I suggested it was rather expensive I was assured it was of excellent materials and kept well.

Of course, I bought it because who wants a sick cake!

Forever thine,

Cattle Point. Holly Bush.

Holly Bush, you're the berries. And 23 skiddoo to you.

Application for reinstitution of his licence will be considered in six months, Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

FACIAL FLORA FOR SAANICH COUNCILLORS

Saanich councillors are going to grow beards.

All but one Saanich councillor have agreed to "cultivate" their whiskers in a contest marking the municipality's 50th anniversary celebrations to be held at Beaver-Elk Lake Park on Labor Day.

The only exception is George Austin, veteran councillor.

He is cool to the idea: "If I grow a beard it will be a false one," he said. "No, no, I definitely won't."

The suggestion that members of the council grow whiskers was made by Coun. Ronald Grant at a parks committee meeting which met Thursday to discuss a program for the celebrations.

"As the youngest member of the council I feel I can grow the biggest beard," he challenged. "The only thing I'm worrying about is how to explain to the judges in court that I'm growing whiskers." (Mr. Grant is a lawyer.)

Reeve Arthur Ash said he will grow a beard:

"I'm a little doubtful, however, if I can grow more hair than I have on my head," he said, rubbing a balding pate.

Nursing Team From Oak Bay Best in Canada

A competition team from Oak Bay Nursing Division No. 176, Victoria Nursing Corps of the St John Ambulance Brigade, today was declared winner of the Lady Drummond trophy for the best home nursing team in Canada.

Results were announced in Ottawa today.

The team was given the same problem as those in other centres across Canada, all of which were graded by Miss Mary Acland, chief nursing officer of the brigade for Canada. Team members were Mrs. Gladys Murphy, captain; Mrs. H. R. McDonald, Miss Thelma Hopkins, Mrs. Eileen Hopwood, Mrs. Rose Howard.

Mid-July Date To Order Steel For New Bridge

Pt. Ellice Span Final Plans Soon

Detailed designs for the new $500,000 Point Ellice Bridge will be complete by July 15 and orders for steel will be placed at that time.

Consulting and designing engineer A. B. Sanderson met with city engineer J. C. Garnett today and delivered a preliminary report. He said he anticipates final cost will be within the $500,000 figure set earlier.

Front and side elevations of the bridge were presented to the engineer. They show clearly the 4.3 per cent grade leading to the bridge, due to its increased height, will start at Pleasant Street. This necessitates construction of a new entrance from Bay Street to Victoria Machinery Depot yards via a ramp running off the roadway and parallel to it.

WATER MAIN

"Time of construction will be governed by the availability of steel and the fact that a 32-inch water main crossing the bridge cannot be shut down in summer months," the engineer said. He repeated his earlier assumption that construction will get under way early in 1957 and might be completed by Easter.

The city engineer and the designer agreed local contractors have men and equipment suited to the construction. Contract will be decided by tender.

The new bridge will be 36 feet above high water, 12 feet higher than the present span. There will be a concrete roadway a car-width wider than at present and there will be no overhead steel except for lamp standards. Rails have a gentle inward curve making them almost impossible for children to climb.

Money Stolen In Break-Ins At Union Offices

Burglaries occurred overnight Wednesday at union offices at Canadian Congress of Labor Hall, 715 Johnson, and a total of $33 stolen, police report.

Door of machinists' union was forced, along with a filing cabinet containing $20. International Woodworkers of America office lost $11 in the same way and offices occupied by shipwrights and railway employees unions were entered but had nothing stolen.

Machinists' union office has been entered several times and cash stolen.

An electric dash board clock was stolen from a car parked in front of C and C Taxi office, Government, Thursday afternoon about 4.

Eric Adair, 20 Menzies, reported he was away from the car only 10 minutes and returned to find the clock gone today.

CHEQUE FOR $500 was presented by firm and employees of Victoria Press Ltd. to Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign this week. Brigadier Clifford Milley received donation from employees' representative, Mrs. Sylvia Jones. Staff raised $300 and firm donated balance. At noon today a total of $31,964 of a $38,000 objective was on hand.

Law Student Wins Prize For Writing

University of B.C. student Stanley Martin Beck, 1108 West 50th, Vancouver, was announced first winner today of Victoria Daily Times $100 writing prize for his work as editor of the campus newspaper last session.

Now working as a reporter for the Vancouver Herald, Beck was picked because his writing "shows a great deal of maturity and he has made a fine contribution over the year to the Ubyssey," judges said.

Although announcement that the prize would be offered came late in the spring term, about 15 entries were received from interested students.

Material submitted was not written with the object of competition in mind.

Beck plans to enter the university faculty of law.

MAGAZINE WORK

He was a member of the Ubyssey staff for several years before chosen editor-in-chief last year, and also was active in establishment of the literary magazine Raven.

His submissions for the award were in the form of editorials written for the Ubyssey.

The prize will be awarded annually to a student qualifying, and is to encourage fresh, original, creative writing which shows promise of development.

To be eligible, a student must be proceeding toward a degree.

His submission must have been written for publication during the year in the field of mass-media, including the student newspaper and magazines.

New Appointment For Gilbert Hogg

Legislative counsel here since 1951, Gilbert Pitcairn Hogg has been appointed assistant deputy attorney-general, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today.

PICTURESQUE PATTER

New Zealand PM Interview Expert

By TONY DICKASON

"There's a reason you're so tall." Prime Minister Sidney Holland of New Zealand told us Thursday at Government House, "someone's been pulling your leg."

The ebullient chief executive was reacting to the dizzy suggestion some native Maori families had at least 30 children each.

"Thirty children each?" said the PM, drawing in his breath. "If that is so the news hasn't reached me."

At a press conference he made reporters immediately at ease. Entering the flower-decked lounge the dapper gentleman said "Sit down, and be as comfortable as you can."

He then explained that the average Maori family has from seven to 10 children each.

Mr. Holland has headed the National Party since 1949, which, he admitted, "has been called many names." He didn't specify what names.

It was suggested that with heavy unionism in New Zealand—everyone must belong to a union—you'd have to pay to blow your nose.

"We have industrial harmony," he said, "and getting back to your point there are no taxes for blowing your nose."

He defined socialism as state ownership of the means of production, so government handouts could not be construed as meaning the government was socialist.

The prime minister flattered the small group around him.

"You are asking more intelligent questions than I get at the usual press conference."

At too many conferences, he indicated, reporters just stood around with bare faces hanging out wondering what to ask, and when they did ask, questions were pointless.

Mr. Holland's reaction to this type of thing was "I'm too long in the tooth for that."

He'll be attending the prime ministers conference in London later this month.

Asked what his problems to be presented there were, he answered with a conundrum, sort of.

"I know more than you know about what I know."

This stopped further questions along this line, quite effectively.

Any uranium finds in New Zealand?

"I'm not open to tell you."

The prime minister seems a relaxed, happy and extremely pleasant man.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you kindly tell me if there was a song published called "When It's Time to Shear the Sheep in Old Wyoming"? —A.C.

A.—The large dealers in records in Victoria and the Victoria Music Centre, which deals in sheet music state they have no listing of that song, though they are not prepared to state there was no such song. Certainly the title seems to indicate it had nothing of a classical nature.

Q.—Where is Sugar Loaf Reef?—W.T.M.

A.—It is near Cape Mendocino, California, north of San Francisco. It had a place in the news columns of the papers when the steamship Bear went aground there 60 years ago.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Locally-Grown Products Are Filling City Markets

By PENNY SAVER

Vancouver Island soil is producing summer foods, and local markets are gradually being filled with locally-grown fruit and vegetables. Soon, almost everything on the markets will boast a "locally-grown" sign. Lettuce in various sizes costs 10, 15 and 20 cents a head, while celery is 20 cents a stalk. Two bunches of beets will cost you a quarter. To team with new potatoes and a smooth cream, local green peas are 30 cents a pound. Spinach is selling at 25 cents for two pounds, and cucumbers are 25 cents each.

Of course, there are still many things that are imported. New potatoes are three pounds for 25 cents, and new carrots are two bunches for 25 cents. Asparagus ranges from 29 to 32 cents a pound, and new green beans are 42 cents a pound. Cauliflower, frothy and white, is 29 cents a head. Radishes and green onions are the same price, two bunches for 15 cents. Dessert tomatoes are 25 cents a pound. For a quarter, you can buy three cobs of corn, that are always welcomed at any meal. Spring cabbage is 15 cents a head.

Strawberries are gradually dropping in price and are now at 35 cents for locally grown berries. Bing cherries are two prices: 59 cents a pound, and 29 cents for a half pound. The latter ones are California fruit. Seedless grapes, sweet and tasty are 28 cents a half pound. Fresh pineapple from the southern isles are just 39 cents each. California peaches are three for a quarter, and plums are 38 cents a pound. Gooseberries for pies or jellies, are two pounds for 39 cents. Watermelon, a summertime refresher, is 11 cents a pound, and cantaloupes are 29 and 32 cents each.

For an interesting sweet, try chocolate-covered ginger, that sells at 90 cents a box. English toffee in little round tins that make thoughtful wee gifts, are 25 cents. The tins are useful, too. Candy stick lollypops of striped peppermint will tickle the youngsters. They're five cents each or five for 24 cents. Fruit suckers in bundles of six are a nickel, and five bundles are 24 cents.

AS WE LIVE

Quick Decisions Are Hazardous

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Making a decision that can affect the whole course of a person's life should be done slowly and deliberately.

(Q) "Our daughter, who is just 19 years old, met a young man last June and became serious about him before the month was over. He went to another community to work early in July and she has seen him just once since then, when he was with his family at Christmas time. She writes to him every day and he calls her by phone once a week. They want to be married this summer, when he gets his vacation. I feel that she does not know him well enough to marry him now but she seems so sure of herself, of him, and that their marriage will be a success that I wonder if I am being old-fashioned by wanting them to wait before they take such an important step. My husband agrees with me but our daughter won't listen to us."

Hurlock

MRS. S. W. T.

(A) You and your husband are being "old-fashioned" and conservative, but you are certainly right. Your daughter is making the most serious decision of her whole life on the basis of a snap judgment and this she may bitterly regret some day.

Of course she is "sure" of herself. Youth usually is. Like most young and inexperienced people, she can see only what she wants to see in any situation and she does not see the pitfalls that may be lying right before her nose.

The more you oppose her, by taking a negative attitude toward the marriage, the more sure she will be that she is right and that you are just being old-fashioned. This will drive her to do the very thing you are trying to prevent.

Instead of this approach, try to convince her that you are satisfied that she can make a success of her marriage if she herself is satisfied. Then get her to explain why she is so sure things will work out so successfully. As she tries to explain this to you, she will have to face the matter realistically and this may break down some of her cocksureness and lead to greater caution.

ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY AT 'RIFFINGTON'

East District Guides and Brownies will hold their annual garden party on Saturday at "Riffington", the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wallace, 3175 Beach Drive. Area commissioner Mrs. F. W. Midgley will open the affair at 2.30 p.m. Among guides who will be on hand to assist the many visitors will be, left to right, Wendy Payne, Robyn McGowan, Trenise Robinson, dressed as the "Lady With a Thousand Pockets", and Susan McPherson. Afternoon tea will be served from the cabana near the beach and and there will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, candy, driftwood planters, white elephant, popcorn, used clothes, plants, a fish pond, games of chance, novelty dolls and raffles. Proceeds will go toward a new guide hall.

TODAY'S RECIPE

60-MINUTE CRAB MEAT CASSEROLE

Fifteen minutes' preparation and 45 minutes' baking produce a casserole you want to make often. It's a de luxe-appearing, easy-to-make, meaty main dish containing canned crab meat, canned mushrooms and nutmeg-flavored white sauce, topped with potato chips and grated cheese.

One can (6½ ounces) Canadian crab meat, drained; 1 can mushrooms, drained; 1 cup thick white sauce, flavored with nutmeg; ½ cup grated cheese; 1 small package potato chips, or 1 cup buttered crumbs.

Combine crab meat, mushrooms and white sauce. Place in casserole. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Top with potato chips or crumbs. Bake, uncovered, in moderate oven, 325 degrees F., for 45 minutes. Makes four servings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

19-Year-Old Loves to Swim But She's Ashamed of Legs

Q.—"I need your help badly. I am only 19 years old but my upper legs have unsightly broken capillaries. I am too embarrassed to wear a bathing suit and I love to swim. I wouldn't dare show my legs. Last summer I stayed at home all of the time because of this. All of my friends were going swimming. This summer I would like to have some fun while I am young."

A.—You certainly have the right idea about having fun and you are being very foolish to let some defect as small as those little red lines ruin it.

I do not imagine that these are as bad as you think. They seldom are at your age. However, you can have them removed. Ask your doctor about this. Also you can use one of the waterproof make-up cosmetics now on the market. Go ahead and enjoy yourself!

Q.—"What can I do for hang nails?"

A.—You will have to cut them off but afterwards try to avoid cutting by giving the cuticle proper care. Several times a week push the cuticle back from the nail gently. Use an orange stick tipped with a bit of cotton which has been dipped in cuticle oil. Then each night massage oil or cuticle cream into the skin about your nails. Wear gloves when doing rough work.

Q.—"I am a man of 30. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. I am in good health but stay at that weight. I have a good appetite but my work calls for a good deal of physical effort. What can I do to put on some weight?"

A.—You did not mention your build. A lot of difference in poundage is allowed for different skeletal structures. If you have a small bony structure you are really not underweight. If you have a medium frame you should weigh around 140 pounds. If you have an extremely heavy frame you can add another 15 pounds.

Try adding a mid-morning glass of milk and a mid-afternoon glass of orange juice and a snack before retiring. This can be milk and cheese and crackers, ice cream or fresh fruit and milk or a bowl of soup and crackers—a light little meal of some sort.

Also swim this summer and relax and get plenty of sleep. Vitamin deficiency is one reason for underweight. Be sure that your meals are well balanced with plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables even though these are not high in calorie count. They are high in vitamin content.

The vitamin B family has been found helpful in putting the pounds on. Ask your doctor about this.

Strawberry Vale — Mrs. E. Webster will lead a panel on pre-primary schools at a meeting of Strawberry Vale PTA next Wednesday at 8 p.m. She will be assisted by Mrs. B. Agnew, Mrs. J. Jowett and Miss E. Thompson. There will be a display by the children. Parents of pre-primary children have been invited.

A CAC Fact

Did you know that two sheets the same size may be marked in two different ways so that the shopper may think one is many inches longer than the other? In one case the finished length is marked after hemming, in the other, the torn length, before hemming. This can be very mis-leading when you are comparing prices, so the Canadian Association of Consumers is supporting a request to have one uniform marking for length and width of sheets and pillow cases.

Women in Employment

Miss Eleanor S. Morley, Vancouver, regional co-ordinator of women's employment in the National Employment Service, will be guest speaker at meeting of the Local Council of Women on Monday at 2 p.m., in the music room at the Public Library. Her subject will be "Women In Employment."

Gardens of Victoria Impress N.Z. Visitor

"One day is not enough!" Mrs. Sidney Holland, wife of the Prime Minister of New Zealand said after being taken on a quick tour of Victoria beauty spots by her hostess Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia.

Then she added, "When my husband retires we hope to come back to Canada and make a more leisurely tour. Then, you can be sure Victoria will be included."

Because the winter season had commenced before the Prime Minister and his wife left New Zealand (it's June, July and August) Mrs. Holland was very enthusiastic about the flowers and the gardens.

"Every home seems to have a garden," she said, "even the smaller places. You don't know how wonderful it makes your city look!"

Mrs. Holland

A BUSY WOMAN

Quick and active in her movements, the wife of the Prime Minister of New Zealand gives the impression of being "on the go" for most of her waking hours. She belongs to a great many clubs and lists them quickly, with special emphasis on the Navy League and the Plunkit Society.

Last named was formed to organize and to run centres where young mothers bring their children for treatment and where they learn about balanced diets and the proper care of children. "These centres are very popular," Mrs. Holland tells you enthusiastically.

The society also runs Karitani homes where sick children and premature babies are cared for.

Mrs. Holland confesses to membership in "a good many sports clubs for New Zealand is the home of sports." She is also interested in the blind and takes an active part in the Braille Club where books are produced in Braille.

As for hobbies, she says with a quick shake of her head, "No time." Her home, her clubs and the entertaining that is "a must" for the wife of a prime minister keeps her busy enough.

The one indulgence she allows herself is bridge. "I do love a game of bridge," she said with a quick smile, "and now that I cannot take part in many active sports, I think I enjoy a bridge game even more. It's relaxing and at the same time stimulating."

NEW ZEALAND BORN

The family home, "Fendalton," is in Christchurch but the Hollands also maintain a home in Wellington, the seat of government.

Both Mrs. Holland and her husband were born in New Zealand, near Christchurch. They met after the First World War, when the prime minister was recuperating from war injuries. They have four children, two boys and two girls. Three of them are married and there are now seven grandchildren.

An unmarried daughter is at present in England and Mrs. Holland looks ahead with some excitement to a reunion with her in the next few weeks.

The prime minister and his wife are on a 10-week tour at present. They spent one day in Singapore, a day and a half in Hong Kong and a week in Japan. Now comes Canada with stopovers in the Rockies and at Ottawa. Then they fly to the British Isles for a month, then back across the Atlantic for a visit in the United States before going home to New Zealand.

"It's only a taste," Mrs. Holland says quickly, "but it is giving us a little knowledge of the places we visit. And it is making us look ahead to that leisurely tour we hope to take some day."

The prime minister and Mrs. Holland were guests at Government House during their stay, which concluded this morning. Last evening His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross entertained at a dinner party in their honor.

Memorial Service

Women's Benefit Association will hold memorial services in St. John's Anglican Church, Quadra, near Pandora, on Sunday at 10.45 a.m.

Appoint Conveners For Fall Bazaar

Plans for a bazaar in the fall were made at a meeting of Metropolitan United Church Women's Association at which Mrs. W. H. Yardley Sr., presided. Mrs. I. E. Green has been appointed general convener and group conveners are Mrs. F. Bliss, Mrs. E. W. Berry, Mrs. W. L. McLean, Mrs. S. O. Small, Mrs. O. Salmond, Mrs. M. Wells, Mrs. Hetherington, and Mrs. R. Edmunds. The affair will be held in Pendray Hall.

Mrs. W. L. McLean reported on the work of the United Nations. A donation was given to Mrs. W. Mountford to aid the establishment of a church library.

Mrs. B. Parsons reported on senior citizens' homes which are to be built by the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church.

CAC Officers Meet Here

The Canadian Association of Consumers' provincial executive met in Victoria at the YWCA on Tuesday with all members present and president Mrs. E. Mills in the chair. Those from Vancouver attending were Mrs. B. F. McCloskey, first vice-president; Miss Charlotte Black, immediate past president; Mrs. L. V. Lillico, treasurer and membership convener; Mrs. A. W. McGhie, IODE, liaison and member-at-large. From Nanaimo came Mrs. Olive Lionel, second vice-president, and from Courtenay Mrs. Doris Tudway, president of the Courtenay branch. Victoria members present were Mrs. H. Summers Clark, president of the Victoria branch; Mrs. L. E. Gower, Mrs. L. E. Gordon, Mrs. J. L. Andrews and Mrs. H. A. Chisholm.

Mrs. O. Clemenshaw, liaison for Vancouver BPW Club, was appointed a member-at-large.

Chairmen of standing committees were appointed as follows: Research, Miss Black, director, school of home economics, UB; textiles, Miss McEwen, school of home economnomics, UBC; textiles, Miss McV. Lillico, Vancouver; resolutions, Mrs. Mills.

Resolutions dealt with at this meeting concerned unserviceable fittings in children's underwear, need for better proportions in lingerie for the taller woman, badly made button holes in ready-to-wear clothing, poor quality in paper patterns for home sewing, the nuisance of gimmicks and coupons offered with packaged cereals, the serious health hazard in the use of wire staples on packaged food.

The membership convener's report indicated an encouraging response to the membership drive in April and that a steady increase in membership is being maintained.

$5,000 Objective For Garden Party

Annual garden party of St. Luke's Church will be held in August at "Strangewood", Gordon Head home of Mrs. S. L. McMullen, it was announced at a recent meeting of the church committee. Canon F. Pike presided at the meeting, at which preliminary plans were made for the party. Convener is Cmdr. H. E. Lukey, assisted by Capt. J. D. Prentice. Objective is $5,000 for church extension.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Andersen, 196 Maddock avenue West, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Claire Sigrid, to Mr. James Russell Noone, eldest son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Noone, 121 Beechwood avenue. The nuptial mass will take place on June 30 at 10 a.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral with Rev. Father M. O'Connell officiating. The bride-elect will have her sister, Miss Joan Andersen as maid of honor, and Miss Donna Yaggi, Salinas, Calif., as junior bridesmaid. Best man will be the brother of the groom-elect, Mr. Robert Noone, and ushers Mr. Brian Turnbull and Mr. Bruce Huxtable. (Photo by HBC Photo Department.)

Adjustments in Weather and Time Necessary After Life in Malaya

By TERRY FRENCH

After almost two years in Malaya, Mrs. S. W. Buxton and her 15-year-old twin daughters, Barbara and Janet, have returned to Vancouver Island to renew friendships and make her home. Mr. Buxton, who is in Malaya with the Colombo Plan, will return in July by the Pacific route.

A Dutch cargo ship carried Mrs. Buxton and her daughters to Rotterdam, from where they crossed the channel and spent a week in England and Scotland before boarding their ship at Southampton for the Atlantic crossing.

Kuala Lumpur, the capital of the Federation of Malaya was where the family lived, and where Barbara and Janet attended Bukit Nanas Convent, which is run by a French order of nuns. The school year starts there in January, and due to their dates of arrival and departure in the two years there the girls received one year of formal schooling, but, as Mrs. Buxton explained, "It was a wonderful experience for them, and one that they'll enjoy even more in retrospect now that we're home again."

WEATHER ALWAYS HOT

Life in Malaya, Mrs. Buxton found, gives one the tendency to lose a sense of time, because the weather from June to January varies no more than a few degrees. Intense heat and sporadic and heavy rains are every day companions, and being caught in a downpour causes little thought, for within minutes the rain has stopped and everything is dry again.

Commercial and business parts of Kuala Lumpur are run mainly by Chinese and East Indians, while the Malayan people themselves prefer the country, and live in Kampongs, or small villages, where they spend their lives on their farms.

A friendly, and easy-going people, the Malayans, Mrs. Buxton discovered, haven't the materialistic outlook and consequent worries of the western world. "They can do very well without cars and refrigerators—in fact, they seem so much happier without them."

Mrs. Buxton with her twin daughters recently returned to Canada to live. Mr. Buxton will follow in July.

One of the highlights of the Buxton's stay in Malaya was the visit made to them and two other Canadian families by Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, who was in Malaya for a Colombo conference.

Their home in Kuala Lumpur was modern, in a large group of government homes where they could mingle with people of many countries all working on government projects. The only convenience they lacked was a telephone, for the steady and constant building taking place set too high a pace for the facilities to be provided.

Home now will be their Campbell River house that they kept while away. Mrs. Buxton has been the guest of Mrs. T. G. Sewell, Howe street, for the past few days and left today for Duncan, where she will attend sports' day at Queen Margaret's School where Barbara and Janet are getting back into the swing of Canadian ways of education.

Next stop, Campbell River and home.

FLOYD PATTERSON FIGHTS HURRICANE JACKSON ON C-4 AT 7

NEW SHOWS—Victor Borge, the pianist-comedian whose Broadway hit show set a new record in one-man performances, will be seen in a special one-hour CBS performance, "The Victor Borge Show," next Thursday. It will be carried by Channels 11 and 12 at 7 p.m.

Victor Borge

The program will mark Mr. Borge's first one-man TV program and will include highlights from his Broadway success, "Comedy in Music," which recently completed an 849-performance run, after entering its third year on the New York stage. The comedy star is currently on a personal appearance tour of more than 35 cities throughout the United States.

★ ★ ★

COMMENCING next Monday, Channel 13 will introduce a series for home-makers. Holding down the 10-10.30 p.m. slot, "Your Home" will demonstrate ways and means of improving one's home.

★ ★ ★

ON SUNDAY, Channel 13 will telecast "live" the Washington State Open Golf Tournament from the Rainier Golf and Country Club in Seattle.

According to operations director, Don Wood, KTVW will televise from 1 to 2 p.m. or later, and again from 6.30 to 7.30 p.m. John Jarstad will handle the commentary, assisted by Al Brightman.

Kiddies' Korner

5.00: Roy Rogers, Channel 2; Cliff Carl, 4; Stan Boreson, 5; Cartoon Special, 11; Western movie, 12.

7.00: Annie Oakley, Channel 5; Ramar of the Jungle, 13.
8.30: Rin Tin Tin, Channel 5.

Sport

7.00: Channel 4: Boxing: Much-talked-about Floyd Patterson tangles with Tommy Hurricane Jackson in a 12-round battle to see who will meet (possibly) Archie Moore for the world's heavyweight throne vacated by Rocky Marciano. Patterson is rated No. 4 while Jackson is rated No. 2. It will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York.
9.30: Channel 12: Jalopy races.
10.30: Channel 4: Bowling championships.
11.00: Channel 2: News and sports roundups.
11.15: Channel 13: Greatest fights.

Headliners

7.30

Channel 11: On Person to Person commentator Edward R. Murrow "drops in" on the home of Cedric Adams and his wife at Edina, Minn. Adams is a radio commentator and newspaper columnist. He will also visit Philippe of the Waldorf and his wife, French actress Many Daines, in their Peekskill home, N.Y.

8.00

Channel 11: In Mama, Nels brings Sgt. Riley home for the weekend and is dismayed to discover that Riley believes that Katrin is interested in him?
Channel 2: In the Wayne and Shuster comedy, Frank tries to break Johnny of his comic book habit.
Channel 13: Racket Squaders investigate the "antique" racket.

8.30

Channel 5: In the Rin Tin Tin drama, a retired gunman is forced to shoot it out with a crazed killer.
Channel 11: Our Miss Brooks would take a ritzy vacation—if she can find three others to share the expenses.
Channel 12: In Badge 714 an innocent bystander, a small boy, is slain in a gang war. Policemen Friday and Smith go after the killers.

9.00

Channel 5: Harriet decides that Ricky's sloppy dress must end. This on the Ozzie and Harriet show.
Channel 4: Big Story records the yarn that won the Pulitzer prize for a California reporter.
Channel 11: Crusader Matt Anders and the police are fooled. They believe they have solved two murders.

9.30

Channel 4: Star Stage stars Dennis Morgan and Sidney Blackmer in "Dr. Jordan." Spies attempt to make their man believe that he is suffering from loss of memory.
Channel 2: Another Star Stage show is about an orphaned girl who marries for security. It's called "The Secret."
Channel 5: Crossroads tells the story of Rabbi Davis who declared war on some unscrupulous politicians.
Channel 11: Scott Brady is seen in Playhouse of Stars "The Roustabout." A cowboy inadvertently becomes mixed up in a war between some ranchers and a storekeeper.

10.00

Channel 2: And here is that magnificent documentary made up of Allied and captured film—Victory at Sea. This episode deals with the attack on Pearl Harbor.
Channel 4: Crunch pretends he is a bumbling fisherman in order to teach a captain a much needed lesson.
Channels 11 and 12: The Line-Up sees an employee saving his president from almost certain death.
Channel 5: It all started out by being an open-and-shut case of manslaughter. But the District Attorney finds the testimonies most confusing.

10.30

Channel 5: In Badge 714 policemen Friday and Smith look into a death that appears to be suicide.

11.00

Channel 5: Code 3 tells of an ex-kid star who wakes up just in time to salvage his life.
Channel 11: The music of Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians.

FATE

There was a time we might have met,
An hour we might have dined together;
Only it rained that night and I
Stayed snug at home fearing the weather.

And once I saw you on the street
Lilacs were out, the air was heady;
I might have stopped to speak, but you
Hailing a bus, were gone already.

I might have looked, you might have smiled,
But we didn't & I can't see why.
If we had known that you were you
And I was I. Or did you pass & sigh??

It's odd to think we might have been
Sun, Moon and Stars to each other;
Only I turned down one little street
And you went up another.

CARROLL RICHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Daytime finds you able to dash about in manner you so enjoy, accomplishing all that is difficult during the busy week. Tonight brings happy moments at home, either by relaxing or entertaining.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Get out the tools, paintbrush, etc., and use daytime to enhance value as well as personal appearance of your property, possessions. Tonight go out on the town to some attractive site, have fun, be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Get off on a weekend trip if possible. Otherwise spend as much time as possible improving your mind, getting the ideas and systems under which you wish to operate in the future. Stick by accepted practices tonight.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Get off alone or with intimates and devise workable plan for future while eliminating whatever is adverse in your environment. P.M. be sure to think out pleasures you most enjoy. Then go get them. Be with choice comrades. Have a good time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—A light and happy atmosphere in the air awakens you. Full speed ahead working toward the goals which appeal to you. Be with those most congenial. Get off to quiet, personal enjoyments tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Those worldly, public and patriotic duties not usually possible during the week can be swiftly completed today. Get your credit on higher plane. Tonight excellent for really enjoying proven friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Get out of your own groove today. Make new sites, interests available in conjunction with active, pleasure-loving and creative companions. Tonight try to entertain or otherwise come to attention of those in power.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Now you have excellent day to ferret out just where you are headed in all financial or personal relationships vital to your well-being. Be truly co-operative. P.M. fine for making acquaintance of newcomers of background, position.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Contact all partners today and find out just where you are jointly headed in mutual undertakings. Also iron out disputes with opponents. Tonight fine for enjoying those you love the most.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Working toward the winding up of all usual work brings untried but fascinating methods with new gadgets, appliances, etc., if you have your eyes open. Try newspapers, other available ads, etc., for new suggestions. P.M. enjoy close tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—This is your day to get your charm at new perfection as well as all to do with pleasure, entertainment, adornment, creative ideas. Be ingenious. Put new plans in motion. Enjoy youngsters. P.M. make environment more attractive.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Try to stick around the house as much as you can making the changes and adding to the harmony and well-being of that particular, important site. The evening is fine for recreation, sports, dining, dancing, etc. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY . . .

Saturday's child is one of those very unique and original youngsters who will be all over the place. This is a potential "Quiz Kid," and you'd better study up and have the answers ready when your offspring is old enough to start asking questions on his, or her, own since you won't have much place unless you have been using your intelligence to be a sparkling companion for your progeny. Fine chart for work connected with salesmanship, inventions, merchandizing, lecturing, acting and allied pursuits.

SUNDAY, JUNE 10, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—All kinds of family matters come into the open that require careful analysis rather than impatience, temper, etc. Let others see you value being with them. Then the air clears, conditions work out rightly.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Your practical mind is carefully studying whatever comes to your attention today. Don't be so preoccupied in a deep study that you drive, walk, carelessly or accidents happen. Avoid harsh words. P.M. enjoy kin, close comrades.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Your inherited background both gives the answers you seek and makes you want to burst out to new paths, fields to conquer. Discrimination is extremely important during the day. Then you can relax happily in p.m.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—You feel explosive and eager to show others you have talents deep within that have no had chance to be utilized. However, it's best you develop them more efficiently before showing others your aims. Prepare for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Get off quietly with yourself, or some intimates, and discuss ways and means for adding to your success and eliminating current confusions and flaws. It will be easier than you think. Rid environment of the unwanted fonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Raise your sights to higher aims than has been possible in the past. You have some well-rounded and well-balanced friends, supporters who are awaiting a move on your part before they release favors you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Lots of little things come into the open. They may seem unimportant but actually they are the difference between success and a humdrum existence since some very influential individuals are observing you carefully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Fine day for you to get off to some place where you can inculcate yourself with the highest principles and precepts under which it is possible to operate. Make new acquaintances also who can aid you to get ahead. Be more open-minded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You have very accurate perceptions now. So be still for a while and listen to the voice of your own inner promptings. They have some excellent suggestions. Tonight is fine for romance and preparing future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Emotional partner, who has all feelers out to help you and get conditions on a more secure basis, has splendid recommendations. Listen carefully to understand them. Be truly co-operative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Now you will find your attitude toward your job and your co-workers is of extreme importance. Let nothing keep you from being up-and-doing in scheduling your time more sensibly. Be modern-minded, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is an excellent day to show your affection and devotion. Make sure you let them see you are willing to make sacrifices to improve the well-being of your joint attachment. P.M. have fun. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SUNDAY . . .

Sunday's child is one of those very emotional youngsters who will certainly enjoy the fleshpots and good things of life. However, beneath this pragmatic exterior is an inner urge and drive to accomplish and achieve far beyond the average. This may seem to be a "divine discontent," and it's very worthwhile since without it far less would be achieved by your talented offspring. Fine for vocations requiring considerable expenditure of energy as well as governmental occupations.

EXPLANATIONS OF MORE DIFFICULT CLUES:

COMMENTS

ACROSS:
3. It doesn't matter which Way you send it as long as you send it in time. The particular Day you send it will decide whether it arrives in time or not.
6. In face of great danger, one simply does, or does not, remain unperturbed, according to one's nature. This is a psychological fact; perturbation is mental. It is not a question of what one can, or cannot do. Thus Would is preferable to Could.
12. Delay can have serious consequences, such as Decay, which is itself a consequence.
13. It is the sinner, not the Sin, who may need to be forgiven. In some cases one's Son may indeed need to be forgiven.
16. A Fact in a play may be a success due to the actor concerned. The successful signing of a Pact may be largely due to one man's efforts, but the actual success of it depends on subsequent events, which cannot rest on one man.
19. As far as the average person is concerned, Prison is an excellent institution—it is only unpleasant for crooks. Poison is unpleasant from anybody's viewpoint.
22. "Risky" to employ a man whose Word cannot be relied upon—he's the type who may let you down even if his actual Work is alright. If his Work cannot be relied upon, employing him would be mere than a risk. "Risk" would be an understatement.
23. You're always anxious to see a Storm ending, particularly a big or overpowering one. As for Story, many a one has action and excitement in the middle and tapers off to an indifferent ending in which case you are but mildly interested in the ending.

DOWN:
1. It is well known that Home accidents, that is, accidents in the Home, are more common than others. It is Some kinds of accidents which are more common than others—not Some accidents.
4. Aria suits best as the clue emphasizes "discerning." It takes discernment to appreciate the finer Aria. The appeal of fine Acts, e.g. circus Acts, Acts of kindness, etc., may well be obvious to all.
5. It's truly nice to contemplate a "nice warm" Red. If it were not you would not refer to it in such pleasing terms as "nice warm." As for Bed, this depends on the circumstances. In the tropics or in the heat of summer a "nice warm" Bed would hardly be nice to contemplate.
12. "Greatly annoyed," yes, if the maid let the whole teapot Drop on the teatable. But, to let it Drip might well be a minor thing—a Drop or two possibly and little cause to be "greatly annoyed."
17. Threat is best, "Throat," as it stands, simply means an ordinary healthy Throat, and there is no apparent reason why this should prompt any special precautions. Threat is clearly a good answer.
18. Sailor is most apt. It is very easy, rather than just "possible," to associate a Tailor with a cutter, since the two work in conjunction with each other. The association of a Sailor with a cutter (vessel) is comparatively unlikely, but definitely possible.
21. Sew is the surer answer. The clue refers to both men and women, of course. Practically all men will consider Sewing a most boring job and some women too. Also, it is doubly so since the border is a "particularly long one." To Sew a long border in a garden can be a pleasant task for many men and many women.

NO WINNER LAST WEEK

THE RULES

Solve the clues as you would any crossword puzzle. Clip out the dotted form and mail it to The Victoria Daily Times.

You can send in as many entries as you like in one envelope, but they must be on the form printed in the paper. Facsimiles will NOT be permitted. This puzzle will be printed Friday, Saturday and Monday.

All answers must be received by the morning mail of Wednesday.

Be sure to clip on the dotted line. This is for the convenience of tallying entries.

EARLY MAILING WILL BE APPRECIATED

The answer will be printed in Friday's paper each week. It will be a good idea to keep a record of your solution and compare it with the answer.

PRIZES

Anyone may enter with the exception of employees of Victoria Press Ltd., and their families.

A prize of $25 will be paid for solving the puzzle. If there is more than one winner the prize will be divided.

BONUS

If the winner is a regular daily subscriber to The Times by carrier or mail a special bonus will be paid in addition to the regular prize of $25. (Agents and dealers are not classified as carrier subscribers.) When there is no winner the bonus will increase at the rate of $25 per week until a winner is found. When there is more than one winner the current bonus will be divided.

This week's prize is $25, plus a $225 bonus.

Study the clues carefully before you write down your answers. There is always one answer which is best. The decision of the judges in the contest will be final and all contestants taking part agree to abide by their decision.

Roundabout Traffic Up 65% Since 1952

Traffic studies carried out recently at the Hillside-Douglas Roundabout have shown a 65 per cent increase in traffic use at that point since 1952, City Engineer J. C. Garnett reported today.

In a 24-hour period last month, 10,325 cars drove through the Circle inward bound from Douglas, and 10,250 outbound on Douglas. Gorge entrance in 24 hours passed 4,530 cars and Gorge exit passed 3,917.

Over 28,000 vehicles used the four exits and entrances in the period compared to just over 17,000 four years ago. Figures on Hillside and Government entrances and exits were not yet available.

Mr. Garnett said that where traffic on Gorge and Douglas was evenly split when the Circle was first constructed, but now the ratio is 20 to 8 with the majority of cars taking the Douglas route. This was thought to be due to the extension of Trans-Canada Highway to North Douglas.

The information will be mailed to traffic consultant engineer D. Jackson Faustman of Sacramento, Cal., who will return to Victoria in the next three to six weeks, and within two months will deliver his recommendations for traffic revision to city council.

He anticipated earlier that the Roundabout would have to be eliminated.

Following these studies the expert traffic planner will turn to the off-street parking problem.

'SAVE THE COELACANTH'

Closed Season Urged On 'Living Fossil' Fish

LONDON (AP) — A British scientist fears the coelacanth, the "living fossil" fish once thought to be long extinct, may really disappear soon.

The first specimen of the ugly fish, whose ancestors looked much the same millions of years ago, was caught in 1952 in the Comoro islands off Madagascar.

J. L. B. Smith, professor of ichthyology at Rhodes University in South Africa, said the French have obtained a total of 10 specimens in the last three years, "more than enough for full scientific investigation." He said in a letter to The Times a permanent closed season should now be imposed.

"Science and the world," said Smith, "are no longer crying for dead coelacanths.

"If a herd of dinosaurs were discovered in some remote jungle, the world would rightly recoil in horror from a policy of rewarding natives to slaughter as many as possible.

"The situation of the Comoran coelacanths is in reality no better, and the present policy is debasing a once important scientific quest to the level of senseless slaughter of one of our most precious heritages in biology."

The professor said the entire coelacanth population may consist of "only a few hundred." Instead of rewarding natives for catching and delivering specimens, he added, the French, who own the Comoros, should immediately declare "a severe punishment for killing one."

45 Days in Jail For Money Theft

William Russell Fowler, 840 Bay, convicted in Saanich police court Thursday of theft over $50 from his employer, was sentenced to 45 days in jail.

A Shelbourne street service station employee, Fowler was sent to bank $279.78 in cheques and $180 cash, May 15, by station owner Ken Salmond. He kept the money and failed to return to his job.

Police arrested him later downtown and recovered $90 of the money.

Insuranceman Denies High Profit Claims

Criticism of insurance company profits was given a slap here today by John Babcock, Vancouver, president of the 500-member Insurance Agents' Association of British Columbia.

Insurance companies must be solvent, he said, and have the ability to pay in the face of disaster.

Otherwise "if you don't pay the plumber, you can fix your own tap."

His organization covers all types of insurance, marine, auto, fire and casualty, excepting life insurance.

Last year organization members wrote $40,000,000 in policies in B.C.

Knocking the "high profit" criticism, Mr. Babcock said auto insurance is based on returning 63 cents out of every dollar in claims. When overhead is eliminated, this leaves a profit margin of about 2 per cent.

Last year auto insurance paid was $13,352,924 in claim losses, a jump of about $1,500,000 over 1954. This represented about 60 per cent of premium income.

FIRE LOSSES UP

Fire losses paid last year in B.C. were $8,636,458, up from $5,500,000 the year before.

Because of the highly competitive field of insurance "the profit is squeezed out," he said. "The public just doesn't realize this."

Insurance adjusters are the men who keep the rates down by investigation of claims. Without this, insurance rates would soar.

"When a man loses his property, it takes on a new value entirely," he said.

Insurance, said Mr. Babcock, buys "freedom from fear."

NEWS BRIEFS

Victoria contractor Edward D. Jackson was fined $25 in city court today when convicted of failing to pay holiday pay to an employee at the termination of his employment.

The sum of $20.16 was owing from Feb. 16, which J. Ronald Grant, counsel for the accused, said was due to "purely a clerical error."

★ ★ ★

Robert Jordan, HMCS Crescent, was fined $35 for careless driving and $25 for having no driver's licence when convicted in city court this morning.

Police said the car driven by Jordan crashed into a building at the intersection of Menzies and Toronto, causing $100 damage to the building and about $300 to the car.

Jordan pleaded guilty to both charges and told court he had hit the apartment block to avoid running into another car.

★ ★ ★

A man with a 28-year clear driving record, Edward F. Neal, 3969 Cumberland, was convicted of careless driving May 11 when he appeared in city court today and was fined the minimum $35 and instructed to take a driver's examination.

His car was in collision with another at the intersection of Blanshard and Bay, which he blamed on mental stress due to an infirmity of his wife's.

Total damage sustained by the autos was $125.

Master Mariners Retire From Federal Jobs

Two Victoria master mariners have retired from service with the federal fisheries department.

Captain Walter Redford, 105 Beach Drive, relinquished command of the fisheries protection cruiser Laurier after serving in the department's west coast protection branch since 1921.

Born in Lancashire, he served in the Royal Canadian Navy from 1914 to 1920, and was recalled for service in both Atlantic and Pacific theatres between 1939 and 1946.

He served as captain of the Malaspina and Givenchy, took command of the Howay when that vessel was first commissioned in 1948, and two years later took command of the senior ship, the Laurier.

Captain Walter Raymond Chaster, 3800 Cadboro Bay Road, joined the department in 1919, and after serving as chief officer of the Howay was given command of the Kitimat in 1950. He was born in Sidney, Man., and served with the Royal Canadian Navy in both world wars.

Contour Map To Be Made Of Tolmie Summit

A contour survey map of Mount Tolmie, needed to locate a 30-car parking area and a viewing ramp, will start soon, Roderick Clack told the tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

Victoria-Saanich parks and beaches committee has set aside $3,000 for the project.

Trade group secretary Arnold Webb said he believed the Mount Tolmie scheme "will be high on the priority list of the Capital City Improvements Committee when it is set up."

The group will study plans to welcome more than 1,000 yachtsmen here at month's end for international regattas.

200 JAYCEES PARADE

PRINCE GEORGE — Some 200 members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce wound through the city Thursday night, in one of the most colorful parades ever staged here, to announce the opening of their 20th annual convention.

The convention continues until Saturday. Thirty British Columbia and Yukon units of the junior chamber are represented

Every Second Will Count In Big Comox Air Show

Split-second timing will be required to stage a 40-minute air show planned as feature attraction at Comox RCAF Station's observance of Air Force Day on Saturday.

"The show will be exactly 40 minutes—not 15 seconds more or less," an RCAF officer said.

Speed of modern aircraft demand the deadly accurate timing to avoid collisions, he said.

"Our jets, for instance, will have to go as far as Port Hardy to turn around and form up for their part in the show," he explained. "Other aircraft will be much closer to the airport but will appear after them on the program, therefore every second must be accounted for."

SURPRISES TOO

Two surprise events, on which the RCAF has made no comment whatsoever, will conclude the program.

Officers from the station said that although weather might curtail the air show, the huge ground show will continue rain or shine.

It will include displays of every type of equipment used on the station, drill exhibitions, band selections, moving pictures, and fire fighting demonstrations.

Liquor Officials Elect Officers, Wind Up Sessions

W. H. Collings, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, has been named president of the Canadian Association of Provincial Liquor Commissioners, it was announced Thursday.

Mr. Collings succeeds George B. Stewart, Saskatchewan Liquor Commissioner as president.

Other officers are:

Vice-president, George H. Morrison, chairman of the Nova Scotia Liquor Board; secretary, Col. Charles E. Woodrow of the Ontario Liquor Board.

The new slate of officers was announced as the group wound up its annual conference in the Empress hotel.

All meetings of the association, which began Tuesday, were conducted in secret.

Manhole Covers Fly in Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP)—Three manhole covers blew off in an explosion Thursday in midtown Manhattan and sent home-going crowds dashing to escape illuminating-gas fumes. No one was injured by the iron lids, but one fireman was overcome by fumes after the accident happened about 5 p.m. on crowded West 33rd street between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The explosion sent flames and fumes into a block containing entrances to Gimbel Brothers and Saks 43th st. department stores, the Statler Hotel and scores of shops and restaurants.

Lost-Found Grenade Kills Bus Attendant

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A hand grenade exploded Thursday, mangling and killing a bus station baggage handler who apparently was disposing of it.

Frelin Morgan, 41, his right arm ripped off and his right side mangled, died at an emergency hospital a few minutes after the blast.

It occurred in a parking lot behind the Greyhound bus deposit.

Detective Sergeant H. B. Workman said many servicemen pass through the depot and one of them could have left the training type grenade there.

Officers theorized that Morgan found it in a waiting room wastebasket or possibly with luggage and was disposing of it in an incinerator behind the depot.

Libby Dam Seen Curing Creston Floods

CRESTON, B.C. (CP)—Residents in the flood-threatened Creston area believe a huge power dam proposed at Libby, Mont., would put an end to their flood problems.

One of the major backers to the plan is Magistrate Guy Constable, co-ordinator of diking efforts, who has directed the fight which has kept the Kootenay river from 25,000 acres of rich farmland.

Mr. Constable doesn't agree with federal government protests that the U.S. dam at Libby would flood thousands of acres of British Columbia land.

The Kootenay begins near Canal Flats, flows south through Montana and Idaho then flows north again into B.C. near Creston.

U.S. authorities haven't been able to get the dam started because of Canadian government protests that the dam would flood part of B.C.

Mr. Constable said only 12,000 acres of fourth-grade land would be flooded.

The dam would, however, hold back flood waters which cracked the Creston dikes in 1932, 1938, 1948 and threatened them this year.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Kootenay Flood Threat Eases

(From The Canadian Press)

CRESTON—Dropping levels of Kootenay Lake and the Kootenay River combined today to make things easier for this flood-threatened town in southeastern British Columbia.

The combination of pressure from the lake and the river had been a serious threat to dikes in this area which protect land reclaimed from the river in the last three-quarters of a century.

But Wednesday, the river level dropped. And so did the lake.

At Creston, level of the Kootenay River Thursday was 24.75 feet compared with Wednesday's 25.01.

Magistrate Guy Constable, chief of the committee co-ordinating diking efforts, said:

"Barring a cloudburst, everything is reasonably safe."

Soldiers, rushed into the area when the waters began to rise, made preparations to withdraw. About 50 pulled out Thursday and 50 more are due to leave Saturday.

At Trail, the Columbia River was down an inch from Wednesday but city engineer George Sanders warned that it could be "only a temporary respite."

"We're not letting up our efforts in any way," he said. "The weather can turn warm and send the rivers surging up again."

KILLED IN CAR CRASH

POWELL RIVER — Raymond Bury, 21, was killed Thursday and another was injured when their automobile failed to negotiate a turn on the Timberlane Park road near here and crashed into a tree stump. Lloyd Robert Ray, 26, was taken to Powell River General Hospital where he was treated for superficial injuries.

MAY QUIT ROYAL CITY

NEW WESTMINSTER—Officials of the Searle Grain Co. said Thursday they may move the firm's operations to Vancouver because of a federal government decision to stop dredging the Fraser River channel to their elevator here.

Public works officials confirmed Ottawa had given orders for cancellation of dredging estimated to cost $100,000 a year.

The Searle elevator, owned by the New Westminster harbor commission, has a storage capacity of 800,000 bushels. It has been leased to Searle since 1933.

IN SASK. ELECTIONS

Douglas Hits Socred Invasion

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Premier Douglas suggested Thursday night that Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Premier Manning of Alberta have "some cleaning up to do in their own backyards" without campaigning for the Social Credit Party in Saskatchewan.

The premier, in a half-hour broadcast speech said the CCF is the only party controlled by the common people and which works for their good. The other parties were controlled by vested interests.

He said he believes Social Credit is not a factor in the Saskatchewan election, but "it may be wise to take a moment to think about the Social Credit's flamboyant invasion of Saskatchewan."

He had no objection to their coming here to espouse their opinions, but the Social Credit party seemed much more talkative in Saskatchewan than at home.

He said when Robert Sommers, the former minister of mines and forests in British Columbia, resigned from the cabinet, the opposition spent six hours trying to learn the reason for the resignation. Premier Bennett finally dissolved the legislature to avoid having to answer questions.

Premier Douglas said it seems significant that the Social Crediters are silent in B.C. and so talkative here.

The Social Credit party here was not really made up of Saskatchewan people and its campaign was being conducted chiefly by Alberta and B.C. Social Crediters.

950 Free Beds Provided By Salvation Army Here

Residents who have not been canvassed at their homes by the Salvation Army, and who wish to contribute to the current Red Shield campaign, should phone 3-0112 or visit headquarters at 757 Pandora.

Officials point out the Salvation Army Band is known to everyone, but the work of the Army among city unfortunates is less well realized—work that depends on public donation.

In the past year 950 free beds were provided, and 2,520 meals, to destitute men. Clothing and furniture has been found for families and aid has been given in finding 267 temporary jobs.

This year the SA workers plan to open its "Harbor Light" haven for 22 men as a rehabilitation centre for alcoholics and drug addicts.

The Army also operates Sunset Lodge, a home for elderly women in Victoria West. It now has 38 residents.

Eisenhower in Hospital —Stock Market Tumbles

Aged Man Killed In Car Crash

Chinese, 76, Sixth Fatality

Greater Victoria's sixth fatal traffic accident this year occurred shortly before 8 this morning when an elderly Chinese, Wah Pao Lee, 614 Fisgard, was in collision with a car driven by another Chinese at Government and Fisgard.

Police said Lee, about 76, apparently was crossing Government from the northeast to the northwest corner of the intersection as the other driver, 19-year-old Lawrence L. Y. Chan, 864 Pembroke, turned left from Fisgard to go north on Government.

Lee was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken by police ambulance.

STREETS WET

Chan was driving his father's late model car.

Streets were wet and a light rain was falling.

Death, believed to have been almost instant, is thought to have been due to head injuries.

The pedestrian was found lying on Government a few feet north of the east-west crosswalk.

33 ISLAND UNDERGRADS WIN UBC SCHOLARSHIPS

An announcement made today of winners of fellowships, scholarships and prizes at the University of B.C. showed that 33 Victoria and Vancouver Island undergraduates will receive awards.

Names of the honor students, their awards, are given in detail on Page 21 of this paper.

No Heart Trouble Says White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's physician reported today that the president has a partial obstruction of the small intestine. He summoned four consultants to Walter Reed Army Hospital, including the Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was stricken with abdominal pains early today, and in the afternon was taken by ambulance from the White House to the army's Walter Reed Hospital.

The White House said physicians had diagnosed the trouble as an ileitis—inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine—and that "there is no indication of any heart trouble."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a cardiogram—a tracing of the heart action—would be taken at the hospital.

An army ambulance was ordered to the south side of the White House to receive the ailing president. It was accompanied fore and aft by a motorcycle escort.

Eisenhower could be seen lying in the ambulance. His hands were folded on his chest.

Reporters could not see whether the president was carried to the ambulance on a stretcher or walked.

White House physician Howard M. Snyder was called to the president's bedside at 2 a.m.

Official White House Statement

At noon, Press Secretary Hagerty isued this statement:

"The president had an attack of ileitis (inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine).

"As a precautionary measure he is being taken to Walter Reed Hospital this afternoon.

"His blood pressure and pulse are good.

"He has no fever.

"There is no indication of any heart trouble."

Hagerty said the president has had one intraveneous injection of dextrose sugar. He said Dr. Snyder has called in Dr. Francis Pruitt, chief of medicine at Walter Reed, for consultation.

The press secretary said that the president has not been in severe pain but that there was some soreness.

Earlier, Hagerty had described the president's difficulty as an "upset stomach" and insisted "it is not an illness but an upset."

All of the president's engagements for the day were postponed. These included a morning cabinet meeting and a flight to his country home at Gettysburg, Pa., about noon.

'Upset' Preceded Sept. Seizure

Thursday night, Eisenhower attended the annual dinner of the White House News Photographer's Association.

The meal served to him was especially prepared on instructions from Dr. Snyder. It differed from that served to other guests chiefly in the absence of a rich soup and a sauce on a fillet mignon.

He appeared to enjoy himself, and told his hosts in a brief talk that he enjoyed the entertainment provided.

At the noon news conference, press secretary Hagerty said this is the first time Eisenhower has suffered a "stomach upset" since last Sept. 24. That day, before the White House announced the president had suffered a heart attack, his aides characterized the ailment as a "digestive upset."

Eisenhower was in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver for seven weeks after the heart attack. He then spent several weeks more at his Gettysburg estate, returning to his White House duties early in January.

STOCKS FIGHT BACK FROM $6 TUMBLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined sharply on news of President Eisenhower's illness.

Prices fell as much as $3 a share in the initial burst of selling.

The market wilted again and the tape fell behind as much as four minutes when news came that the president was in hospital. Losses stretched to around $6 a share before a recovery drive began in the market's final minutes.

Summer Session Hinted by PM

Asks Opposition Not to Filibuster One Month's Money Bill Due Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Drew, replying to a plea today by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the Opposition permit speedy passage of a bill to replenish the "virtually exhausted" treasury, demanded instead that the prime minister say whether the government plans to adjourn Parliament soon for the summer.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the government had intended to suggest a summer adjournment.

But what had taken place was "of such a character we will have to reconsider that suggestion.

"I am sorry it is not possible at the present time to make any plans for the future course of the session," he prime minister said.

He said at the opening of today's Commons sitting that the two months' interim supply voted April 1 is "virtually exhausted."

Unless more money was voted by Parliament at an early date, many thousands of persons would be faced with inconvenience and even serious embarrassment.

If the opposition granted one month's interim supply it would in no way prevent it fighting the government as strongly as it wanted later.

Interim supply normally is granted the government periodically while the Commons is in session until all appropriations are approved by the Commons. This enables the government to pay civil servants and members of the armed forces and carry on other essential services.

Censure Move Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP) — A motion of censure against Speaker Rene Beaudoin, presented a week ago by Opposition Leader Drew during the stormy pipeline debate, was defeated in the Commons on a vote of 109 to 35.

Prolonged Liberal applause broke out as Speaker Beaudoin, who presided during the taking of the vote, announced in the customary way: "I declare the motion lost."

Liberal and Social Credit parties and Ross Thatcher (Ind. Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) supported the 44-year-old Speaker against the motion declaring he had subordinated the rights of Parliament during the gas pipeline fight.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members voted solidly for the motion.

Jackson Has 15½-Lb. Edge For Tonight's Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson had a 15½-pound weight advantage at today's weigh-in when he scaled 193½ to young Floyd Patterson's unexpectedly-light 178 for their heavyweight contenders fight tonight.

(Fight will be televised on Channel 4, KOMO, starting at 7 Victoria time.)

Rockfall Ruins Big Hydro Plant

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An earth-shaking rockfall in the Niagara River gorge late Thursday took one life and left the huge Schoellkopf hydro-electric power station in tumbled-down ruins with an estimated loss of $100,000,000.

More than 40 employees of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. scrambled to safety along the precipitous face of the gorge as two of the station's three sections crashed into the wild river rapids behind them.

The rockfall wiped out the producer of 360,000 kilowatt power capacity in little more than a twinkling of an eye. Company officials were appalled by the loss.

Charles J. Wick, administrative vice-president in charge of Niagara Mohawk's western division, made the damage estimate after a preliminary investigation. He said the water was raging through the remaining third of the station, 10-feet deep in places.

But there was no expectation of another rockfall comparable in size in the immediate future, since the gorge above the remaining section is covered to its 220-foot-high lip by a man - made, reinforced masonry wall.

There was no estimate of the size of the rockfall, but the "bite" from the wall of the gorge was more than 500 feet wide and the weight of the rubble probably ran well into the thousands of tons.

Lost in the maelstrom of rocky debris was Richard A. Draper, 39, of nearby Lewiston, a machinist. Two companions saw him disappear in the cascading remnants of powerhouse walls.

HAD SOME WARNING

Draper and the others had been working feverishly sandbagging a leak at the base of the station. The seepage had been discovered only hours earlier. The staccato reports of cracking walls warned the men that the end of the building was near.

"All I know is that the walls and ceiling started to come down and I ran like hell," said Chris Nelson, 25, one of the crew. "I didn't stop for anything. I was really scared."

The station was hit by three earth - shaking slides which followed each other in rapid order starting just before 5.30 p.m. When it was over, the six turbine generators in the two sections were buried in debris at the foot of the 220-foot gorge.

The destroyed generators, all used in Niagara Mohawk's 25-cycle service for heavy industry, had a total capacity of 200,000 kilowatts. The sudden loss of power brought much of the area's big chemical industry to a halt.

All power in this highly industrialized city of 100,000 was instantly cut off. But a gradual return began within two hours as the company drew in power from its central division, from steam plants and from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission across the river.

Officials of the Canadian power firm lost no time in offering their services to Niagara Mohawk.

J. Russell McCullough, regional manager of Ontario Hydro, said that more than 230,000 kilowatts was sent to the United States as soon as commission officials learned of the rockfall.

"We just switched all available power over there," he said.

More than 40 persons escaped from the plant before it fell. Two

RAIN RUINING BERRY CROP IN SAANICH

Continual rain and damp weather since the start of June threatens to ruin a $400,000 bumper strawberry crop in Saanich.

Picking has been brought to a standstill throughout the Saanich peninsula and mould has started to spread rapidly through crops.

Herbert Bickford, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association, said today the industry already has lost between $100,000 and $150,000 as the result of the rainy weather.

"It will ruin the whole crop if it continues much longer," he said. "Even green berries are turning mouldy in the fields."

The Saanich peninsula has had over an inch of rain since June 1.

The industry ships an average of about 50 carloads—400,000 crates—to eastern Canada. This does not include jam berries.

Weatherman William Mackie has forecast unsettled weather for the next two days with possible scattered showers Saturday and Sunday. Victoria, he said, has received almost an inch of rain since June 1, but in the outlying districts the precipitation has been much heavier.

HALIFAX (CP)—It was reliably learned here late today that service operational centres were tracking the movements of an unidentified submarine off the Nova Scotia coast. The sub was believed to be Russian.

CROSSWORD PRIZE $250; THOUSANDS FAIL AGAIN

It is eight weeks now since a Times' crossworder came up with a completely correct answer to the popular puzzle so the prize for this week climbs to $250.

"Red" was the little word that caused much of the trouble last week. The clue said: "It's nice to contemplate a nice warm ———." Most contestants gave "Bed" as the answer but a warm bed would not always be nice to contemplate—in the tropics, for example. On the other hand a nice warm "red" is truly nice to contemplate. If it were not, you would not refer to it in such pleasing terms.

Complete answer and explanation of last week's puzzle and a new contest for this week appear on Page 29 of today's Times.

Margaret Will Join Queen, Duke in Sweden

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret will fly to Stockholm Monday to join the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, who arrived there today for a three-day state visit, it was announced Thursday. The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester—he is the Queen's uncle—will accompany Princess Margaret.

FOR TALK HERE

Fire Monty, MP Urges

Statements made here by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery during his visit to Victoria last week reverberated in the British House of Commons today.

Denis Healey, Labor member of Parliament, urged that Viscount Montgomery be dismissed from his post as deputy supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

He gave notice he would ask the minister of defence in the Commons next week to request the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to end his appointment because Montgomery's public statements "are not compatible with NATO policy."

At Patricia Bay airport on June 1, Montgomery said if anyone anywhere in the world started aggression "we should give them the works from the word go with atom bombs, hydrogen bombs, with the biggest thing we've got and with everything we've got."

The field marshal added he was speaking as a soldier and did not know what "my political masters" would say about it.

IS DAT DA PREEM ON DA SCREEN?

Carnera Hasn't Seen Picture He's Suing for $1.5 Million

By an odd coincidence, one of a series, former world heavyweight boxing champion Primo Carnera arrived in Victoria this morning, just as the boxing movie "The Harder They Fall" opened at a Victoria theatre.

Primo and the movie also arrived in Seattle and Vancouver at the same time.

The picture is said to be a sensationalized version of Primo's fabulous arrival on the fight scene when he traveled to the U.S. from a little village in Italy, all 260 pounds of him, and in a blink of a press-agent's eyelash, won the heavyweight title.

The movie version, drawn from Budd Schulberg's novel of the same name, paints a ghastly picture of a South American giant named Toro Molina who is "adopted" by a set of mobsters who exploit his huge body and, in a succession of rigged fights, ballyhoo Molina into a bout with the current champion.

Molina takes a horrible beating at the hands of the champion, who has not been bought off by the gamblers. Molina, a penniless, shattered wreck of a man, is dumped after the mobsters have made a small fortune out of him.

Carnera's lawyer in Los Angeles has filed a $1,500,000 damage suit against the studio releasing the picture, claiming that the plot ridicules Carnera by suggestion and innuendo.

But the funny thing is, Primo has not even seen the picture yet.

Sitting in a downtown hotel room this morning, the massive (6' 6½," 280-pounds) Carnera said, "What about that picture, it doesn't mean anything to me. I haven't seen it yet. Maybe I will go today and see what it is all about.

"If I am suing them, I should see it."

PERSON TO PERSON WITH PRIMO

Former world heavyweight boxing champion Primo Carnera takes no chances on reporters misquoting him. Here to fill a Memorial Arena wrestling engagement tonight, "Da Preem," all six and one-half feet of him, hoisted five-feet, eight-inch sportswriter Denny Boyd aloft for a high-level conference. (Photo by Strickland.)

men trapped on the side of the gorge were rescued by a power launch owned by the Maid of the Mist Company.

The men were unable to move from their perch on the gorge as searing flames from the wrecked plant cut off one route and a bridge abutment sealed off the other. The men were directly below the power station.

The launch set out from the Canadian side and noticed the plight of the two men as it searched the river.

A company official speculated that the collapse was caused by a seepage of water into rock crevices between the face of the gorge and the hydraulic canal which fed water into the station. He suggested that there had been an "earth movement" in the area.

MINOR EARTHQUAKE

Dr. Austin C. McTigue, in charge of the Canisius College seismograph in Buffalo, agreed with the "earth movement" idea, saying he believed there had been a minor earthquake. He said Niagara Falls is in an area subject to "adjustments" in the earth's surface.

There was no immediate indication today whether Niagara Mohawk will go right ahead with a replacement project—which might cost well over $50,000,000 at current construction costs. Power needs of the area, however, indicate that some means of restoring the supply level quickly must be found.

Authorities said a full inspection of the remains will have to be made before any decision is reached.

Arena Planning 'Rock and Roll' Summer Dances

Arrangements are underway at Memorial Arena for a series of summer dances featuring instruction in the recent "rock-and-roll" craze.

Rock and roll succeeded jiving, which succeeded jitterbugging, which succeeded the Charleston which succeeded the tribal dances of the Zulus, according to one popular train of thought. Some students of the dance think the cycle is now almost complete.

Manager Joe Dukowski says tentative plans are for Saturday night 8 to 11 dances with a student admission of 50 cents, starting June 30. He hopes to bring here as instructor Claudette Ayres, who was 12 years with Ziegfield Follies, and some of her prize dance students who took part in a similar instruction in Spokane.

Special lighting and curtains will be installed and music will be "piped in" from a Spokane radio station, with co-operation of a local station. A Victoria dancing academy will provide instruction also during the season.

PGE Will Pay, Rotarians Told

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway from now on is going to pay back to British Columbians their long-time investment in it, William Anderson, PGE official, told the Rotary Club here Thursday.

"We're going to be making a profit," he predicted.

The extension between Squamish and Vancouver will be "running full blast before the summer is out," he said, and it was expected steel will be laid from Prince Rupert to Dawson Creek by December, 1957.

Business already is far in advance of forecasts, he said.

Thrown Baseball Kills Schoolboy

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — Gary Bitely, 12, was injured fatally Thursday when struck on the head by a baseball in a game during gymnasium period at a grade-school playground. Police said Gary was hit while running for first base after hitting the ball into the infield. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bitely, he died of a skull fracture.

CANADA'S BIG PIPELINE ROUTES

This map shows natural-gas pipelines being built or projected in Canada and their connections with United States lines. The big line of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. starts near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border and runs eastward to Montreal. The Westcoast Transmission Co. pipeline from the Peace River gas fields to Vancouver is nearing completion and there are plans to link it with the U.S. Pacific Northwest system.

SIGNING OF PIPE BILL WAS NO FORMALITY

OTTAWA (CP) — Signing of the trans-Canada pipeline agreement turned out to be no mere formality.

The cabinet, meeting in Prime Minister St. Laurent's office, went over the wording of the agreement.

Lawyers posed technical questions.

Then, when the cabinet okay was given, legal men said the company signers—Trans-Canada president N. E. Tanner and secretary A. D. Nesbitt—must be informed in their office, and only in their office, that the agreement was ready to be signed.

Mr. Tanner and Mrs. Nesbitt took off in a taxi for their legal office five blocks away. Then Col. M. W. Kynch, secretary of the corporation, followed them and gave them the legal message on their premises.

They returned immediately and the signing began—about two hours after the principals had been summoned.

IT'S SOMETHING OF A HABIT

Old 'Granite Face' Gets His Own Way

By DON PEACOCK

OTTAWA (CP)—Out of his hearing, some call him "granite face." To his face, others use the more affectionate "C.D." But no matter what you call him, Clarence Decatur Howe is a power in the land.

And at 70 he has lost none of the drive that made him a millionaire at 40, and a member of the federal government just nine days after his first crack at politics in 1935. He's never sat anywhere in Parliament except on the cabinet bench.

CENTRAL FIGURE

More often than not, he has been the centre of controversy.

As for the names he's called and the frequent accusation that he prefers his own rules to Parliament's, Mr. Howe added: "That's all part of the game. It's the first time the Tories have had something to kick about, and they're kicking."

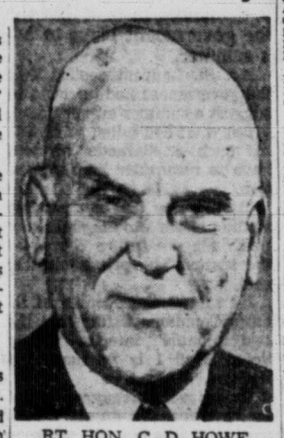
During a hot debate the white-haired, craggy-faced minister slouches in his seat, crosses his legs, leans his neck against the back of his chair and props a knee against his desk.

SELF-CONTAINED

He listens and looks, peering from under his shaggy brows. If the speaking member is provocative, he will growl out interjections.

He relishes a fight, but frequently in the middle of one he steps out for a smoke. In the theatre they might call it scene-stealing. His stroll up the aisle is done with arresting casualness. He is already fumbling for his cigarettes—one is usually in his mouth, unlit, before he disappears behind the curtains along the side of the chamber.

When he speaks in the Commons, he pauses readily to hear interjections and questions, sometimes asking that they be repeated. His replies are often spiced with references to members as "junior" or "buster."



RT. HON. C. D. HOWE

Mr. Howe is an engineer and proud of it. He made his fortune buliding grain elevators in western Canada before his entry into politics as Liberal member for Port Arthur in 1935.

On this aspect of the minister, John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) said that during the pipeline debate that just because Mr. Howe is an engineer he "can't ditch, dam and drain all parliamentary privilege in one afternoon."

Of all his projects, the gas pipeline might be his biggest. He told the reporter it is the "greatest project in the country." And more than once he has told the Commons that the $375,000,000 project will involve an additional $1,000,000,000 in subsequent developments.

It might also be his last major undertaking. He hinted at retirement a few nights ago in the Commons.

"I am getting on in years and this may be the last big project which I will be called on to undertake for the government of Canada," he said.

Pipeline Builders Hunt Men, Equipment

Race Starts to Get Construction Started On Huge Project; Fund Drive Being Mapped

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Telegrams were speeding across the continent today to line up about 2,500 experienced and hard-to-find pipeline builders and approximately $10,000,000 worth of mechanical monsters to lay pipe from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border into Winnipeg by the year end.

The race is on to get the prairie section of the pipeline into Winnipeg on or before Dec. 1 to meet a Dec. 31 deadline for having Alberta natural gas available commercially in Winnipeg.

With the pipeline battle now ended on Parliament Hill there was a sense of relief among government supporters. Opposition members—CCF and Progressive Conservatives—were determined neither to forgive nor to forget the government's heavy-handed tactics in riding the pipeline bill roughshod through Parliament.

Thursday night at 9.30 the government won its race to have the agreement signed, sealed and delivered before midnight June 7.

NEW DEADLINE

Another deadline must now be met. Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will seek to raise sufficient funds from the Canadian public and from other investors to repay the $80,000,000 loan the company will receive from the federal treasury under the pipeline law. The company must raise the money before April 2, 1957. The company will be raising more than the $80,000,00 in order to build the line links through to Toronto and Montreal.

Nathan Tanner, president of Trans-Canada, said Thursday he "hoped" to be going into the market to raise funds before the year end. He stressed that the $80,000,000 was only a "loan", not a "gift" from the treasury.

"The government is either going to get its money back with 5 per cent interest or it is going to get a pipeline for 90 per cent or the cost of it. We are gambling the $15,000,000 we have invested that we can build it and repay this money," he said.

Government Aid to Buy Fodder Asked by B.C. Dairy Farmers

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Fraser Valley dairy farmers will approach the provincial government for assistance to meet the current hay emergency.

Close to 400 dairymen, meeting here Thursday night, gave unanimous support to three resolutions.

Because almost $4,000,000 worth of hay will have to be brought into the Fraser Valley this year, farmers will ask that the government declare "a disaster area" and provide a subsidy for all hay costs over $25 a ton.

The dairymen are also asking for immediate implementation of formula pricing and the equalization provisions of the new milk act.

And the government will also be asked to enact "emergency loan legislation" to assist the dairy farmer in his purchase of hay.

The recommendations will be taken first to the special meeting of reeves and mayors in the Fraser valley at New Westminster next Wednesday night.

Most speakers were insistent that dairy farmers will need assistance in buying the hay.

At Thelma Furness' house at Melton Mowbray we were met by her step-daughter, Averill, who told us that the rest of the party had been delayed by fog.

We were taken into a drawing room where there was a round table in front of the fireplace laid for tea. My cold was worse, if anything. I knew from the burning sensation of my skin that I had a slight temperature. More than anything else I wanted to go to bed.

A maid entered and quietly drew the curtains. Night had come. Still no sign of the others. We sat and we sat and we sat. Then about 7 o'clock Thelma appeared with the two Princes. She introduced me to both of them. I summoned my waning courage and made my first curtsy to the Prince of Wales. To Ernest's surprise and my own, it came off very well.

The Prince of Wales, as I remembered, had on very loud checked tweeds. His younger brother was similarly dressed but his clothes were more conservative in pattern. I remember thinking, as I studied the Prince of Wales, how much like his pictures he really was—the slightly wind-rumpled golden hair, the turned-up nose, and a strange, wistful, almost sad look about the eyes when his expression was in repose.

But I was surprised on seeing him for the first time in the flesh to discover how small he was. From photographs I had somehow formed the impression that he was fairly tall, but he could not be, I judged, more than two inches taller than I, and I am five feet four and a half. Prince George was considerably taller, with neatly-brushed brown hair, aquiline features, and dark blue eyes. He gave an impression of gaiety and joie de vivre.

What attracted me at once about the two brothers, and especially the Prince of Wales, was their utter naturalness. To find that royalty lights a cigaret in much the same way as other people do and employs much the same gestures and mannerisms and in addition could be highly agreeable was for me an astonishing revelation.

America Discussed

I was mildly surprised to find that in all their most charming aspects they clearly shared the human condition. Thelma must have put the princes on notice that I was an American and that Ernest had been educated in the United States, because in a most casual way they talked to us about life in the United States, and the Prince of Wales in particular expressed his admiration for Americans and the American outlook. It was done with such easy grace that I momentarily forgot about my cold and my dread vanished.

Prince George's friends, with whom he was to spend the weekend, presently called for him. He left after shaking hands with the rest of us, an attention requiring from me another curtsy that I might well have forgotten had he not first said goodbye to Thelma. We went upstairs to dress for dinner.

When we were alone in our room Ernest remarked on the charm of the two brothers. "I have come to the conclusion," he added, "that you Americans lost something that is very good and quite irreplaceable when you decided to dispense with the British monarchy."

After I had had a long soak in the tub and taken two aspirins my sense of pleasure began to rise in anticipation of the evening.

It turned out to be a large party—at least 30 people. As I had feared, Ernest and I knew not a soul, while everyone else plainly knew one another extremely well.

Thelma sat on the prince's right. Ernest and I, as comparative unknowns, were lost in the lower ranges of the spectrum of precedence. After coffee there was cards—poker and bridge.

I found myself at a bridge table playing for stakes that, by Bryanston Court standards, were frighteningly high. I could see the week's marketing money and more lost by the evening's end. I counted myself lucky to escape with a loss of £8.

From the cries of delight alternating with groans of disappointment that came from the next room I judged that the prince enjoyed poker and played spiritedly. About midnight he came through the room to say good night, explaining that since he had to be up early to hunt he wanted a good night's sleep. The rest of the guests left shortly afterwards.

SATURDAY: Princely tact displayed.

Tee Topics

By BILL WALKER

If the trend wasn't obvious last year, it certainly is this year.

The younger players in golf are at the top to stay and the old guard is approaching the end of the fairway.

The Sneads, the Mangrums and the Demarets aren't winning like they once were.

True, as Jimmy Thompson said in a recent article, "they can still win at 50."

But that's because there's still a certain magic to their names that gives a youngster the willies when he finds himself paired in such illustrious company.

And even that inferiority complex is becoming a rarity these days.

For despite the fact that some of the richer pros have the where-with-all to get to the scene of a major tourney a few days early, to practice diligently over the layout, and to learn the intricate hazards of the course, there is a counter-balance which is swinging the tide in favor of the crew-cut swingers.

The kids have been picking up a lot of victories on the winter and spring tour and with each victory they also gain a tremendous psychological lift.

Watch These Fellows

And that's all some of them seemingly need.

Peter Thomson, the young Australian who cracked through to take the Dallas Open, is a good example.

It was the British Open championship that put him in the top-drawer class, and he proved it with a $7,000 birdie putt in the extra-hole playoff at Dallas.

Don January has been the upstart of the past few weeks while Dow Finsterwald parlayed his triumph in the '55 B.C. Open into a recent string of successes, or near successes, that have put him among the top three in money earnings.

And there are others — Mike Souchak, Gene Littler, Bo Wininger—they are closer to the top of the heap than the bottom these days. Especially Littler, whom many regard as the best.

On the other hand, the vets are having problems they never used to have.

Cary Middlecoff had a triple bogey on one hole at Dallas. Sam Snead blew a lead at White Sulphur Springs to lose that event; Lloyd Mangrum, a former Open champ, failed to qualify for this year's tournament.

This doesn't mean you can count out Ben Hogan for the Open.

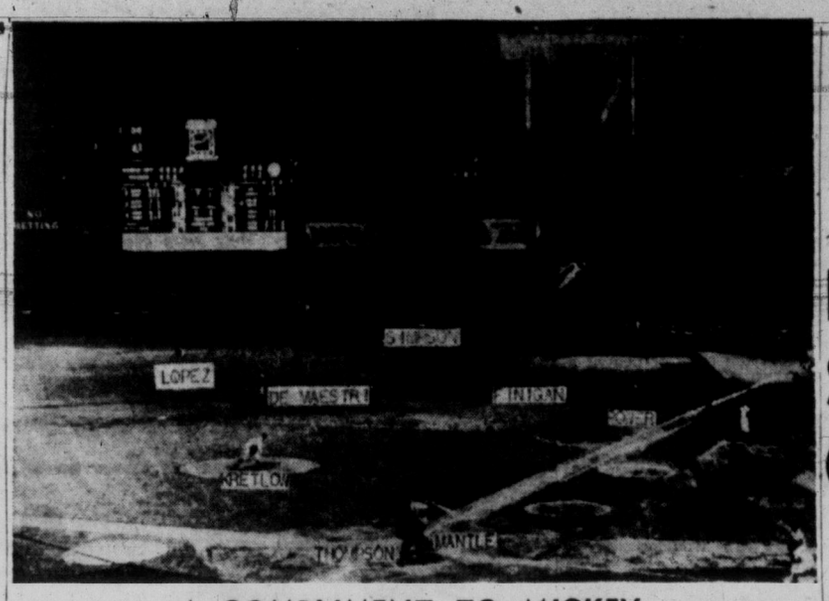
Never, because Hogan's ability to apply himself to any job he sets out to do, and his intense determination, will always make him a factor. And Snead? If he needs any incentive, the fact that the Open is the one big tourney he's never won, should put the Slammer in the favored few. And what about Henry Cotton, the retired English master. He had a marvellous 138 round to qualify, and would dearly love to add this one to his trophy room.

Could, But Shouldn't

Maybe they'll come through in the clutch — but they shouldn't. The kids were never more ready than they are now.

For who was it who won the British Amateur?—John Beharrell, an 18-year-old schoolboy.

BUNKER BLASTS — The Colwood gals did themselves proud in the mid-Island at Nanaimo last week — Onaugh Painter, champion; Nan Court (wife of pro Bill), low net; B. Ashdown, second low net; Marion Kennedy, low gross first nine, and Darlene Woodburn, long driving . . . and today Mrs. Isobel McIntyre could be the new city champion . . . The city men's tourney continues Sunday, and if Colwood's Bill McColl or Laurie Kerr could click, the suburban course would have reason to be prouder still . . . still we'll stick with Bob Fleming; with a two-stroke lead he'll be tough to catch. . . Derek Rhys-Jones, former Colwood secretary, was honored last weekend by clubmates who presented him with a complete golfing outfit, while Cliff Denham, one of the real grand guys of the game, received fitting tribute — a life membership.



A COMPLIMENT TO MICKEY

Lou Boudreau, who devised the Ted Williams shift when managing Cleveland, did the same to Mickey Mantle, Yankee slugger during recent visit of Kansas City to New York. It worked in part. Mickey got four hits in three games.

Lou Slows Up Mickey, But Can't Figure Yogi

By The Associated Press

Now that Kansas City manager Lou Boudreau has Mickey Mantle "figured out," what's he going to do about Yogi Berra

Boudreau did about as good a job of "stopping" Mantle as any one has this season, employing a shift that packs the defence to the right when the switch - hitting Mickey bats lefthanded. Mantle got only four hits in 11 trips

But what about Berra? Yogi smacked six hits in nine trips in the three games, drove in five runs, scored six and hit three homers. The Yanks hardly knew Mantle was missing.

Berra, a bad-ball spray - hitter you can't set up a shift against, powered his 16th homer of the season—and fourth in four games—to get the Yankees rolling on a 9-1 decision over the A's Thursday. He also added two singles and drove in two runs—giving him a total of six homers, 10 RBIs and a .545 bat-average in six games against the A's this year.

REDLEGS TAKE LEAD

The victory pushed New York into a 4½-game lead as runner-up Cleveland was dumped by Baltimore 5-2. Chicago White Sox beat Washington 7-5 and Boston trimmed Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's rugged Redlegs boomed into the National League lead by a half-game over idle St. Louis by blasting Philadelphia 8-5 while Chicago Cubs were dropping Pittsburgh to third 5-2. And Milwaukee closed Brooklyn's winning streak at four games as Bob Buhl pitched a four-hitter to win 4-1.

Hank Bauer hit his 13th homer for the Yankees, knocking in his 34th run—not bad for a guy hitting .203. The A's didn't shift against three southpaws led by loser Alex Kellner—and he had two-for-four. Bob Turley won it for a 3-2 record.

DIAPERS, BASSINETS PART OF BASEBALL NOW

ST. LOUIS (BUP)—Shades of Bill Veeck, who used to do such things with the Browns.

The St. Louis Cardinals now are offering diaper service complete with a bassinet for mothers who want to watch baseball games at Busch Stadium but can't leave their babies at home.

Wanted: Fireman; Larry Fills Bill

Larry McPherson qualified for the Firemen's Union Friday night.

McPherson, relief pitcher for Optimists of the Babe Ruth League, not only put out the fire he was called into quench but salvaged a victory out of the flames.

Optimists were behind by one run when McPherson was waved in to relieve Daryl Lorimer. McPherson pitched three scoreless innings at Menzies Plumbing and contributed a two-run homer as his club tied the score and went on to win, 7-4.

FIGHT RESULTS

SAN FRANCISCO—Reuben Hernandez, 171½, San Francisco, knocked out Tommy Villa, 170, Decote, Calif. (7).

Conrad, Sanders Lead U.S. Golfers

PARIS (UP)—Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., and Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., led the American advance into the fourth round of the French amateur golf championship today by rallying to defeat United States rivals.

Conrad, former British amateur champion, was 1 down after nine holes but defeated Tom Draper of Birmingham, Ala., 2 and 1, while rain lashed this morning's third round competitors.

Sanders was 3 down to Paul Coste of Philadelphia at the turn but railied to win, 2 up. This morning's survivors play in the fourth round after lunch.

Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., easily advanced with a 7 and triumph over Fred Ralph of San Mateo, Calif.

Pete Arend, The Deal, N.J., player who collapsed of a diabetic deficiency after winning his second rounder, entered the fourth round by defeating John Kraft of Denver, Colo., 5 and 3.

Solarium Corner

"I took a walk through the Queen Alexandra Solarium three years ago and it really taught me something."

That's what Walter Spaven says in explaining the 1,400 tickets he sold last year for the Anglers-Times Solarium Derby, all proceeds of which go to help the Solarium's crippled children.

Spaven's effort last year was rewarded with a life membership in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, co-sponsors of the derby with the Times.

This year, his third of selling tickets, Walter hopes to break last year's mark. He is one of 33 committee members working to make the July 22 derby the best yet.

A salesman, Walter is married and has four children. He can be contacted about the derby at 4-6058.

WALT SPAVEN

'DOESN'T LIKE TO FINISH SECOND'

Mike Picks Ben for Open

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP)—Big Mike Souchak figures Ben Hogan will win his fifth National Open championship next week because Ben can play all the shots and because he doesn't like to finish second.

By the same token, Souchak figures to do well this week in the 15th Round Robin tournament at Wykagyl. Mike held a slim lead over Bob Rosburg and Gene Littler after Thursday's opening round. He's a better-than fair hand with a driver or iron and he doesn't see any sense in being runner-up.

"Who knows who finishes second," Mike asked after shooting a 67—it should have been 65—and piling up 15 points in the first of the Round Robin tournament's five rounds.

"I finished second 10 times last year and nobody knew it. This year I was second a couple of times, then finally won one. Still, to be in the top 10 every week, you have to be very good. There are so many good players around."

Souchak's round of 34-33—67 over the par 37-35—72 course gave him only a one-point advantage over Bob Rosburg and Gene Littler going into today's two rounds.

Rosburg had 34-34—68 for the day's second-best round. Littler and Fred Haas, each with 34-35—69, were third in scoring.

Patterson Slight Choice Over Hurricane Tonight

Bradshaw Shamrock Casualty

• Starry Forward Out for Two Weeks

The axe descended again on the Victoria Shamrock line-up Friday and this time it was for real.

Peewee Bradshaw, Shamrocks' most consistent scoring forward, was clearing brush with a double-bitted axe when he made a slip and sliced an eight-stitch gash over his shinbone.

The unfortunate accident has rendered Bradshaw inactive for tonight's all-important game with Nanaimo Timbermen and it may be a couple of weeks before the rotund sniper is back in the line-up.

Also out of action will be defenceman Jack Thompson, a strep throat victim; forward Jack Northup, who can't get off work and newcomer Ralph Lyndon, who still has not had his transfer from Winnipeg approved by the rather slow-moving Canadian Lacrosse Association.

As a result, Rock coach Whitey Severson will put all his eggs in one basket, going with two forward lines and two utility players.

He plans to have an all-rookie line as his number one unit, consisting of powerful Bert Bertoia with Ed Longpre and Ed Kowalyk.

The other line will have Severson, Al Gill and Harry Irwin with Art Greenf and Mel Davison available for relief duty.

Timbermen hold a seven-point lead over the second-place Shamrocks. The clubs will be rematched in Victoria next Wednesday night.

In Vancouver last night, Jake Proctor's punchless Pilseners slid weakly into the cellar, a victim of a 7-3 pasting administered by the New Westminster Salmonbellies, who climbed into third place.

Three last-quarter goals by Cliff Sepka paved the way for the Salmonbelly victory.

Viduals Surprise Polyettes

Individuals of the Senior B Softball League continued to make things uncomfortable and embarrassing for Polyettes of the Intercity "A" League Thursday night.

The young Individuals handed Polyettes a 2-1 defeat Thursday for their second straight win over the senior club.

Heroine of the victory was 'Vidual pitcher Lorraine Shields, who held the losers to one hit, a single by Babe Mosley in the fourth inning.

Cleaners put together one hit two walks, an error and a fielders' choice to score their runs in the fifth.

The runs were scored off the ace of Polyettes mound staff, Jocelyn Richmond, who took over from starter Ruth Oster in the fourth.

BILL HOPE JOE ROBBINS

DEFENSIVE CHORES for United tonight against Halecos in Coast Soccer League match at Athletic Park will be handled by veterans Bill Hope and Joe Robbins.

Guthrie Joins United Tonight

Victoria United will dig their heels in the turf of Athletic Park tonight and attempt to push back the free-wheeling Vancouver Haleco squad in a Coast Soccer League game starting at 8.30.

Victoria's Col. Larry McCooey was slated to meet Trail's Pete McIntyre at Vancouver's Shaughnessy Golf Club in the 18-hole final of the B.C. Seniors' Golf Championship. McCooey downed 1954 champion Hugh O'Callaghan Thursday, 6 and 4, in the semis.

United will be reinforced for the big push by the addition of inside right Dave Guthrie, who signed with the club Thursday night and will be in uniform tonight.

The club received additional hope for the future when former English third division player Donald Jones wired from Regina that he will leave for Victoria on the 15th of the month and will be ready for action on his arrival.

United will face a tough proposition in the Halecos, who defeated the Victoria team in the Province Cup finals.

Toughest of the lot are smoothie Brian Philley, a constant danger at centre forward, and inside Frank Sealey, a shifty Trinidad youngster who has captured the imagination of Vancouver fans with his magic touches.

United will again go with Archie McMillan in goal, fronted by the steady fullback combination of veterans Bill Hope and Joe Robbins. It will be Harold Holroyd and Willie Hamilton at wing-halves with Harry Carruthers at centre half.

Rookie Billy Abbott will start at centre forward with George Wright and Guthrie as his inside mates and peppery Tim Walker and Ken Hibbert at outsides.

A program draw for game tickets will be held at half-time.

Heavyweight Elimination Bout on TV

NEW YORK (UP) — Young Floyd Patterson pits his speed, skill and punch against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's slapstick durability tonight in their heavyweight elimination fight at Madison Square Garden.

The winner probably will meet veteran Archie Moore for the vacant crown in September.

Patterson of St. Albans, N.Y., boasting 16 straight victories and 11 straight knockouts, is favored at 2-1 to harness the Hurricane from far Rockaway, N.Y., in this TV-radio (NBC) 12-rounder.

A crowd of 11,000 and a gate of $60,000 were forecast today by Harry Marksson, managing director of the International Boxing Club. In addition, the TV-radio yield is $75,000. Each fighter is guaranteed at least $40,000.

Nimble, explosive Patterson at 21, is the ring's most impressive young heavyweight. The Olympic middleweight champion of 1952 has lost but one of his 30 professional bouts—and that one on a questionable decision to ex-light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim. He registered 21 knockouts.

RATED FOURTH

Floyd would be favored at much longer price than 2-1, had he been more thoroughly tested against heavyweight opposition. He met only four heavies, and he was shifted from the light heavy ranks to the heavy list only two months ago. Now he is ranked fourth.

Lanky, long-armed Jackson, 24, is rated second, only one notch below veteran Archie Moore. Prancing Tommy—master of the double uppercut with both fists simultaneously, the dangling arm defence, the perpetual-motion flailing and other goofy techniques—attained his high ranking by upsetting men who were supposed to flatten him quickly.

Those victims included Dan Bucceroni, Rex Layne, Ezzard Charles and Bob Baker.

Foul Bay Boosts Lead

Foul Bay added another prop to their first-place perch in the Senior B Lacrosse League standings Thursday night, edging Jokers, 5-3, in a tight-checking game at Stevenson Park.

Foul Bay scorers were Stan Tyson, Jack Reid, George Kelly, Jack Milburn and Reg Foster.

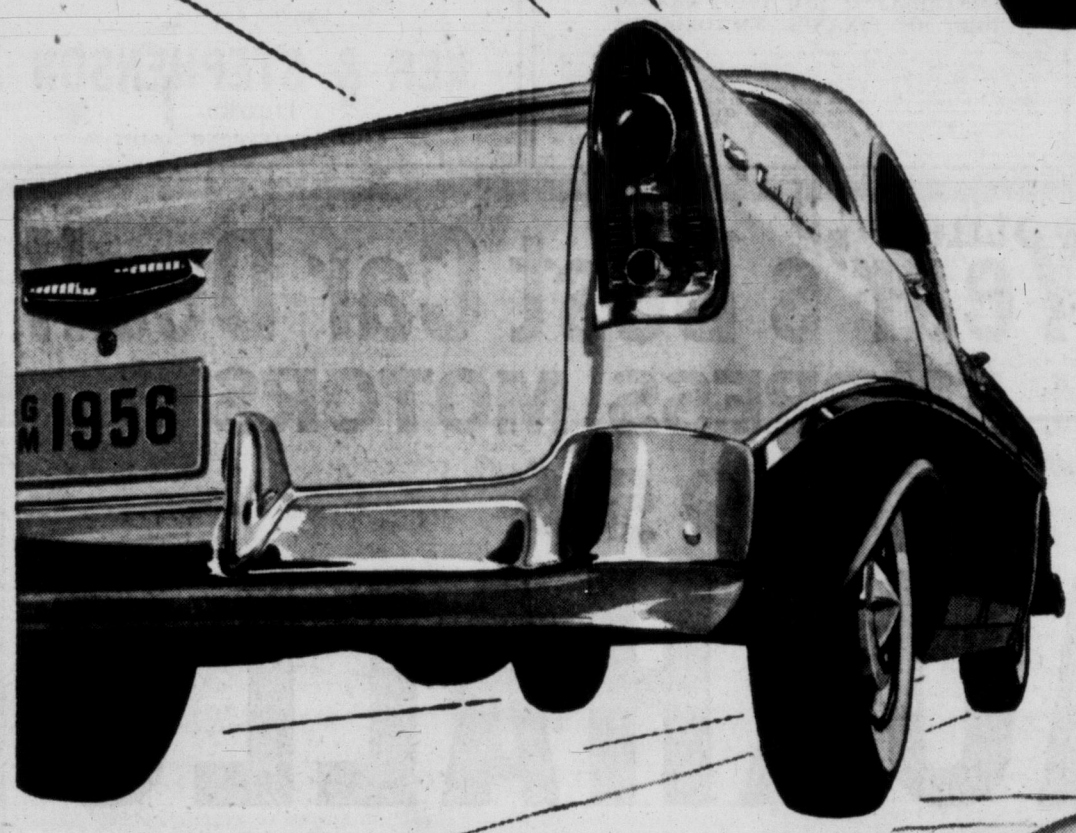
HIGH-FASHION STYLING

that will never go out of date!

CHEVROLET'S GOT IT TODAY... THE STUNNING SIMPLICITY, THE FRESH, FRESH FASHION YOU'LL FIND IMITATED FOR YEARS TO COME!



No other styling, presents the keen, uncluttered grace of the Chevrolet grille... new and bold as the surging engine-power behind it!

Just look it over — the wider grille that sweeps clear across the full front end ... the big bold parking lights set at each side ... the crisp, classic simplicity that sets Chevrolet years ahead! And the subtle slope of the longer, lower hood is as functional as it is beautiful ... your view of the road has never been so unhampered!

Breezy new elegance right to the rear... excitingly free of fuss and fancy folderol!

Let your eye leap up from the new rakish rear wheel openings to the jewel-like flair of the Chevrolet's new taillights. High-fashion details wherever you look ... the graceful chrome framing, the embossed metal background ... and the stylish secret that Chevrolet shares with much more expensive cars (the left taillight assembly swings down to uncover the gas cap)!

Only in Chevrolet, those low, lovely unloaded lines... the clean-limbed zest of the gayest car on the road!

Not an ounce of chrome without its role in expressing the joy, the fresh liveliness of Chevrolet's action! But haven't you been a street-side spectator long enough? Come slip inside this fleet, fashionable beauty ... how proud you feel in this most stylish, most powerful of all Chevrolets! Your nearest Chevrolet dealer is at your service. Drop by soon.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trading was dull and mostly routine today on the Winnipeg grain exchange. Reports of the illness of President Eisenhower caused some uneasiness.

Commercial demand was limited and the only export business overseas reported was small sales of barley to the United Kingdom.

Oats was a domestic trade. Barley attracted some export orders in connection with the overseas business. Support was thin in flax and prices eased off under a small increase in offerings. Buying was for international accounts. Commission house buying kept rye firm.

No information was available on overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged from Thursday except for IWA and domestic No. 1 durum which dropped one-quarter cent.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP) — Old crop grains with the exception of oats, held steady on the board of trade today.

News of President Eisenhower's latest illness caused a flurry of buying in most pits as the shorts sought to get out of the market.

STOCK MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Fall $5 On Ike's Illness

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market declined rapidly today in reaction to the announcement that President Eisenhower had been taken to hospital.

Industrial losses ranged up to $5 in key index issues. The industrial index fell more than five points and western oils, the leader for most of the week, had an index drop of 4.50. The base metal index was off 4.37.

Toronto stocks also listed on the New York exchange took the heaviest losses. Aluminium was off $5. International Petroleum fell $2. PRM Inc. was off 3½. Other stocks losing more than a point were B-A Oil, Shawinigan, Imperial Oil, Regent Refining, Trans Mountain, Foundation and Walkers.

International Nickel, also listed on the New York exchange, dropped 3¼. Hudson Bay and Quemont were off 1¼ in base metals. Consolidated Smelters dropped ⅝. Nickel Rim, New Royran, Frobisher, Coppercorp, Sherritt Gordon, Hoyle, Consolidated Sudbury, Conwest and Eastern Mining lost 20-35 cents.

Gunnar fell 1¼ in uraniums and Algom was off ½. Panel and Pronto lost 15 cents.

Calgary and Edmonton was off 1¼ in western oils. Bailey Selburn declined ¾. Triad was down 50 cents and General Pete 45 cents.

Wall St. Rallies at Close After Three Selling Waves

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market started a strong recovery drive near the finish today after suffering three waves of selling during the day on news of the president's illness.

The tape fell behind three times on the downside, and then within minutes of the finish it again was late but this time with prices rising from their lows.

Prices were forced down from one to around six points at the worst, and all divisions of the market were hard hit with a few minor exceptions.

The stock market was well prepared with the news of the president's illness before the opening, and selling at the start was relatively light. Some recovery from the lows followed.

At noon the White House issued a statement that the president was going to hospital for a check-up. That started a selling wave that carried the market down hard.

Trading was so swift that the New York stock exchange had to resort to the emergency procedure of flashing prices to the tape which lagged as much as five minutes in reporting floor transactions. Partial recovery followed, but then another sinking spell took command.

The Canadian stocks on the New York exchange also were lower. Aluminium Ltd. dropped 3½, International Nickel 3¼, Walker-Gooderham 1⅜, Canadian Pacific ⅝, Distillers Seagrams ⅝, Granby Mining ½, Hudson Bay Mining ½, and Dome Mines ⅛.

On the American exchange, Canadian issues on the downside included Canadian Marconi and Preston East Dome, both down ¼, Shawnigan off ⅜, Great Sweet Grass Oil off 3-16, Brazilian Traction and Fargo Oil, both down ⅛, and Eureka, Molybdenite of Canada, Sapphire Petroleums and Scurry-Rainbow Oil, each down 1-16.

Killam Paper Shares Bought By Bowaters?

HALIFAX (CP)—It was reliably reported here today that Bowaters Pulp and Paper Corporation had purchased the controlling interest in the Mersey Pulp and Paper Co. at Liverpool, N.S.

A Halifax law firm announced the purchase of the shares held by the estate of the late Izaak Killam, major shareholder in Mersey. The law firm did not confirm names of the new owners.

An official of the law firm said the new company, Scotian Paper Co. Ltd. had been incorporated on May 7, and would issue 10,000 shares of common stock to cover the price of the Killam stock.

The Killam shares were unofficially valued at $35,000,000 or about 78 per cent of the capital stock of the company.

In April it was reported that a western lawyer had offered $28,000,000 for the

Chapels To Be Built For Belmont Housing

Farmer Construction Ltd. has started work on a $131,624 Department of Defence Production contract to build two chapels for the Belmont Park area.

Excavation for foundations is now under way, and it is expected the two chapels will be completed early in 1957.

One will be for the use of Roman Catholic worshippers, the other for Protestants. Each will seat 288.

Built to a standard tri-service design, prepared by the defence department, they are 42 feet wide by 97 feet over-all. The Catholic chapel will have living quarters adjoining for the padre; this area in the Protestant chapel will be used for a meeting room.

The RC chapel is being built behind the John Stubbs School; the Protestant near Rodd Hill.

Contract for furnishing the two has yet to be awarded.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE of the 1956 Community Chest has named Hector Alexander, Victoria Press advertising director, as vice-chairman. Mr. Alexander has served on the committee for three years. The campaign opens in October under chairmanship of Harry Gladwell.

WINDS SEEN POSTPONING STRAIT BIDS

Possibility exists that the two swim attempts on Juan de Fuca early Saturday will be washed, or rather blown, out.

Early morning wind predictions are for 15 to 20 miles per hour.

Slated to go from Clover Point at 4 a.m. was chef Ben Laughren and from the breakwater at 6 a.m. Saanich surveyor Bill Muir.

Decision on whether or not to make the attempt—Ben's fourth this year and Muir's second—will not be made until later in the day.

"We just can't find out until tonight about the weather," Muir said.

He'll be accompanied by the vessel Wensue run by Bud Phillips, and trainer Dave Ridout. Laughren will be accompanied by Maury Wilkinson's Meota and trainer Ove Witt.

In other swim developments, Toronto municipal employee Ted Simmons, 24, is en route here with coach Steve Mellors to take a crack at the strait from this side.

He's expected to arrive here Sunday.

Law Student Wins Times Scholarship

University of B.C. student Stanley Martin Beck, 1108 West 50th, Vancouver, was announced first winner today of Victoria Daily Times $100 writing prize for his work as editor of the campus newspaper last session.

Now working as a reporter for the Vancouver Herald, Beck was picked because his writing "shows a great deal of maturity and he has made a fine contribution over the year to the Ubyssey," judges said.

Although announcement that the prize would be offered came late in the spring term, about 15 entries were received from interested students.

Material submitted was not written with the object of competition in mind.

Beck plans to enter the university faculty of law.

MAGAZINE WORK

He was a member of the Ubyssey staff for several years before chosen editor-in-chief last year, and also was active in establishment of the literary magazine Raven.

His submissions for the award were in the form of editorials written for the Ubyssey.

The prize will be awarded annually to a student qualifying, and is to encourage fresh, original, creative writing which shows promise of development.

To be eligible, a student must be proceeding toward a degree.

His submission must have been written for publication during the year in the field of mass-media, including the student newspaper and magazines.

New Appointment For Gilbert Hogg

Legislative counsel here since 1951, Gilbert Pitcairn Hogg has been appointed assistant deputy attorney-general, Attorney-General Robert Bonner announced today.

Ogden Pt. Docks Bustling As 6 Ships Work

The "waiting room only" sign was out briefly at Ogden Point today, with five ships working and one waiting for space.

All fourth berths for lumber ships were occupied, a ship was loading grain at Victoria Elevator Ltd. dock, and the sixth ship was moored at Victoria Machinery Depot's outer wharf waiting her turn to load wheat.

The waiting ship, Ss. Usa Maru, shifted berth shortly before noon after her predecessor at the grain spouts, Ss. Bougainville, finished loading.

Others working at the Point today were: Agios Spyridon, Abbedyk, Neride, and Basil II. All but Neride and Asu Maru are expected to finish loading before Saturday morning, but three more freighters are due over the weekend.

Top RCN Nurse Here Next Week

Head of the RCN nursing service, Lieut.-Cmdr. (Medical Nurse) Mary E. Nesbitt will visit Victoria and Esquimalt next week.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Nesbitt will be at HMCS Malahat from June 14 to 18, and will also inspect HMCS Naden hospital.

At Malahat, she will interview prospective nursing officer applicants for the RCN.

Music, Films For Lunch Hour Urged at Library

Lunch-time programs of music and educational films soon may be a daily attraction at Victoria Public Library.

Board member Capt. D. J. Proudfoot said today he will propose 12 noon to 2 p.m. daily free entertainment at the next library board meeting.

He said the programs, which have already been unofficially approved by board members he has spoken to, will be geared to suit office and clerical workers who have time to spare during their lunch breaks.

Presentations will be informal and visitors will be able to come and go as they please.

Capt. Proudfoot would like to see the programs carried out as an annual event during the period from May to September.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

One of the things I have always believed in is the absolute accuracy of that renowned news-gathering agency, The Canadian Press.

Thus you can understand why I was quick to spring into action when the following bulletin came in on the teletype yesterday:

"VANCOUVER (CP)—Four Royal Canadian Navy ships will participate in Seattle's 'Seafair' this summer.

"The vessels, HMCS Naden, HMCS Brockville, HMCS Digby and HMCS Oshawa, will be in the Washington port Aug. 3-5."

As soon as I read this electrifying news, I telephoned Commodore Patrick Budge, officer commanding HMCS Naden, and requested permission to come aboard and travel with the ship when she sailed for Seattle.

In his usual gracious manner, Commodore Budge said he would be glad to grant permission.

"We will do our best to make you comfortable," he said. "And at least," he added, "I doubt if you will be seasick."

So I can hardly wait for the great day, when HMCS Naden sails majestically down Puget Sound.

If only we could arrange for a suitable escort fleet, including, of course, HMC Ships Malahat and Venture.

But I suppose that would leave too many bare patches in the local landscape.

I have been meaning to tell you about the bright saying of Geoff Gwynne.

Geoff's bright saying is: "The boss may not always be right, but he is always the boss."

Geoff will go a long way.

Sometimes the constituents frighten me. As you will see, from this letter:

Dear Mr. Roberts:

Your jokes have been of very poor calibre lately so here is an original true story.

Today I went to purchase a cake—a two dollar birthday cake, and when I suggested it was rather expensive I was assured it was of excellent materials and kept well.

Of course, I bought it because who wants a sick cake!

Forever thine,

Cattle Point. Holly Bush.

Holly Bush, you're the berries. And 23 skiddoo to you.

Capt. Frederick Thomas Gillespie, command technical officer on the staff of the flag officer, Pacific Coast, has been appointed deputy electrical engineer-in-chief at naval headquarters, it was announced in Ottawa today.

Belle Jones, Victoria, was sentenced to a total of eight months in jail on four theft convictions involving about $160 when she appeared in city court today.

Thefts occurred between Feb. 21 and April 5, while she occupied a position of trust for her employer, from whom the money was taken.

Two four-month sentences will be concurrent, the others, also four months each, will be served non-concurrently.

Magistrate H. C. Hall directed that restitution be made.

A $250 fine or 20 days in jail and suspension of driver's licence was set against James Lafferty, 1014 Empress, in city court today on conviction for being in control of a car while impaired.

Police found him May 31 slouched over the steering wheel of his car, which was parked across the east entrance to Clover Point. He smelled strongly of liquor.

Application for reinstitution of his licence will be considered in six months, Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

FACIAL FLORA FOR SAANICH COUNCILLORS

Saanich councillors are going to grow beards.

All but one Saanich councillor have agreed to "cultivate" their whiskers in a contest marking the municipality's 50th anniversary celebrations to be held at Beaver-Elk Lake Park on Labor Day.

The only exception is George Austin, veteran councillor.

He is cool to the idea: "If I grow a beard it will be a false one," he said. "No, no, I definitely won't."

The suggestion that members of the council grow whiskers was made by Coun. Ronald Grant at a parks committee meeting which met Thursday to discuss a program for the celebrations.

"As the youngest member of the council I feel I can grow the biggest beard," he challenged. "The only thing I'm worrying about is how to explain to the judges in court that I'm growing whiskers." (Mr. Grant is a lawyer.)

Reeve Arthur Ash said he will grow a beard:

"I'm a little doubtful, however, if I can grow more hair than I have on my head," he said, rubbing a balding pate.

Nursing Team From Oak Bay Best in Canada

A competition team from Oak Bay Nursing Division No. 176, Victoria Nursing Corps of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, today was declared winner of the Lady Drummond trophy for the best home nursing team in Canada.

Results were announced in Ottawa today.

The team was given the same problem as those in other centres across Canada, all of which were graded by Miss Mary Acland, chief nursing officer of the brigade for Canada. Team members were Mrs. Gladys Murphy, captain; Mrs. H. R. McDonald, Miss Thelma Hopkins, Mrs. Eileen Hopwood, Mrs. Rose Howard.

Mid-July Date To Order Steel For New Bridge

Pt. Ellice Span Final Plans Soon

Detailed designs for the new $500,000 Point Ellice Bridge will be complete by July 15 and orders for steel will be placed at that time.

Consulting and designing engineer A. B. Sanderson met with city engineer J. C. Garnett today and delivered a preliminary report. He said he anticipates final cost will be within the $500,000 figure set earlier.

Front and side elevations of the bridge were presented to the engineer. They show clearly the 4.3 per cent grade leading to the bridge, due to its increased height, will start at Pleasant Street. This necessitates construction of a new entrance from Bay Street to Victoria Machinery Depot yards via a ramp running off the roadway, and parallel to it.

WATER MAIN

"Time of construction will be governed by the availability of steel and the fact that a 32-inch water main crossing the bridge cannot be shut down in summer months," the engineer said. He repeated his earlier assumption that construction will get under way early in 1957 and might be completed by Easter.

The city engineer and the designer agreed local contractors have men and equipment suited to the construction. Contract will be decided by tender.

The new bridge will be 36 feet above high water, 12 feet higher than the present span. There will be a concrete roadway a car-width wider than at present and there will be no overhead steel except for lamp standards. Rails have a gentle inward curve making them almost impossible for children to climb.

Money Stolen In Break-Ins At Union Offices

Burglaries occurred overnight Wednesday at union offices at Canadian Congress of Labor Hall, 715 Johnson, and a total of $33 was stolen, police report.

Door of machinists' union was forced, along with a filing cabinet containing $20. International Woodworkers of America office lost $11 in the same way and offices occupied by shipwrights and railway employees unions were entered but had nothing stolen.

Machinists' union office has been entered several times and cash stolen.

An electric dash board clock was stolen from a car parked in front of C and C Taxi office, Government, Thursday afternoon about 4.

Eric Adair, 20 Menzies, reported he was away from the car only 10 minutes and returned to find the clock gone.

CHEQUE FOR $500 was presented by firm and employees of Victoria Press Ltd. to Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign this week. Brigadier Clifford Milley received donation from employees' representative, Mrs. Sylvia Jones. Staff raised $300 and firm donated balance. At noon today a total of $31,964 of a $38,000 objective was on hand.

PICTURESQUE PATTER

New Zealand PM Interview Expert

By TONY DICKASON

"There's a reason you're so tall," Prime Minister Sidney Holland of New Zealand told us Thursday at Government House, "someone's been pulling your leg."

The ebullient chief executive was reacting to the dizzy suggestion some native Maori families had at least 30 children each.

"Thirty children each?" said the PM, drawing in his breath. "If that is so the news hasn't reached me."

At a press conference he made reporters immediately at ease. Entering the flower-decked lounge the dapper gentleman said "Sit down, and be as comfortable as you can."

He then explained that the average Maori family has from seven to 10 children each.

Mr. Holland has headed the National Party since 1949, which, he admitted, "has been called many names." He didn't specify what names.

It was suggested that with heavy unionism in New Zealand —everyone must belong to a union — you'd have to pay to blow your nose.

"We have industrial harmony," he said, "and getting back to your point there are no taxes for blowing your nose."

He defined socialism as state ownership of the means of production, so government handouts could not be construed as meaning the government was socialist.

The prime minister flattered the small group around him.

"You are asking more intelligent questions than I get at the usual press conference."

At too many conferences, he indicated, reporters just stood around with bare faces hanging out wondering what to ask, and when they did ask, questions were pointless.

Mr. Holland's reaction to this type of thing was "I'm too long in the tooth for that."

He'll be attending the prime ministers conference in London later this month.

Asked what his problems to be presented there were, he answered with a conundrum, sort of.

"I know more than you know about what I know."

This stopped further questions along this line, quite effectively.

Any uranium finds in New Zealand?

"I'm not open to tell you."

The prime minister seems a relaxed, happy and extremely pleasant man.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you kindly tell me if there was a song published called "When It's Time to Shear the Sheep in Old Wyoming"? —A.C.

A.—The large dealers in records in Victoria and the Victoria Music Centre, which deals in sheet music state they have no listing of that song, though they are not prepared to state there was no such song. Certainly the title seems to indicate it had nothing of a classical nature.

Q.—Where is Sugar Loaf Reef?—W.T.M.

A.—It is near Cape Mendocino, California, north of San Francisco. It had a place in the news columns of the papers when the steamship Bear went aground there 60 years ago.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Locally-Grown Products Are Filling City Markets

By PENNY SAVER

Vancouver Island soil is producing summer foods, and local markets are gradually being filled with locally-grown fruit and vegetables. Soon, almost everything on the markets will boast a "locally-grown" sign. Lettuce in various sizes costs 10, 15 and 20 cents a head, while celery is 20 cents a stalk. Two bunches of beets will cost you a quarter. To team with new potatoes and a smooth cream, local green peas are 30 cents a pound. Spinach is selling at 25 cents for two pounds, and cucumbers are 25 cents each.

Of course, there are still many things that are imported. New potatoes are three pounds for 25 cents, and new carrots are two bunches for 25 cents. Asparagus ranges from 29 to 32 cents a pound, and new green beans are 42 cents a pound. Cauliflower, frothy and white, is 29 cents a head. Radishes and green onions are the same price, two bunches for 15 cents. Dessert tomatoes are 25 cents a pound. For a quarter, you can buy three cobs of corn, that are always welcomed at any meal. Spring cabbage is 15 cents a head.

Strawberries are gradually dropping in price and are now at 35 cents for locally grown berries. Bing cherries are two prices: 59 cents a pound, and 29 cents for a half pound. The latter ones are California fruit. Seedless grapes, sweet and tasty are 28 cents a half pound. Fresh pineapple from the southern isles are just 39 cents each. California peaches are three for a quarter, and plums are 38 cents a pound. Gooseberries for pies or jellies, are two pounds for 39 cents. Watermelon, a summertime refresher, is 11 cents a pound, and cantaloupes are 29 and 32 cents each.

For an interesting sweet, try chocolate-covered ginger, that sells at 90 cents a box. English toffee in little round tins that make thoughtful wee gifts, are 25 cents. The tins are useful, too. Candy stick lollypops of striped peppermint will tickle the youngsters. They're five cents each or five for 24 cents. Fruit suckers in bundles of six are a nickel, and five bundles are 24 cents.

AS WE LIVE

Quick Decisions Are Hazardous

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Making a decision that can affect the whole course of a person's life should be done slowly and deliberately.

(Q) "Our daughter, who is just 19 years old, met a young man last June and became serious about him before the month was over. He went to another community to work early in July and she has seen him just once since then, when he was with his family at Christmas time. She writes to him every day and he calls her by phone once a week. They want to be married this summer, when he gets his vacation. I feel that she does not know him well enough to marry him now but she seems so sure of herself, of him, and that their marriage will be a success that I wonder if I am being old-fashioned by wanting them to wait before they take such an important step. My husband agrees with me but our daughter won't listen to us."

Hurlock

MRS. S. W. T.

(A) You and your husband are being "old-fashioned" and conservative, but you are certainly right. Your daughter is making the most serious decision of her whole life on the basis of a snap judgment and this she may bitterly regret some day.

Of course she is "sure" of herself. Youth usually is. Like most young and inexperienced people, she can see only what she wants to see in any situation and she does not see the pitfalls that may be lying right before her nose.

The more you oppose her, by taking a negative attitude toward the marriage, the more sure she will be that she is right and that you are just being old-fashioned. This will drive her to do the very thing you are trying to prevent.

Instead of this approach, try to convince her that you are satisfied that she can make a success of her marriage if she herself is satisfied. Then get her to explain why she is so sure things will work out so successfully. As she tries to explain this to you, she will have to face the matter realistically and this may break down some of her cocksureness and lead to greater caution.

ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY AT 'RIFFINGTON'

East District Guides and Brownies will hold their annual garden party on Saturday at "Riffington", the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wallace, 3175 Beach Drive. Area commissioner Mrs. F. W. Midgley will open the affair at 2.30 p.m. Among guides who will be on hand to assist the many visitors will be, left to right, Wendy Payne, Robyn McGowan, Trenise Robinson, dressed as the "Lady With a Thousand Pockets", and Susan McPherson. Afternoon tea will be served from the cabana near the beach and and there will be stalls of home cooking, aprons, candy, driftwood planters, white elephant, popcorn, used clothes, plants, a fish pond, games of chance, novelty dolls and raffles. Proceeds will go toward a new guide hall.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

19-Year-Old Loves to Swim But She's Ashamed of Legs

Q.—"I need your help badly. I am only 19 years old but my upper legs have unsightly broken capillaries. I am too embarrassed to wear a bathing suit and I love to swim. I wouldn't dare show my legs. Last summer I stayed at home all of the time because of this. All of my friends were going swimming. This summer I would like to have some fun while I am young."

A.—You certainly have the right idea about having fun and you are being very foolish to let some defect as small as those little red lines ruin it.

I do not imagine that these are as bad as you think. They seldom are at your age. However, you can have them removed. Ask your doctor about this. Also you can use one of the waterproof make-up cosmetics now on the market. Go ahead and enjoy yourself!

Q.—"What can I do for hang nails?"

A.—You will have to cut them off but afterwards try to avoid cutting by giving the cuticle proper care. Several times a week push the cuticle back from the nail gently. Use an orange stick tipped with a bit of cotton which has been dipped in cuticle oil. Then each night massage oil or cuticle cream into the skin about your nails. Wear gloves when doing rough work.

Q.—"I am a man of 30. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. I am in good health but stay at that weight. I have a good appetite but my work calls for a good deal of physical effort. What can I do to put on some weight?"

A.—You did not mention your build. A lot of difference in poundage is allowed for different skeletal structures. If you have a small bony structure you are really not underweight. If you have a medium frame you should weigh around 140 pounds. If you have an extremely heavy frame you can add another 15 pounds.

Try adding a mid-morning glass of milk and a mid-afternoon glass of orange juice and a snack before retiring. This can be milk and cheese and crackers, ice cream or fresh fruit and milk or a bowl of soup and crackers—a light little meal of some sort.

Also swim this summer and relax and get plenty of sleep. Vitamin deficiency is one reason for underweight. Be sure that your meals are well balanced with plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables even though these are not high in calorie count. They are high in vitamin content.

The vitamin B family has been found helpful in putting the pounds on. Ask your doctor about this.

Strawberry Vale — Mrs. E. Webster will lead a panel on pre-primary schools at a meeting of Strawberry Vale PTA next Wednesday at 8 p.m. She will be assisted by Mrs. B. Agnew, Mrs. J. Jowett and Miss E. Thompson. There will be a display by the children. Parents of pre-primary children have been invited.

A CAC Fact

Did you know that two sheets the same size may be marked in two different ways so that the shopper may think one is many inches longer than the other? In one case the finished length is marked after hemming, in the other, the torn length, before hemming. This can be very mis-leading when you are comparing prices, so the Canadian Association of Consumers is supporting a request to have one uniform marking for length and width of sheets and pillow cases.

Women in Employment

Miss Eleanor S. Morley, Vancouver regional co-ordinator of women's employment in the National Employment Service, will be guest speaker at meeting of the Local Council of Women on Monday at 2 p.m., in the music room at the Public Library. Her subject will be "Women In Employment."

BEFORE THE JUDGE

By SILENUS

Change and Decay

THE PEN, so they say, is mightier than the sword. Whether or no the originator of this ambiguous remark had in mind the partisan pen of the lawyer and the impartial sword of justice I am not prepared to say, but if the pens which the Court House library provides for the use of the profession are any indication, justice in Victoria flourishes in all its immaculate grandeur.

They are splendid pens; such pens as become the antiquated and inconvenient bulding which they adorn. The nibs are crossed or broken; they sputter and produce blots, and even draw profanity from the studious barristers who are occasionally forced to use them; for the library's inkpot is so designed that no fountain pen can enter it.

It is a solemn thought that fully half the population of the country has grown to manhood without ever experiencing the frustration and fury produced by the Public Pen. Once upon a time banks, railways and other public institutions provided writing instruments for their customers which were celebrated in song and story. They were responsible for such fruitful subjects of litigation as mistakes in contracts, illegible endorsements, assaults and batteries and even nervous shock.

* * *

They were designed for the fine Italian hand of shipping clerks and the scriveners of such documents as letters patent and papal bulls; in the hand of the general public they were intractable, perverse and inky, a mute demonstration of the natural depravity of inanimate things which our fathers took for granted. All, all are gone, the old familiar faces! And now there is hardly a counter to be found where the bland and soulless ball point does not reign supreme.

It is only in circles where a proper respect is paid to tradition that one can find such relics of bygone splendor still in use. Lawyers are notorious for their old-fashioned notions—they are in favor of such quaint anachronisms as liberty, ability and the supremacy of the individual. It goes without saying that they cherish the symbols of these vanishing virtues — and among these symbols is the scratchy pen which only the strong and virile can master.

The Victoria Court House, administered as it is by the Department of Public Works, has suffered several reforms in the last few years. The conversion from brass to pottery spittoons, for instance, was forced upon the profession and public for no good reason that I could see. At the moment threats are being made against the elevator, a thoroughly dignified, if venerable piece of machinery, and the Court House seagull, who usually knows what he is talking about, says there is talk of removing the knob from the flagpole top. It is enough to sadden the most callous iconoclast.

But in the Library, owned and operated by the lawyers, change for its own sake is very properly regarded with suspicion. The last goose-quill pen disappeared from the Court of Appeal some years ago, but was preserved, I understand, in the Library where it gave good service until the moths finally took over. The present pen nibs were then installed, and no doubt will remain until either rust doth corrupt or thieves break in and steal. And this is as it should be.

The pen, after all, has a noble purpose. As the vehicle of legal thought (which is full of important consequences to people and accordingly expensive) it should be an instrument of note in its own "write." An opinion hastily dashed off with pencil or ball point may impress the superficial, but experienced litigants know value when they see it. Splutters, smudges and blots on a rough draft tell them a story of care, pains, time and trouble.

Long may the pens stay, and the sword of justice remain supreme.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Changes in Old London

LONDON—I mentioned the other day that there is now so much building activity in London that any transplanted English person living in Canada who returned for a visit would be amazed at the changing face of London.

Mrs. Muriel Parsons, Glencairn avenue, Toronto, has dropped me a line asking me to be specific about some of the changes.

Reyburn

Of course, in her case, as with others who migrated to Canada between the wars, she would see a vastly different London if she came here now.

Two things such returning Londoners would notice immediately are no trams and no railings. London's double-decker streetcars have all been ditched and there are no evidences on the roadways that they ever existed.

* * *

The railings in front of city properties and around parks—thousands of miles of iron railings—used to be a characteristic of the London scene. But they were taken for scrap metal during World War II and have never been replaced.

Regent's Park and other parks are now surrounded by chicken-wire fences instead of railings.

Frascatt's famous Oxford street restaurant that had its heyday in Edwardian times, has been demolished and replaced by an office building.

Druce's on Baker street was one of London's most famous department stores. War bombs wiped it out and for years the site has been used as a storage dump for the navy. Now a whooping great building is nearing completion there.

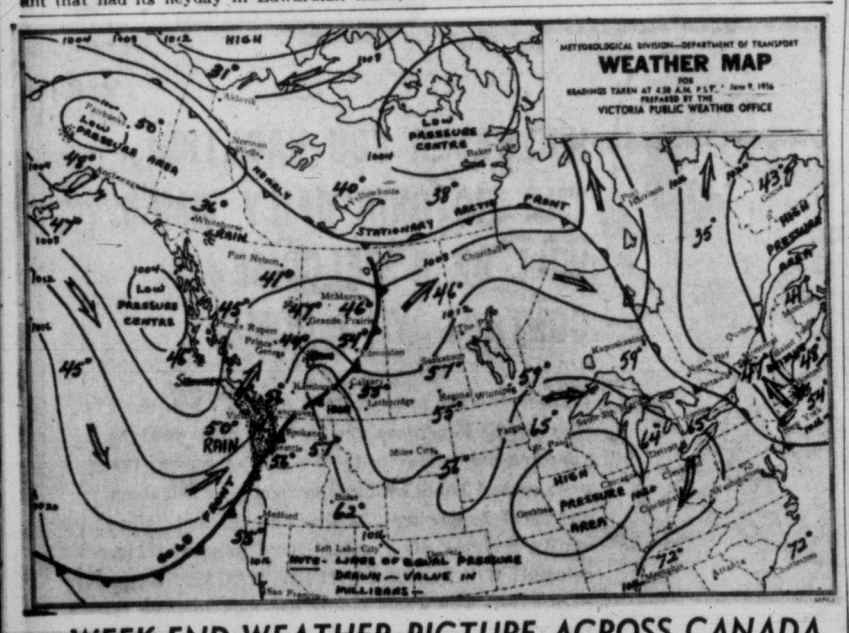
London's new American-style hotel — the Westbury—stands unattractively on a Bond street corner over the road from the new Time and Life edifice.

The cinema called the Marble Arch Pavilion, where many a Canadian soldier and his lady love had a couple of bobs' worth of dark during the war, is now merely hoardings with an office building going up behind.

Another famous London cinema, the New Gallery, no longer shows Hollywood hits—a church organization has taken it over for meetings and religious films.

Londoners now don't only stop for tea. Equally popular is dropping into one of the hundreds of espresso coffee houses dotted throughout the city, espresso coffee (an Italian idea) is aerated coffee produced from a thing like a juke box and sipping this concoction while munching Continental layer cakes is the thing to do in London these days.

Today when you go into what was once a famous London tearoom — Lyons Corner House on Coventry street—you would think you were in Canada or the States. Its ground floor has been renamed The Wimpy and at horseshoe counters you can have hamburgers and milk shakes in true U.S. style.



WEEK-END WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—The weather system which dumped 1.22 inches of rain on Vancouver in the past 24 hours is moving slowly eastward. A trough of low pressure still remains off Vancouver Island and this will send cool, moist air our way for the next two days. Thus the weekend weather is' expected to be cloudy with some periods of showers.

A WEBSTER CLASSIC

Rock 'n' Roll Socks 'Em In

A phenomenon entitled rock 'n' roll scatted into Victoria Friday.

Approximately 300 people who want to see alligators later, in not-so-solemn conclave assembled in the Victoria ballroom.

There "living dolls" scuffed around to the persistent beat with panting partners.

The crowd was well-behaved. Young Victorians Lloyd Orchard, Bruce Finlayson and Gary Abbott staged the "blue suede shoes" affair.

A repeat performance will be held in the ballroom June 22.

It also promises to be "the utter end."

FATHER, SEVEN VICTIMS BURIED

Could Friends Have Helped Prevent Clark Family Tragedy?

ERSKINE, Alta. (CP)—Dry-eyed neighbors and friends of the John Clark family attended an open-air grave-side service Friday to pay last respects to the family and the former Social Credit MLA who shot his wife and four children, a hired man and a visitor to his farm last Sunday, then killed himself.

A crowd of more than 800 packed the grassy churchyard beside the small, white United church the Clarks had attended at Liberal, 15 miles northwest of Stettler and two miles from the Clark home where seven bodies were discovered.

John Clark, 41; his wife Margaret, 36; and their four children, Jenena, 8; Ross, 7; Anne, 5, and Linda, 4; were buried in the Clark family plot beside the church, beside his parents who homesteaded in the area more than 50 years ago.

Funeral services were held in Edmonton Thursday for George Anderson, 19, of McLennan, Alta., who had worked as the Clarks' hired man. Burial of sailor Bill Olah, 30, visiting the Clark family while on leave from the navy, took place at his hometown of Medicine Hat.

Each of the seven persons found in the Clark home was shot in the head

Choked with emotion, Rev. A. E. Morrison reminded the people of the "love and respect they held for their friend Jack Clark and his whole family."

He said everyone might have helped ease the "dreadful and confining tangle of mystery and loneliness," which drove Clark to the "great error" of taking the life of his family and himself.

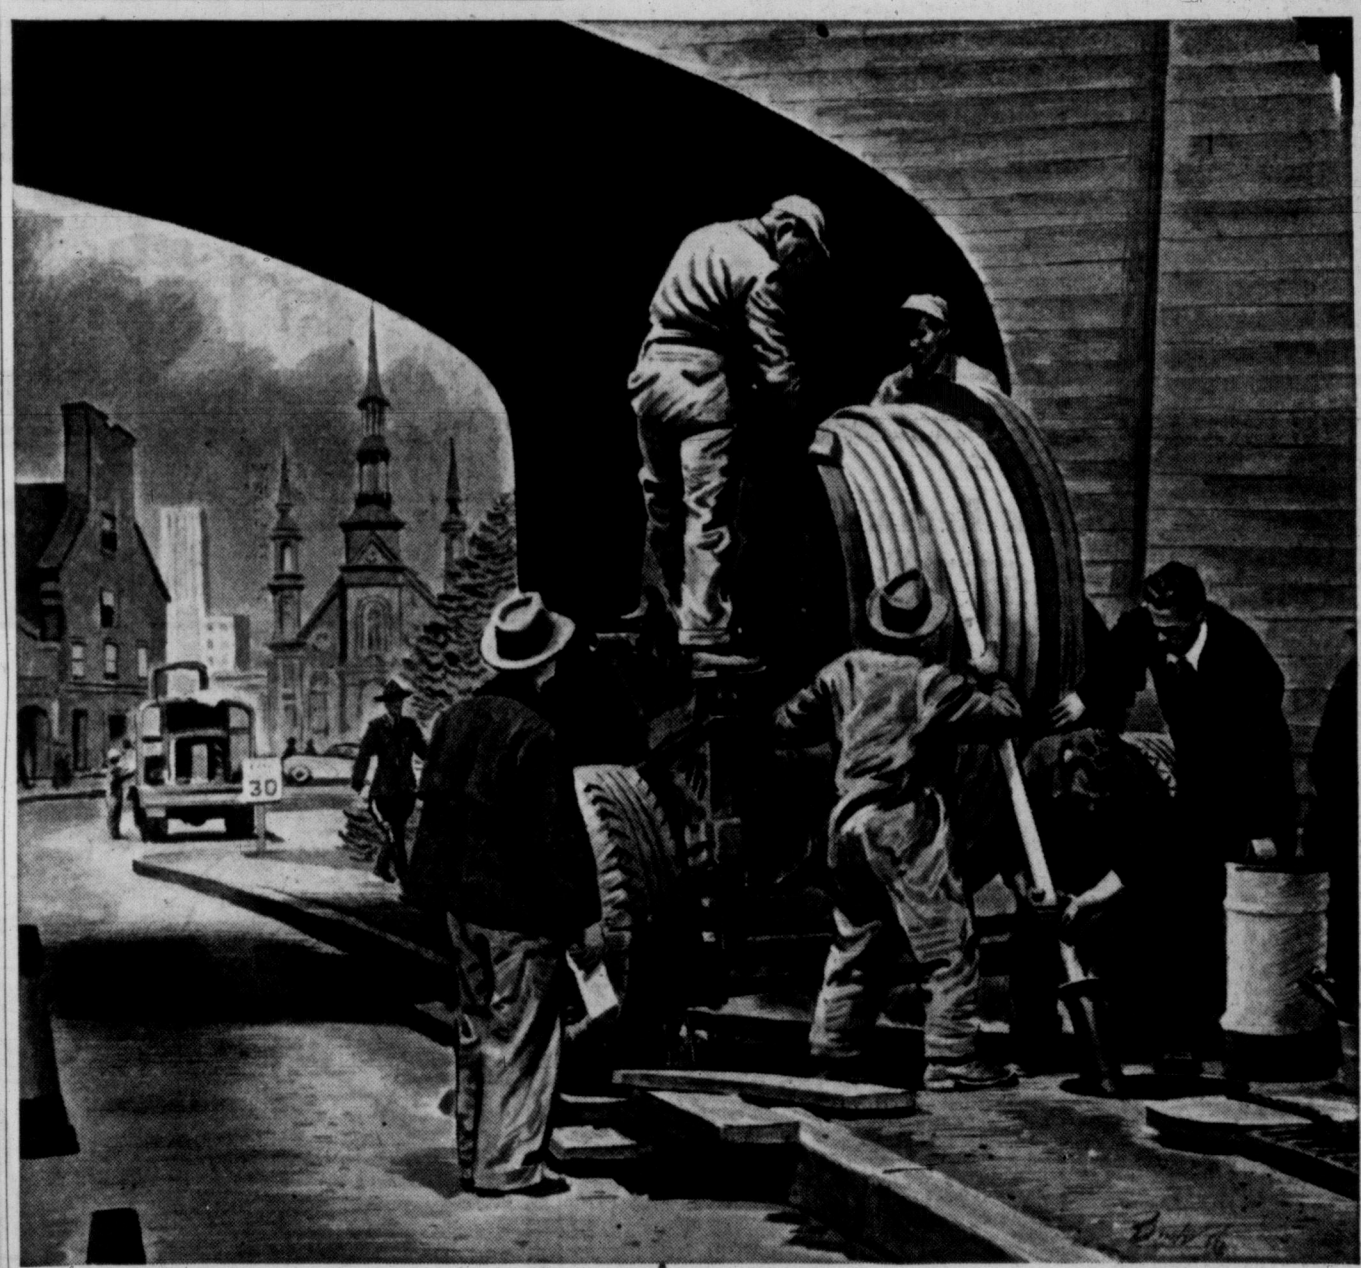
Inco Metals at Work in Canada



Workmen installing a cable that carries electricity underground. Hundreds of thousands of miles of wire and cable made from Inco copper go into the power cables, transformers and other equipment used for distributing electricity in Canada. Nearly half of the copper used in Canadian power cables comes from Inco.

Cables made from INCO COPPER help bring you electricity . . . and provide jobs for Canadians

It takes thousands of miles of power cable to carry all the electricity Canadians use. And nearly half of the copper used in Canada's power cables comes from Inco. Through all the processing operations, this copper stays in Canada to help provide employment for Canadian men and women.

1. At Inco, Canadian workmen mine, mill, smelt and refine the ore. About 18,000 people are employed by Inco in Canada.
2. Refined copper is used in Canada for the manufacture of wire and cable. Several thousand more people are employed in this work.
3. The copper wire and cable goes to power companies where it is installed by Canadian workmen.

From Inco copper, Canadian industries manufacture hundreds of useful products—thus helping provide employment for many thousands of men and women in Canada.

BOOK TALK

Lester B. Pearson as Author Adds Lustre to Reputation

By JAMES SCOTT

A book which quietly stepped on to the Bookland scene, with no fanfare, no publisher's hoopla or trumped-up acclaim, now looks as if it might steal the spotlight for the season from all other Canadian publications.

Lester B. Pearson's Democracy in World Politics is not a "political" book in the narrow, partisan sense of the word. It is a book written by a good student of world affairs and the fact that the author is Canada's Minister for External Affairs is only incidental. The sagacity which has won high praise for Democracy in World Politics is a scholar's wisdom.

For example, Le Monde, influential Paris journal recently devoted a 1,500 word review to Mr. Pearson's book although it has not yet been translated into French. Moreover, the 1,500 words were all good, not just for author Pearson but also for Canada.

Scott

Le Monde described the book as "a self-portrait of an authentic democrat dedicated to the diplomatic conduct of a nation which plays an increasingly important role on the world scene" and said the book reveals "the high ambitions and hopes of a nation which, though young, is filled with rich experience which it places generously at the service of world peace."

For my money, these are just about the nicest words I have seen written about Canada for a long, long time. Any book which can produce this kind of accolade for our nation is a book which is good for this land.

It is also a book which the inhabitants of this land ought to read.

Quite another species of fish is another "political" book which has just rolled off the presses. This one cannot be confused with an objective approach.

Merlo J. Pusey's "Eisenhower, the President" is obviously, if not frankly, an election-year biography designed to promote "we like Ike."

For all the protests that this book is "an indispensable guide for all those who want a perspective on what has been done in Washington since January, 1953," this remains a piece of election propaganda. This does not, of course, necessarily imply that it is bad reading. Actually, it is sharp and brisk commentary on the recent American political scene. But the perspective we are all supposed to want is definitely from the Eisenhower corner and one thing sure, this book will do Ike no harm come next November.

All this makes a reader wonder just what the publishers take him for. We have always had books which were used, frankly and openly, for propaganda purposes and many of them have been remarkably successful, but it is only in recent times, as far as I know, that it has become a recognized "must" for all candidates for the U.S. presidency to have at least one volume in hard covers appear about them before each election.

Who says that the reading of books has lost its power?

ON DOWN-GRADE

Just the same, in the U.S.A. some figures recently released seem to indicate that reading is falling off at an alarming pace. In 1937, the Institute of Public Opinion conducted a nation-wide poll and discovered that 29 per cent of the population was engaged in reading a book at the time when they were polled.

Repeating the same survey recently, the figure had dropped to 17 per cent. In Britain it was discovered to be 55 per cent. I have seen no figures for Canada, but would guess we are a lot closer to our U.S. neighbors than to our British cousins.

However, the same poll discovered, a couple of months ago, that Canadians outspell their U.S. adult counterparts 66 to 49. This may mean—and I hope it does—that we are slightly more literate and that the reading trend here is not quite so alarming as in the U.S.A.

It's a straw to cling to anyway.

Folklore Practices Reviewed

LOS ANGELES (UP) — A comprehensive book on American folklore is being completed here by Dr. Wayland Hand, a folklore scholar on the University of California campus.

The book reviews many old superstitions and practices which, Hand said, originated mostly in Europe, but some of which have taken on a peculiar American twist.

The throwing of old shoes at newlyweds, for example, embodies ancient beliefs in the shoe as a symbol of fertility. Hand said that articles of clothing have always played a prominent role in superstitions involving relationships between man and wife.

For example, the folk notion still is current in some isolated parts of North Carolina that if a girl puts on a boy's hat, it's a sign she wants to kiss him. In many states, it is a folk ritual to burn the father's hat after his first born child is born. This is believed to insure the child a good healthy start in life.

Book Reminisces on Style Of Early U.S. Journalism

HENRY WATTERSON, UNRECONSTRUCTED REBEL by Joseph Frazier Wall, Oxford Press, Toronto.

Serious students of history now have an important new account of the political-economic events from the Civil War through First World War in Henry Watterson, Unreconstructed Rebel.

Joseph Frazier Wall, chairman of Grinell College's history department, has presented the irascible individualist Marse Henry in all his great editorial strength and human weakness. But Wall's document is more than a biography of the last of the thundering editors. It also is a discerning study of a type of journalism that has gone.

FROM TENNESSEE

Watterson, son of a Tennessee congressman, was on the American political scene from the death of John Quincy Adams, which he witnessed as an eight-year-old visitor to the Senate, until the collapse of President Wilson.

And how very much on the scene he was. Southern-born but a despiser of slavery and a believer in union forever, he unhesitantingly shouldered Confederate arms when the break came. Yet his perhaps was the most potent voice for reconciliation after the war.

RIGHT VEHICLE

The Louisville, Ky., Journal, later and now the Courier-Journal, was a perfect vehicle in its border locality—gateway to the Old South and tied economically to the growing west—for this courageous spokesman for a new United America.

In a sense, this new study also is the history of the Democratic party, as seen through the eyes of its most unpredictable journalistic supporter.

For Marse Henry didn't, as do modern-day journalists, reflect history. Watterson made it. His editorials and his personal participation had much to do with the shape of things that came.

Wall's fine contribution will not find a ready audience among those who read for pleasure. It's a scholarly treatise, outstanding in research and unembellished in presentation . . .

Fiction Autobiography Of an Irritating Hero

(Reviewed by Wyndham Thomas)

LET US ALONE, by John Fisher. Published by William Heinemann Ltd., for British Book Service (Canada) Ltd., Kingswood House, 1068 Broadview Avenue, Toronto 6, Ont. 256 Pages, $3.25.

John Fisher's latest novel, "Let Us Alone," is set in the period just prior to, during, and just after the annexation of Hawaii by the United States.

It has a leisurely pace, as might be expected, and, except for the mosquitoes, depicts the Hawaii of that time as an early Shangri La, inhabited by the conventional Hawaiians, a sprinkling of missionaries, sugar planters, and various foreign naval personnel and politicians.

The jockeying of the various powers for control of the territory is hinted at, but the annexation itself is passed over by mere reference to it as a "fait accompli."

The book is in fact an autobiography of the hero—Frank Fanning, who is portrayed as a comfortably well-off individual always on the verge of doing something worthwhile, but never quite managing it. His first ambition is to study medicine at Edinburgh, but he hasn't the courage to stand up to his self-centred artist father and insist that he shall.

Instead, he makes a trip to London, Continental Europe, and the Near East. Enroute to England he falls in with a Canadian doctor living in Victoria, whose intention it is to travel through Czarist Siberia to study conditions among the exiled Russian lepers.

LATE DAWNING

Despite hints from the doctor that are easily recognizable by the reader, it is not until they have lost contact with each other that it dawns on the hero that the doctor considered that a young man with no apparent object in life might well be occupied to the benefit of humanity in going along with him to Siberia.

On board ship in the Aegean, Frank meets the girl—visits her and her father in New Zealand, but inexplicably waits until he is back in Hawaii to discover that he loves her.

When he finally summons up enough energy and courage to tell her so, he finds that she has met the doctor and intends to marry him.

DREARY LIAISONS

So it goes on—Frank turns into a dilettante author, achieving a mediocre success with a book on Hawaii and Captain Cook, having a couple of dreary liaisons with half-caste Hawaiians, never finding any purpose in his life until he finally once more runs across the doctor, accompanies him on a trip into the interior of China, and dies.

Frank Fanning is a most irritating and frustrating hero, but I believe that this is the whole point of Mr. Fisher's book. If it is, then he has done a good job, for the normal reader's reaction is to get behind the hero and give him a good hard kick to shake him out of his fears and lethargy.

The descriptions of life in Hawaii are excellent. Mr. Fisher, born in Scotland, was taken to Hawaii in 1907 at the age of eight months, where his father was then a sugar planter. He is widely travelled, and served as an RAF intelligence officer.

The book is pleasant reading, and well-written, but you must be prepared to be irritated by the hero.

Quest for Standards Tale of Roman Pride

THE LOST EAGLES, by Ralph Graves, Alfred A. Knopf, New York, 392 pp.

We picked the book up in early evening and put it down, read, in the tiny hours of the morning.

That's how good it is.

Naughty Augustan Rome is woven into the volume, together with northern Germanic tribes.

Plot is that hero Severus has a self-appointed task: to bring back three lost eagles of the Roman legion after a crushing defeat by the German tribes on the Rhine. A relative of his was responsible for this mortal blow which shook the heart of Rome. The family name of Varus was disgraced, and Severus with it.

The outcast from Roman society trains alone to bring back the eagles, hidden in the faraway reaches of the German marshes. He buys barbarian slaves from the arena; learns from them the German language and German use of arms.

His quest for the standards leads him to remote strongholds of northern tribes and to furious encounters in which courage and endurance are put to savage tests.

While the subject matter itself is fascinating, the excellently documented background and fine descriptive writing make reading a pleasure, altogether apart from the plot itself.

It's a book one feels one has lived through after reading.—T.D.

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

Word has been received by Mr. Peare, vice-president of the Canadian Philatelic Society, now a resident of Victoria, that this city is almost certain to be chosen for holding the big annual philatelic exhibition for 1958. This event, which is virtually Canada's national stamp show, has never been held west of Winnipeg, so far.

The deciding factor in choosing this city for the honor was the fact that 1958 will also be British Columbia's Centenary year, and that Postmaster-General has promised a special commemorative postage stamp to mark occasion, which will have a design which will symbolize founding of the Colony in 1858.

It is the intention of the C.P.S. exhibition committee to time the show so that it will coincide with the first day of the stamp's issue. This alone will give the stamp exhibition world-wide publicity. It is usual in such cases for the Post Office to arrange for a special cancellation which can be used on all mail bearing the new stamp.

Several prominent collectors have already promised to exhibit and to attend the show, and no doubt there will be a heavy influx of philatelists, with their wives, from all over the western part of Canada, not to mention a delegation from Toronto and other eastern points, headed by Louis M. Lamouroux.

Our two local clubs, Vancouver Island Philatelic Society, and Greater Victoria Philatelic Society, are both affiliated with C.P.S.; in fact Victoria has more members belonging to national society than most other western cities, including Vancouver.

CROSSWORD PRIZE $250; THOUSANDS FAIL AGAIN

It is eight weeks now since a Times' crossworder came up with a completely correct answer to the popular puzzle so the prize for this week climbs to $250.

"Red" was the little word that caused much of the trouble last week. The clue said: "It's nice to contemplate a nice warm ———." Most contestants gave "Bed" as the answer but a warm bed would not always be nice to contemplate—in the tropics, for example. On the other hand a nice warm "red" is truly nice to contemplate. If it were not, you would not refer to it in such pleasing terms.

Complete answer and explanation of last week's puzzle and a new contest for this week appear on Page 29 of today's Times.

Aged Man Killed In Car Crash

Greater Victoria's sixth fatal traffic accident this year occurred shortly before 8 this morning when an elderly Chinese, Wah Pao Lee, 614 Fisgard, was in collision with a car driven by another Chinese at Government and Fisgard.

Police said Lee, about 76, apparently was crossing Government from the northeast to the northwest corner of the intersection as the other driver, 19-year-old Lawrence L. Y. Chan, 864 Pembroke, turned left from Fisgard to go north on Government.

Lee was dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken by police ambulance.

Chan was driving his father's late model car.

Streets were wet and a light rain was falling.

Death, believed to have been almost instant, is thought to have been due to head injuries.

The pedestrian was found lying on Government a few feet north of the east-west crosswalk.

Jackson Has 15½-Lb. Edge For Tonight's Bout

NEW YORK (UP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson had a 15½-pound weight advantage at today's weigh-in when he scaled 193½ to young Floyd Patterson's unexpectedly-light 178 for their heavyweight contenders fight tonight.

(Fight will be televised on Channel 4, KOMO, starting at 7 Victoria time.)

Censure Move Voted Down

OTTAWA (CP) — A motion of censure against Speaker Rene Beaudoin, presented a week ago by Opposition Leader Drew during the stormy pipeline debate, was defeated in the Commons on a vote of 109 to 35.

Prolonged Liberal applause broke out as Speaker Beaudoin, who presided during the taking of the vote, announced in the customary way: "I declare the motion lost."

Liberal and Social Credit parties and Ross Thatcher (Ind. Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) supported the 44-year-old Speaker against the motion declaring he had subordinated the rights of Parliament during the gas pipeline fight.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members voted solidly for the motion.

Test Rained Out

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) — Rain today flooded the cricket field here, forcing postponement of the England-Austria Test match on the second day of play. England Thursday scored 134 for the loss of two wickets.

Four Saskatoon Men Victims of Drowning

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Four prominent Saskatoon men were drowned Thursday in a fishing mishap in Stony narrows in the Lac La Ronge area, 120 miles north of Prince Albert.

The men were Howard Coad, a druggist; Fred Chapman, owner of the Saskatoon Business College; Harold Wright, western sales manager for the Quaker Oats Company, and Hastings Torney, owner of United Brokerage Ltd.

Summer Session Hinted by PM

Asks Opposition Not to Filibuster One Month's Money Bill Due Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition leader Drew, replying to a plea today by Prime Minister St. Laurent that the Opposition permit speedy passage of a bill to replenish the "virtually exhausted" treasury, demanded instead that the prime minister say whether the government plans to adjourn Parliament soon for the summer.

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the government had intended to suggest a summer adjournment.

But what had taken place was "of such a character we will have to reconsider that suggestion.

"I am sorry it is not possible at the present time to make any plans for the future course of the session," he prime minister said.

He said at the opening of today's Commons sitting that the two months' interim supply voted April 1 is "virtually exhausted."

Unless more money was voted by Parliament at an early date, many thousands of persons would be faced with inconvenience and even serious embarrassment.

If the opposition granted one month's interim supply it would in no way prevent it fighting the government as strongly as it wanted later.

Interim supply normally is granted the government periodically while the Commons is in session until all appropriations are approved by the Commons. This enables the government to pay civil servants and members of the armed forces and carry on other essential services.

French Horse Wins

Four Specialists Called to Hospital

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower suffered a "partial obstruction" of the small intestine today and four specialists, including Dr. Paul Dudley, were summoned to the army's Walter Reed Hospital to determine if surgery will be required.

In Boston, Dr. White said there is a "possibility" that surgery may be necessary. He said he is leaving for Washington as soon as possible because the doctors "want me there."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was stricken with abdominal pains early today, and in the afternon was taken by ambulance from the White House to the army's Walter Reed Hospital.

The White House said physicians had diagnosed the trouble as an ileitis—inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine—and that "there is no indication of any heart trouble."

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a cardiogram—a tracing of the heart action—would be taken at the hospital.

An army ambulance was ordered to the south side of the White House to receive the ailing president. It was accompanied fore and aft by a motorcycle escort.

Eisenhower could be seen lying in the ambulance. His hands were folded on his chest.

Reporters could not see whether the president was carried to the ambulance on a stretcher or walked.

White House physician Howard M. Snyder was called to the president's bedside at 2 a.m.

STOCKS FIGHT BACK FROM $6 TUMBLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined sharply on news of President Eisenhower's illness.

Prices fell as much as $3 a share in the initial burst of selling.

The market wilted again and the tape fell behind as much as four minutes when news came that the president was in hospital. Losses stretched to around $6 a share before a recovery drive began in the market's final minutes.

Official White House Statement

At noon, Press Secretary Hagerty isued this statement:

"The president had an attack of ileitis (inflammation of the lower portion of the small intestine).

"As a precautionary measure he is being taken to Walter Reed Hospital this afternoon.

"His blood pressure and pulse are good.

"He has no fever.

"There is no indication of any heart trouble."

Hagerty said the president

$100 Million Loss In Hydro Rockslide

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An earth-shaking rockfall in the Niagara River gorge late Thursday took one life and left the huge Schoellkopf hydro-electric power station in tumbled-down ruins with an estimated loss of $100,000,000.

More than 40 employees of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. scrambled to safety along the precipitous face of the gorge as two of the station's three sections crashed into the wild river rapids behind them.

The rockfall wiped out the producer of 360,000 kilowatt power capacity in little more than a twinkling of an eye. Company officials were appalled by the loss.

Charles J. Wick, administrative vice-president in charge of Niagara Mohawk's western division, made the damage estimate after a preliminary investigation. He said the water was raging through the remaining third of the station, 10-feet deep in places.

But there was no expectation of another rockfall comparable in size in the immediate future, since the gorge above the remaining section is covered to its 220-foot-high lip by a man-made, reinforced masonry wall.

Officials of the Canadian power firm lost no time in offering their services to Niagara Mohawk.

J. Russell McCullough, regional manager of Ontario Hydro, said that more than 230,000 kilowatts was sent to the United States as soon as commission officials learned of the rockfall.

"We just switched all available power over there," he said.

More than 40 persons escaped from the plant before it fell. Two

IS DAT DA PREEM ON DA SCREEN?

Carnera Hasn't Seen Picture He's Suing for $1.5 Million

By an odd coincidence, one of a series, former world heavyweight boxing champion Primo Carnera arrived in Victoria this morning, just as the boxing movie "The Harder They Fall" opened at a Victoria theatre.

Primo and the movie also arrived in Seattle and Vancouver at the same time.

The picture is said to be a sensationalized version of Primo's fabulous arrival on the fight scene when he traveled to the U.S. from a little village in Italy, all 260 pounds of him, and in a blink of a press-agent's eyelash, won the heavyweight title.

The movie version, drawn from Budd Schulberg's novel of the same name, paints a ghastly picture of a South American giant named Toro Molina who is "adopted" by a set of mobsters who exploit his huge body and, in a succession of rigged fights, ballyhoo Molina into a bout with the current champion.

Molina takes a horrible beating at the hands of the champion, who has not been bought off by the gamblers. Molina, a penniless, shattered wreck of a man, is dumped after the mobsters have made a small fortune out of him.

Carnera's lawyer in Los Angeles has filed a $1,500,000 damage suit against the studio releasing the picture, claiming that the plot ridicules Carnera by suggestion and innuendo.

But the funny thing is, Primo has not even seen the picture yet.

Sitting in a downtown hotel room this morning, the massive (6' 6½," 280-pounds) Carnera said, "What about that picture, it doesn't mean anything to me. I haven't seen it yet. Maybe I will go today and see what it is all about.

"If I am suing them, I should see it."

men trapped on the side of the gorge were rescued by a power launch owned by the Maid of the Mist Company.

The men were unable to move from their perch on the gorge as searing flames from the wrecked plant cut off one route and a bridge abutment sealed off the other. The men were directly below the power station.

The launch set out from the Canadian side and noticed the plight of the two men as it searched the river.

A company official speculated that the collapse was caused by a seepage of water into rock crevices between the face of the gorge and the hydraulic canal which fed water into the station. He suggested that there had been an "earth movement" in the area.

MINOR EARTHQUAKE

Dr. Austin C. McTigue, in charge of the Canisius College seismograph in Buffalo, agreed with the "earth movement" idea, saying he believed there had been a minor earthquake. He said Niagara Falls is in an area subject to "adjustments" in the earth's surface.

There was no immediate indication today whether Niagara Mohawk will go right ahead with a replacement project—which might cost well over $50,000,000 at current construction costs. Power needs of the area, however, indicate that some means of restoring the supply level quickly must be found.

Authorities said a full inspection of the remains will have to be made before any decision is reached.

Arena Planning 'Rock and Roll' Summer Dances

Arrangements are underway at Memorial Arena for a series of summer dances featuring instruction in the recent "rock-and-roll" craze.

Rock and roll succeeded jiving, which succeeded jitterbugging, which succeeded the Charleston which succeeded the tribal dances of the Zulus, according to one popular train of thought. Some students of the dance think the cycle is now almost complete.

Manager Joe Dukowski says tentative plans are for Saturday night 8 to 11 dances with a student admission of 50 cents, starting June 30. He hopes to bring here as instructor Claudette Ayres, who was 12 years with Ziegfield Follies, and some of her prize dance students who took part in a similar instruction in Spokane.

Special lighting and curtains will be installed and music will be "piped in" from a Spokane radio station, with co-operation of a local station. A Victoria dancing academy will provide instruction also during the season.

PGE Will Pay, Rotarians Told

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway from now on is going to pay back to British Columbians their long-time investment in it, William Anderson, PGE official, told the Rotary Club here Thursday.

"We're going to be making a profit," he predicted.

The extension between Squamish and Vancouver will be "running full blast before the summer is out," he said, and it was expected steel will be laid from Prince Rupert to Dawson Creek by December, 1957.

Business already is far in advance of forecasts, he said.

Thrown Baseball Kills Schoolboy

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — Gary Bitely, 12, was injured fatally Thursday when struck on the head by a baseball in a game during gymnasium period at a grade-school playground. Police said Gary was hit while running for first base after hitting the ball into the infield. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bitely, he died of a skull fracture.

CANADA'S BIG PIPELINE ROUTES

This map shows natural-gas pipelines being built or projected in Canada and their connections with United States lines. The big line of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. starts near the Alberta-Saskatchewan border and runs eastward to Montreal. The Westcoast Transmission Co. pipeline from the Peace River gas fields to Vancouver is nearing completion and there are plans to link it with the U.S. Pacific Northwest system.

SIGNING OF PIPE BILL WAS NO FORMALITY

OTTAWA (CP) — Signing of the trans-Canada pipeline agreement turned out to be no mere formality.

The cabinet, meeting in Prime Minister St. Laurent's office, went over the wording of the agreement.

Lawyers posed technical questions.

Then, when the cabinet okay was given, legal men said the company signers—Trans-Canada president N. E. Tanner and secretary A. D. Nesbitt—must be informed in their office, and only in their office, that the agreement was ready to be signed.

Mr. Tanner and Mrs. Nesbitt took off in a taxi for their legal office five blocks away. Then Col. M. W. Kynch, secretary of the corporation, followed them and gave them the legal message on their premises.

They returned immediately and the signing began—about two hours after the principals had been summoned.

IT'S SOMETHING OF A HABIT

Old 'Granite Face' Gets His Own Way

By DON PEACOCK

OTTAWA (CP)—Out of his hearing, some call him "granite face." To his face, others use the more affectionate "C.D." But no matter what you call him, Clarence Decatur Howe is a power in the land.

And at 70 he has lost none of the drive that made him a millionaire at 40, and a member of the federal government just nine days after his first crack at politics in 1935. He's never sat anywhere in Parliament except on the cabinet bench.

CENTRAL FIGURE

More often than not, he has been the centre of controversy.

As for the names he's called and the frequent accusation that he prefers his own rules to Parliament's, Mr. Howe added: "That's all part of the game. It's the first time the Tories have had something to kick about, and they're kicking."

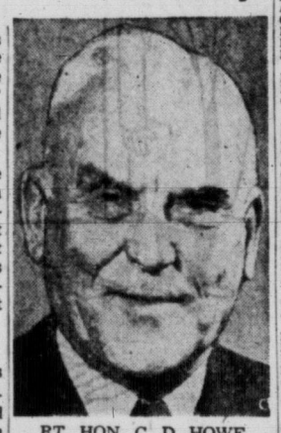
During a hot debate the white-haired, craggy-faced minister slouches in his seat, crosses his legs, leans his neck against the back of his chair and props a knee against his desk.

SELF-CONTAINED

He listens and looks, peering from under his shaggy brows. If the speaking member is provocative, he will growl out interjections.

He relishes a fight, but frequently in the middle of one he steps out for a smoke. In the theatre they might call it scene-stealing. His stroll up the aisle is done with arresting casualness. He is already fumbling for his cigarettes—one is usually in his mouth, unlit, before he disappears behind the curtains along the side of the chamber.

When he speaks in the Commons, he pauses readily to hear interjections and questions, sometimes asking that they be repeated. His replies are often spiced with references to members as "junior" or "buster."



RT. HON. C. D. HOWE

Mr. Howe is an engineer and proud of it. He made his fortune building grain elevators in western Canada before his entry into politics as Liberal member for Port Arthur in 1935.

On this aspect of the minister, John Diefenbaker (PC-Prince Albert) said that during the pipeline debate that just because Mr. Howe is an engineer he "can't ditch, dam and drain all parliamentary privilege in one afternoon."

Of all his projects, the gas pipeline might be his biggest. He told the reporter it is the "greatest project in the country." And more than once he has told the Commons that the $375,000,000 project will involve an additional $1,000,000,000 in subsequent developments.

It might also be his last major undertaking. He hinted at retirement a few nights ago in the Commons.

"I am getting on in years and this may be the last big project which I will be called on to undertake for the government of Canada," he said.

Pipeline Builders Hunt Men, Equipment

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Telegrams were speeding across the continent today to line up about 2,500 experienced and hard-to-find pipeline builders and approximately $10,000,000 worth of mechanical monsters to lay pipe from the Alberta-Saskatchewan border into Winnipeg by the year end.

The race is on to get the prairie section of the pipeline into Winnipeg on or before Dec. 1 to meet a Dec. 31 deadline for having Alberta natural gas available commercially in Winnipeg.

With the pipeline battle now ended on Parliament Hill there was a sense of relief among government supporters. Opposition members—CCF and Progressive Conservatives—were determined neither to forgive nor to forget the government's heavy-handed tactics in riding the pipeline bill roughshod through Parliament.

Thursday night at 9.30 the government won its race to have the agreement signed, sealed and delivered before midnight June 7.

NEW DEADLINE

Another deadline must now be met. Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. will seek to raise sufficient funds from the Canadian public and from other investors to repay the $80,000,000 loan the company will receive from the federal treasury under the pipeline law. The company must raise the money before April 2, 1957. The company will be raising more than the $80,000,00 in order to build the line links through to Toronto and Montreal.

Nathan Tanner, president of Trans-Canada, said Thursday he "hoped" to be going into the market to raise funds before the year end. He stressed that the $80,000,000 was only a "loan" not a "gift" from the treasury.

"The government is either going to get its money back with 5 per cent interest or it is going to get a pipeline for 90 per cent or the cost of it. We are gambling the $15,000,000 we have invested that we can build it and repay this money," he said.

Government Aid to Buy Fodder Asked by B.C. Dairy Farmers

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Fraser Valley dairy farmers will approach the provincial government for assistance to meet the current hay emergency.

Close to 400 dairymen, meeting here Thursday night, gave unanimous support to three resolutions.

Because almost $4,000,000 worth of hay will have to be brought into the Fraser Valley this year, farmers will ask that the government declare "a disaster area" and provide a subsidy for all hay costs over $25 a ton.

The dairymen are also asking for immediate implementation of formula pricing and the equalization provisions of the new milk act.

And the government will also be asked to enact "emergency loan legislation" to assist the dairy farmer in his purchase of hay.

The recommendations will be taken first to the special meeting of reeves and mayors in the Fraser valley at New Westminster next Wednesday night.

Most speakers were insistent that dairy farmers will need assistance in buying the hay.

Lawsuit Threat In School Dispute

Nanaimo Father Demands Suspension Of Son Be Stricken From Records

NANAIMO (CP) — Legal action may be taken by the father of one of 130 students suspended for one day from Nanaimo Senior High School.

Wilfred Moorhouse said his son was sent home Wednesday when he failed to turn in a written guarantee called for by District 68 school board.

The students, suspended because of a strike, returned to school Wednesday.

Mr. Moorhouse said he objected to the preface in the form:

"If re-admitted to school, I solemnly promise to be obedient and respectful to my teachers and will observe the rules and regulations of the school."

RIGHT QUESTIONED

He said he doubted the school has the right to refuse to allow his son to return and that he is prepared to take legal action if his son's suspension is not expunged from school records.

On the day of the strike, Mr. Moorhouse said, he had driven his son to school five minutes after the assembly bell because the boy had required treatment to an eye injury before going to school. Because he was not in his place on time, he said, the boy was listed with the ones who were striking.

Fire Monty, MP Urges

Statements made here by Field Marsha. Viscount Montgomery during his visit to Victoria last week reverberated in the British House of Commons today.

Denis Healey, Labor member of Parliament, urged that Viscount Montgomery be dismissed from his post as deputy supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

He gave notice he would ask the minister of defence in the Commons next week to request the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to end his appointment because Montgomery's public statements "are not compatible with NATO policy."

At Patricia Bay airport on June 1, Montgomery said if anyone anywhere in the world started aggression "we should give them the works from the word go with atom bombs, hydrogen bombs, with the biggest thing we've got and with everything we've got."

The field marshal added he was speaking as a soldier and did not know what "my political masters" would say about it.

Traffic Tied Up At Cowichan Bay

DUNCAN — Traffic at Cowichan Bay was tied up for three hours Wednesday when a truck loaded with oxygen and acetylene cylinders left the highway and crashed into a telephone pole.

No one was injured. Owner of the truck is Dowell's Cartage & Storage Ltd. of Victoria.

. . . EISENHOWER

has had one intraveneous injection of dextrose sugar. He said Dr. Snyder has called in Dr. Francis Pruitt, chief of medicine at Walter Reed, for consultation.

The press secretary said that the president has not been in severe pain but that there was some soreness.

Earlier, Hagerty had described the president's difficulty as an "upset stomach" and insisted "it is not an illness but an upset."

All of the president's engagements for the day were postponed. These included a morning cabinet meeting and a flight to his country home at Gettysburg, Pa., about noon.

Thursday night, Eisenhower attended the annual dinner of the White House News Photographer's Association.

The meal served to him was especially prepared on instructions from Dr. Snyder. It differed from that served to other guests chiefly in the absence of a rich soup and a sauce on a fillet mignon.

He appeared to enjoy himself, and told his hosts in a brief talk that he enjoyed the entertainment provided.

At the noon news conference, press secretary Hagerty said this is the first time Eisenhower has suffered a "stomach upset" since last Sept. 24. That day, before the White House announced the president had suffered a heart attack, his aides characterized the ailment as a "digestive upset."

Eisenhower was in Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Denver for seven weeks after the heart attack. He then spent several weeks more at his Gettysburg estate, returning to his White House duties early in January.

Snow in Newfoundland

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) —Several inches of snow fell here today and for a time slowed traffic to a crawl on city streets.

RAIN RUINING BERRY CROP IN SAANICH

Continual rain and damp weather since the start of June threatens to ruin a $400,000 bumper strawberry crop in Saanich.

Picking has been brought to a standstill throughout the Saanich peninsula and mould has started to spread rapidly through crops.

Herbert Bickford, president of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association, said today the industry already has lost between $100,000 and $150,000 as the result of the rainy weather.

"It will ruin the whole crop if it continues much longer," he said. "Even green berries are turning mouldy in the fields."

The Saanich peninsula has had over an inch of rain since June 1.

The industry ships an average of about 50 carloads—400,000 crates—to eastern Canada. This does not include jam berries.

Weatherman William Mackie has forecast unsettled weather for the next two days with possible scattered showers Saturday and Sunday. Victoria, he said, has received almost an inch of rain since June 1, but in the outlying districts the precipitation has been much heavier.

Flt.-Sgt. Ed Peerens Selected Top Cadet in Ladysmith Squadron

LADYSMITH — Group Captain R. C. Weston, officer commanding Comox RCAF Station, was inspecting officer at the annual parade of Ladysmith Air Cadet Squadron, held here Tuesday.

The parade, for the first time, was handled entirely by the cadets. NCOs took over all the officers' posts and issued all the commands to take the squadron through the intricate drill movements of a ceremonial parade.

Flight Sergeant Ed Peerens acted as squadron commander, Sgt. Jim Rice served as adjutant, Sgt. Bob Shilito was in command of No. 1 Flight and Flight Sergeant Shirley Burgess was in command of No. 2 Flight. Sgt. Tom Campbell acted as squadron warrant officer.

The inspecting party was comprised of Group Captain Weston; FO J. Wanley, cadet liaison officer at Comox RCAF station; Pat Ryan, a member of the local air cadet committee, and James Brown, vice-chairman of the B.C. committee, Air Cadet League of Canada.

A highlight of the program was the presentation of awards by Group Captain Weston.

Flight Sergeant Peerens won trophy for the outstanding cadet of the year, and Sgt. Jim Rice won the Pat Ryan trophy for marksmanship and received a first class crest for top marks in DCRA competitions.

The RCAF flying training scholarship was awarded to Sgt. Tom Campbell and Flt. Sgt. Shirley Burgess was presented with a flying training scholarship by the Ladysmith Lions Club in recognition of her long service and hard work in the squadron.

Second class marksmanship crests were won by David Olexa, Bob Blair, Paul Day, Brian Doherty and Ed Peerens, and Howard Anderson was awarded a junior marksman prize.

Cadette Phyllis Johnson was the winner of the cadette proficiency award and Cadette June Burgess won a prize for marksmanship.

A local army unit will defend its top shooting honors at Heals Range, Sunday.

Fortieth Technical Squadron, RCEME, will compete for continued possession of the RCEME marksmanship trophy for Dominion-wide competition. The Victoria unit has held the trophy for four years.

Also up for competition is the Western Command Trophy. The Victoria militia unit has also held this trophy for four years.

Last Sunday, Capt. C. H. MacBrattney topped 25 opponents to win the Sid Carr Memorial Trophy.

LONG PLANNING NEEDED

Pageant of Old RN Base Suggested for Centennial

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A Navy Week pageant depicting Esquimalt as the original British navy base on the Pacific Coast is suggested for British Columbia's centennial celebrations in 1958.

The suggestion comes from George I. Warren, chief of Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

"I think we should emphasize Esquimalt's history as a naval base," Mr. Warren said today. "Long before we had our own Canadian navy, British men o'war were based there and Esquimalt was known — and feared—as the first British navy base on the Pacific coast.

"If we could depict this in a colorful pageant. either on land or at sea, we would have a first class attraction and one that would be instructive to young Victorians as well. Perhaps the British navy would send out a few ships for the occasion."

Another centennial idea — a military tattoo presenting B.C. regiments, old and new, in colorful array—comes from Arnold Webb, assistant secretary of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

"This tattoo would take us back to the first days of Fort Victoria when Britinh soldiers in scarlet uniforms first set up camp here. And we could round it out with Indians in tribal costume and impersonations of the old Hudson's Bay traders.

"We could make it a parade of B.C. histroy, staged as vividly and attractively as our resources and ingenuity will permit."

Mr. Webb also favors a presentation of Victoria's history as a port, and suggests as its title "A Century of Shipping."

Public Not Yet Stirred to Interest

With British Columbia's centennial year still two years ahead, not many people have yet given much thought to how it should be celebrated, though a centennial committee has already been set up with headquarters in the Weiler Building. Chairman is L. J. Wallace and Larry H. McCance has been appointed executive secretary.

Lance H. Whittaker is chairman of a sub-committee on community activities. All communities and unorganized areas throughout the province have been asked to set up local centennial committees.

"The celebrations will take months of thought and careful planning," Mr. Whittaker said, "and the sooner we all start thinking about it the better."

September is target date for formation of 200 community committees.

Brief interviews with Victoria citizens suggest there is no dearth of ideas. Here are a few of them:

Mrs. H. L. Farrell suggests a massed choir of Greater Victoria schoolchildren to be held in the open, possibly in Beacon Hill Park.

Members of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce favor a paint-up, clean-up campaign to include all downtown buildings

A commissionaire at the Parliament Buildings proposes a grand parade of navy, army and air force personnel followed by a parade of veterans.

Veteran scouter Freeman King would like to see a mass parade of scouts, cubs, guides, brownies and rangers. (Plans are already being discussed for a bigger and better Scoutorama.)

Motoring enthusiast Jack Stanisen is for organizing a parade of old crocks (vintage autos) from Nanaimo to Victoria, the last to reach the winning post being the winner.

Other suggestions:

A marathon bicycle race from Campbell River to Victoria.

A scale model reproduction of Fort Victoria as it was in 1858.

An inter-city band contest.

An exhibition of Indian handicrafts.

Highland games.

A sports regatta open to men, women and children of all ages.

Beacon fires around the coast.

A mass religious rally held in the open with all churches invited to participate.

A travelling exhibit of B.C. industries.

A running performance of movies on B.C.

Gunnery Instructor From England At Work Point

British anti-aircraft gunnery instructor Maj. D. E. Burchett, now attached to Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), Picton, Ont., has arrived at Work Point to give instruction at militia camps this summer.

He will train 5 Harbor Defence Battery at Fort Mary Hill from June 18 and Vancouver anti-aircraft militia from late June to early July at Albert Head.

Maj. Burchett arrived recently at Picton with his family from British School of Anti-Aircraft, Manorbier, South Wales, and will return to the United Kingdom in October.

Vogee Leadership Inspiring, Say Teachers

Two former Mt. Newton High School teachers said Thursday Arthur E. Vogee, facing demotion from the post of principal, made improvements at the school and was a good leader.

"I found his leadership inspiring," said Peter Thomas, who was at Mount Newton for two years under Mr. Vogee, and now on staff at Royal Oak High School. "He showed good judgment and his relations with the staff were excellent."

Speaking before a board of reference called to hear Mr. Vogee's appeal against demotion by Saanich school board, he said students showed respect to Mr. Vogee, and looked to him as an advisor.
